Freedom Train in Pomona Monday

The American Freedom Train will arrive at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona late Monday afternoon, with opening ceremonies scheduled for Tuesday at 10 a.m.

Representatives from Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Riverside counties, plus those from the local host cities of Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Walnut and Chino will take part in the opening ceremonies. The Pomona High School Band will perform.

The Freedom Train will open to the public Tuesday at 8 a.m. Hours of operation will be 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily through Dec. 30, except for Christmas Eve when closure will be at 3 p.m. and Christmas Day, when it will be closed all day.

The 26-car train, specially decorated for the holidays, carries hundreds of historical documents, artworks and other items of past and present American culture, from George Washington's personal copy of the Constitution to a moon rock.

The Pomona stop is part of the Freedom Train's 17,000-mile, cross country trip sponsored by the American Freedom Train Foundation, a non-profit, non-political organization with headquarters at Bailey's Crossroads, Va.

A special supplement in Monday's edition of the Progress Bulletin will highlight the Pomona visit of the American Freedom Train with stories and photographs about many of the priceless historical documents and artifacts to be displayed.

More than $20 million has gone into the production of the Freedom Train.

In addition to the Freedom Train itself, visitors in Pomona will be entertained daily by local bands, dancers and musical groups.

Dec. 23 — Pomona High School band, Girls Unlimited singers, Pomona High School Chamber Singers, Vina Danks Middle School stage band, Ganesha High School Madrigal Singers, CAST Gymnastic Team and the Salvation Army Congress Hall Band.

Dec. 24 — Girls Unlimited, Garey High School Voyagers and David Barnes' magic show.

Dec. 26 — Polynesian Dancers, Bonita High School's "Ye Olde Funk Shoppe," Society for the Preservation of Dixieland Jazz, Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

Fires over U.S. take 37 lives

VAIN RESCUE EFFORT

New York City and Transit Authority police push against subway car to pull an unidentified woman from between the platform and the train Saturday on an elevated platform in Brooklyn. The woman fell or jumped in front of the train. She was pronounced dead at the scene.

Mother, 6 children, father, 5 young, victims in two blazes

A suburban Chicago mother and six children and an upstate New York father and five children were among the victims of deadly fires across the country over the weekend.

By late Saturday, the toll stood at 37.

The dead also included an Omaha, Neb., couple; a father and two young sons and a man and his daughter near Pittsburgh; two men in Memphis, Tenn.; a 44-year-old Philadelphia woman; a 9-year-old Hughson, Calif., girl and her visiting grandmother and uncle; and six persons in three Maryland fires.

Other fire deaths were a father and young son and daughter in Mohegan Lake, N.Y. In Virginia, a 60-year-old Richmond woman perished in a blaze at her home and a 66-year-old man died when a fire broke out in his house in Portsmouth.

Firemen blamed toxic fumes from burning plastic and furniture for the deaths early Saturday in Tinley Park southwest of Chicago of Josephine Shine, 38; five children between 3 and 14 from a previous marriage, and an 11-year-old foster child.

Mrs. Shine's husband, Thomas, a Chicago police detective, was at work when the fire broke out.

In a Reading Center, N.Y., farmhouse another fire killed Douglas Parker, in his 30s, and five children, ages 7 to 12. His wife, Bonnie, 32, escaped with two other children. All three were in fair condition at Schuyler Hospital in nearby Montour Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rasmussen, both 53, died when a fire destroyed their home in an Omaha suburb. Three fire companies fought that fire. The cause was undetermined.

Killed in a smoky house fire in California's San Joaquin Valley were Andrea Adams, 9, and Ruth Mary Adams, 63, and James F. Adams Jr., 39, both of Seaford, Del.

Andrea's mother, Francine M. Gasper, 36, and Mrs. Gasper's second husband's son, Thomas Gasper Jr., 9, escaped through a window. Police said Gasper was away when the fire started before dawn.

The Maryland fires killed two children in an East Baltimore rowhouse and four other persons in two fires in the suburban Washington suburbs of Rockville and Bethesda.

Police identified the Baltimore victims as Crystal Lawler, 2, and her brother, Andre, 14 months, and two of the Rockville dead as Jerimial Dwyer, 24, and Susan Wodjag, 14. A third victim of the fire which started in an upholstered chair was not identified.

Jose Campos, 7, died of burns suffered when a cardboard fort in which he was playing at his parent's Bethesda apartment was ignited by a lighted candle he was carrying, police said.

In Philadelphia, a mattress fire killed Jacqueline Fields, 44. Her husband, Joseph, 44, found by firemen in another bedroom, was in critical condition at Mercy Catholic Medical Center with burns over 30 per cent of his body.

In Memphis, Michael D. Arnold, 20, died of smoke inhalation when flames swept through his apartment early Saturday. The other fire victim was Lonnie Patterson, 76, found late Friday in the charred remains of his four-room frame house in rural Shelby County. Fire officials said that the fire began near a wood-burning stove.

Two fires in the Pittsburgh suburbs of Oakdale and Bellewood snuffed out the lives of William Fullum, 26, and his sons William Jr., 5, and Kenneth, 3, and those of James E. Renney, 57, his daughter Pamela. 14 The causes of those fires were unknown.

Ford hits decision by Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said Saturday that Cuba's decision to send troops into Angola "ends any efforts at all to have friendly relations" with the Cuban government and that Soviet interference in Angola "doesn't help the continuation of detente."

He declared it is "unwise and very harmful for any power such as the Soviet Union and Cuba to try to dominate any government in that country."

At an impromptu news conference, Ford also said:

—He will sign the $18 billion tax bill approved by Congress Friday and he will propose a further tax cut of $10 billion. He said this would require equal spending restraints by Congress.

—He will run on his own record in 1976 as president, and "I'm convinced we're in good shape in most states and we are working to improve where we're not."

—He expects to make his final decision Monday on whether to sign an energy bill. He has not decided whether to sign a bill expanding labor picketing rights.

Ford's remarks on Angola came one day after the Senate cut off all funds in a defense appropriations bill that would allow the Central Intelligence Agency to aid one of the antiSoviet factions in Angola.

Large U.S. cities losing population

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine of the nation's 10 largest cities in 1970 have lost population, based on new 1973 estimates, the Census Bureau says.

The bureau said two on the 1970 list — Washington and Cleveland — have dropped from the top 10 entirely, displaced by San Diego, Calif., and San Antonio, Tex.

San Diego ranked 14th in the official 1970 census and ninth in the 1973 estimates. San Antonio was 15th in the census and 10th in the 1973 estimates.

Washington, which was ninth in 1970, dropped to 12th in the 1973 estimates; and Cleveland went from 10th to 15th.

The 1973 figures, which the Census Bureau prepared this month on all U.S. cities, reflect two already established trends: the dropping of population in older cities in the East and Midwest, some of it because of the flight to suburbs; and the growth of populations in the Southeast and West.

The estimates are on a city only basis and do not rank metropolitan areas — statistics that the bureau keeps track of separately.

The 1973 estimates were required by the federal revenuesharing law and are the most recent available, a bureau spokesman said.

1. New York 7,646,818, down from the 1970 official figure of 7,895,563; 2. Chicago 3,172,929, down from 3,369,357; 3. Los Angeles 2,746,854, down from 2,811,801; 4. Philadelphia 1,861,719, down from 1,949,996; 5. Detroit 1,386,817, down from 1,514,063; 6. Houston 1,320,018, up from 1,233,535; 7. Baltimore 877,838, down from 905,787; 8. Dallas 815,866, down from 844,401; 9. San Diego 757,148, up from 697,027; and 10. San Antonio 756,226, up from 707,503.

Santa snatched; may be held for ransom

"They may be holding him for ransom."

That was the ominous word from a dispatcher at the Claremont Police Department, who reported that someone made off with Santa Claus.

Police were searching for unknown persons who took a plastic three-foot Santa from the front porch of a home at 1562 Whittier Ave. late Friday night.

"He disappeared under mysterious circumstances," explained dispatcher Darlene McDonald. "We haven't had any calls yet but he may well have been kidnaped."

The suspects in the case may have also tried to enter the home of John Smeltzer, Santa's owner, police related. Window screens at the house were removed.

United Airlines strikers vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Airlines' 16,700 striking mechanics vote today on a new contract which, if ratified, would end the two-week walkout which disrupted the Christmas travel plans of thousands.

United, the nation's largest domestic airline, is expected to resume flights Monday, with full service slated by Christmas Eve, if the agreement is accepted.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ten-year-old Andres Hernandez, blind and starving, groped through the streets of Tegucigalpa, Honduras, begging for food. That was Christmas Past, 1974.

On the eve of Christmas Present, 1975, Andres ate good New Orleans food every day. He was clean. He was happy. And, best of all, he could see shapes and forms, even his Christmas presents.

Andres never had many Christmas presents before, but since he was 5 Andres couldn't have seen them any way. He could tell darkness from light. That was all.

A team of six surgeons at Ochsner Medical Institutions gave him his biggest Christmas gift with two delicate operations, successful against heavy odds.

"We don't have Santa Claus in Honduras," he said in Spanish. "But, we have St. Nicholas, and that's the same thing."

He wriggled a little and his face split into a wide grin. "Oh, they have lots of pretty Christmas trees in Honduras," he said.

No one asked how he knew.

"There he would be, his eyes bandaged, blind, being prodded and tested, not hearing a word he could understand, among a bunch of strangers, and he still grinned."

The miracle of Andres Hernandez Perez began when Paul Holsen, a Honduran businessman, saw the boy begging in Tegucigalpa. He talked by ham radio to Tony Paladino of New Orleans who contacted Ochsner. Drs. Williamson and Robert Schimek, chief of Ochsner ophthalmology, agreed to operate without charge.

A Honduran radio telethon raised $800, and the Honduran airline flew him to New Orleans free. The Help Honduras Committee, formed in New Orleans when Hurricane Fifi decimated Honduras, provided other help.

Andres lost his left eye to infection, but the doctor who removed it didn't have the equipment to help the right eye. "When he got here, he was suffering from glaucoma, cataracts, a scarred cornea and the tissues of the front of his eye were just garbage," said Williamson.

The surgical team created a new window or iris on one side of the corneal scar, and tried to reduce the pressure of the glaucoma. Then, it transplanted a cornea and repaired the tissues inside the eye.

"He'll never be a jet pilot, but our goal is to fix him up so he can navigate by himself, can see enough for that," Williamson said.

New battles feared as Lebanese sheik slain

Assassination wave may escalate

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Sheik Kassem Imad, 53-year-old Moslem governor of north Lebanon was assassinated in a hail of machine-gun fire outside his Tripoli home Saturday, raising fears of fierce new battles in Lebanon's civil war. His wife was wounded in the attack.

"I am afraid his assassination confirms classified information I have been receiving the last two days that a wave of political assassinations will be staged to escalate the civil war," said Interior Minister Camille Chamoun.

In Beirut, rightist Christian and leftist Moslem gunmen were reported pulling out of some street positions under a five-day-old truce. Police said 12 persons were killed in scattered clashes.

Security forces reported the northern region quiet following Imad's assassination but said streets in Tripoli, about 60 miles north of Beirut, remained unsafe because of marauding gunmen.

There was no official word on the identity of Imad's killers. The governor belonged to the Moslem Druze sect, whose political chief Kamal Junblatt is the most prominent spokesman for Lebanon's left-wing parties.

Tripoli, the country's second-largest city after Beirut, is controlled by left-wing Moslem leader Farouk Mokaddem. The national government of Premier Rashid Karami has had only limited authority in the area for the last four months.

Imad, as Karami's representative, had been playing a neutral role in fierce fighting between Mokaddem's militia and Christian gunmen from the nearby town of Zagharta — home base of President Suleiman Franjieh.

The fighting, raging since April, is over Moslem demands for political and economic reforms and Christian insistence they can come only after the government clamps down on the Palestinian guerrillas.

Chihabi met with Junblatt, Maronite Christian Patriarch Antonius Khreish and Franjieh. Sources said the outcome of his probe could determine whether Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam comes to Beirut to direct the Syrian move.

Khaddam has arranged two settlements since spring, both of which collapsed in further fighting. He was reported reluctant to commit his prestige again until chances looked favorable.

Meanwhile, storekeepers and apartment dwellers in the battle-torn downtown Beirut hotel area moved in to survey civil war damage under protection from army and security forces.

A French strip-tease artist known as Madame Nicole broke down in tears when she returned home for the first time since the fighting to find her apartment ransacked.

Her downstairs neighbor, an appliance dealer, supervised workmen plugging doors to his store with concrete blocks and cement to prevent further looting of her merchandise.

Betty outshines him in the polls, Ford complains

WASHINGTON (AP) — A smiling President Ford noted Saturday that he is "embarrassed all the time" by the fact that his wife's polls and photographs come out better than his.

He told a news conference that he understands Newsweek magazine this week is using his wife, Betty, on "a little more complimentary cover" than it used for him. The magazine's cover last week was labeled "Ford in Trouble."

YES, VIRGINIA, THERE IS A SANTA CLAUS

William Galland of Sacramento, right, the 100-year-old man whose three-wheeled cycle was stolen last week, looks at returned bike after it was delivered by Santa. The cycle was taken by some youths and found abandoned and in need of repair. Santa, better known as Henry Faniagua, a bike shop owner, rebuilt it to new condition and delivered it. Galland said he forgives the youths as he was once young and energetic.

Raised calf for a year

Loses money, changes tune

ANOKA, Minn. (AP) — "Big Mouth" walked to his death at a slaughter house and with him went the boast of a city businessman who thought he could make a profit by raising the Holstein calf for a year.

"I lost money, there's no doubt of that," said Arnell Beckman.

Beckman, 56, who runs an oil distributorship and gas station, got the bull 13 months ago after he complained about National Farmers Organization demonstrations in which calves were killed. He said there should be less wasteful ways of protesting low livestock prices.

Beckman wrote NFO members that he felt he could raise calves at a profit. One letter brought a response from Orville Voeltz, an NFO member from Emerald, Wis., who gave Beckman a calf.

"Big Mouth" came to live in the backyard and shed at Beckman's home in Coon Rapids, a Minneapolis suburb. The animal's name came from a comment by Beckman's 18-year-old son Steve: "If Dad would keep his big mouth shut, he wouldn't get himself into these jams."

The experiment ended when Beckman had the animal weighed: about 75 pounds when Beckman acquired it, the Holstein checked in at 1,040 pounds. Beckman then led Big Mouth to a locker plant and waiting butchers, followed by reporters, photographers and "I-told-you-so" NFO members from Wisconsin, Voeltz among them.

Beckman indicated his costs might have been less had he been a farmer raising a number of cattle. He said feed for Big Mouth had cost him $374. Other expenses, including a halter and various supplies, ran the total to $422.

The animal produced 640 pounds of dressed beef, which Voeltz estimated was worth 49 cents a pound for a total of $313.60. He calculated a net loss of $108.40.

THE WEIGH-IN

Tearful reunion for Soviet Nobel Prize winner, wife

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov had a tearful reunion with his wife Saturday at Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport. She brought him the Nobel Peace Prize medal and diploma that Soviet officials wouldn't let him go to Norway to collect in person.

Customs officials seized copies of Sakharov's books published in the West and four copies of a book of Osip Mandelshtam's poems that Mrs. Sakharov said was published in the Soviet Union.

Asked about the gold Nobel Peace Prize medal and the diploma, Mrs. Sakharov said, "The medal they didn't take and the diploma they didn't take."

Mrs. Sakharov left Moscow for Italy in August where she underwent a successful eye operation. She was abroad when Sakharov was awarded the peace prize, and when Soviet officials denied him a visa to go to Oslo for the Dec. 10 ceremony Mrs. Sakharov went in his place.

She arrived from Paris on an Air France flight. The reunion was delayed by the formalities at the busy airport and a thorough check of Mrs. Sakharov's luggage by customs officials.

Some passengers on the flight were leaving the airport within an hour, but it took Mrs. Sakharov 2½ hours. Sakharov arrived at the waiting room with a bunch of carnations wrapped in a newspaper.

"I got them on the street, they are frozen," he said. The nuclear physicist and spokesman for human rights in the Soviet Union stood on a bench to peer over the partition that separates the waiting room from the area where the passengers disembark.

"Aha, there she is," Sakharov shouted. He waved and blew her a kiss. A blue uniformed airport official called to him not to stand on the bench.

For more than two hours Sakharov paced in the waiting room. When she had finally cleared customs, Mrs. Sakharov went out another exit and Sakharov, the family and friends rushed outside and to the other exit.

Sakharov and his wife embraced and kissed. She was overcome and wept. She greeted her daughter and son by a previous marriage and her daughter's 2-year-old son.

"I didn't bring with me any bad literature," Mrs. Sakharov said. "I brought with me all publications of your book, Norwegian, Dutch, Danish — everything that was available."

She said customs officials seized the book along with the Mandelshtam volumes that were published in the Soviet Union. The Soviets have published the poet — who died in the Stalin purges — in very small editions. The copies are not on general sale in the Soviet Union, but are shipped abroad for sale or sold in Moscow at special hard currency shops patronized by foreigners.

Although she returned with the medal and diploma from the Nobel ceremony, Mrs. Sakharov left the $143,000 prize money in the West. She had said earlier the money would be left in the West because if she attempted to bring it to Moscow Soviet officials would take a major share of it.

Two killed in plane crash

Two San Bernardino County Men were burned to death in a single-engine plane crash about 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Etiwanda.

The county deputy coroner has identified the victims as Wendall Phillips, 35, of 18880 Fifth St., Bloomington, and Charles Zimmerman, 48, of 8929 Laurel Ave., Fontana.

The Sheriff's Department was unable to state where the plane had taken off from or its destination.

Car pools—one area where you can save money

Car pools formed during the energy crisis to conserve gasoline are still thriving in many parts of the country, according to officials who say sharing a ride has become a money-saving habit for millions of workers.

The Federal Highway Administration, which uses the slogan "Double Up, America," to encourage commuters to share vehicles, estimated more than 20 million persons use car pools every day.

Comparisons between car pools now and at the height of the gasoline shortage in early 1974 are difficult because many of the shared-ride programs were started on an informal basis and no statistics were kept. There are indications, however, that interest in car pools continues to grow, although at a slower pace than previously.

The federal government has provided funds for 125 car pool projects since the energy crisis struck, with about one-third of them set up in the past year. The money has been used to establish special parking areas, reserved highway lanes and computerized programs to match up riders and drivers.

Car pools generally were most successful in areas where there are concentrated centers of industry and housing; they failed to catch on in places where population and businesses were widely scattered.

Officials said money rather than fuel conservation has become the prime motivation for people to use car pools. There no longer is any shortage of gasoline, but rising costs and publicity about the monetary savings — which can run more than $1,000 a year per person depending on the size of the auto, the length of the trip and the number of participants — have kept the car pool alive.

An Associated Press survey showed several companies not only are encouraging car pools, but also are using vans to transport employes.

The Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. has purchased 75 vans over the past three years and has given them to employes who, in return for the use of the vehicle in their private lives, agree to pick up other workers. The company pays maintenance and insurance; the employes pay eight cents a mile for off-duty use of the vans.

Herbert Knutzen, a senior sales coordinator for 3M, is one of the drivers. He travels 27 miles to work, picking up 11 other employes.

"It takes me longer to commute," said Knutzen, "but I benefit from having the van to use away from work. I'd have to buy another car otherwise because my wife needs one."

Connecticut started a car pool program in 1972, and Charles J. Gudaitis, a planner in the Department of Transportation, said the effort to provide commuter buses and parking for car poolers has been gaining steadily.

"We think we have had better success than any other part of the country," he said. Gudaitis said the use of special parking lots and buses increased 40 to 45 per cent between 1974 and 1975.

He said the department tells people, "With the cost of everything else going up — groceries, car servicing, fuel — there is one area where you can save money."

Neighhboring Massachusetts started a project this year, called MassPool, to help businesses with 250 or more employes get involved in car pooling. Ninety per cent of the money for the program is coming from the federal government. The state is providing technical aid for ride-sharing programs, promotional services and computer time.

Officials say the popularity of car pools declined slightly in the past year, but report that a newly opened High Occupancy Vehicle Lane on an area freeway has boosted interest once again.

An Omaha, Neb., organization called Metro Area Carpool is in the midst of a study to determine the actual number of people who have joined car pools. The group's manager said 80 of the city's largest companies are participating in car pool programs.

She said that when MAC was founded a year and a half ago, it got only one request a day for a car pool matchup; in November, the group got almost 200 calls from prospective participants.

"It's not so much the fear that we'll run out of gas that makes them car pool, but the idea of saving money" she said.

Fromme and Moore cases: what is insanity?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — On separate mornings in September, two California women, considered "strange" by those who knew them, picked up guns and set out to kill President Ford.

Sara Jane Moore, 45, a one-time FBI informant with a history of mental illness, said she shot at Ford for political reasons. Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, 27, a fanatic follower of mass murderer Charles Manson, said she wanted attention for ecological causes and for Manson.

In both bizarre cases the mental competence of the defendants was questioned. But both troubled women were ruled fit to stand trial.

Their cases, disposed of rapidly by court standards, raised again lingering questions about the complex role of psychiatry in the law.

Does a defendant show insanity or incompetency by courtroom behavior? Should a defendant in a shaky emotional state be allowed to be his own attorney? Should defendant — or lawyer — decide whether to present an insanity defense?

And, most importantly, are the legal definitions of insanity and incompetency so vague that they are meaningless?

Wearing a flowing red robe, Miss Fromme stepped from a crowd in Sacramento Sept. 5 and pointed a gun at Ford. Convicted Nov. 26 by a federal court jury, she screamed and threw an apple at a prosecutor last Wednesay when she was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Miss Moore actually fired a shot at Ford outside a downtown San Francisco hotel on Sept. 22, but a bystander deflected the gun and the bullet missed the President. Refusing insanity as defense, she was allowed to plead guilty and will be sentenced next month.

"I agree with people who say that trying to shoot the President is a crazy act in itself," says James Hewitt, the federal public defender who represents Miss Moore.

But there is no law supporting the position that the nature of a crime in itself indicates insanity, and Misses Moore and Fromme convinced court-appointed psychiatrists they were competent to stand trial.

Miss Moore, though described by doctors as "emotionally disturbed" was even found to have been competent on the day she fired at Ford.

Her lawyer, Hewitt, notes: "There is an old question in all the lawbooks which is asked of psychiatrists in cases where the defendant pleads insanity. The question is: 'Would he have done it if there was a policeman standing at his elbow?' Usually, the answer is, 'no,' showing that the defendant knew right from wrong.

"But in Sally's case," Hewitt said of Miss Moore, "there were six policemen standing at her elbow. The question comes up: How sane is a person who does this?"

But the key legal tests of sanity at the time of a crime are: Did the defendant understand the wrongfulness of his actions and was he mentally able to conform his behavior to the standards of the law?

Hewitt planned an insanity defense for Miss Moore, who once was declared psychotic, until she insisted on entering a guilty plea. "I knew what I was doing," she said.

Lawyers disagree whether a defendant who may be mentally impaired should be allowed, as a civil right, to reject an insanity defense.

Had Miss Moore resisted that defense at trial, Hewitt says he would have asked to leave the case, and, if ordered to stay, would have presented the insanity defense anyway.

"Counsel must do what he feels is right," he says,

HOLIDAY DESTINATION

Here's where President Ford will be spending part of the Christmas holidays. Vail, Colo., shown here at night, is the largest single mountain ski complex in North America, containing more than 10 square miles of skiing terrain.

No greeting planned in Vail

Ford's work-vacation all set

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — No banners, brass bands or planned welcoming rallies will greet President Ford in this Rocky Mountain ski resort when he arrives for his winter work-vacation.

"Will it snow?" "Where's the best skiing?" "How is that new bar?" or "Where is a good place to eat?" Those are the major concerns.

It appears that given a choice, folks here would rather have some fresh snow than a presidential visit, but if both arrived at the same time, that would be all right too.

Vail, a ski resort 8,200 feet above sea level, is a place so unnoticing that even a president can find relief and escape from world problems and crowds of well-wishers.

One hundred miles west of Denver, the town of Vail plays host to movie stars and celebrities and has been Ford's vacation home since his days as a congressman from Michigan.

"Have no fear, Air Force One will bring snow," reads a handwritten blackboard note on a midmountain ski lift.

That's the closest to a welcoming banner to be found here. And even that notation is not about matters of state, but is seeking Ford's snow-making powers which dumped more than a foot of snow for his visit last Christmas.

President Ford is scheduled to arrive Tuesday for a seven-day stay with his family. Those to be here for Christmas include First Lady Betty Ford, daughter Susan, sons Steve and Mike, and Mike's wife.

The borrowed home where the Ford family will spend Christmas is nestled against the slopes of Vail Mountain. It has a large decorated Christmas tree in its huge windows, which reach to the top of the A-framed chalet-type home. The front door of the home is decorated in red with an evergreen trim.

As the town began to fill with holiday skiers, the Secret Service set up a control booth outside the home which the Fords borrow from Texas businessman Richard Bass. Soon ropes and lights will surround the home.

Ford is described by ski instructors as a good recreational skier. Last Christmas, his first since becoming president to be spent here, Ford skied the well-groomed runs from the summit of 11,250 feet and the unpacked, deep-powder snow bowls on the south side of Vail Mountain.

Skiers are hoping the President's arrival will again bring snow to replenish the 24-inch snow base which is rapidly being worn away since the last snow on Tuesday.

And, if the President wants to try the night life, the Ink Spots, who play songs of the 1950s, are back in town. President and Mrs. Ford danced cheek-to-cheek to their music at a discotheque during their vacation here in August.

4 men held in robbery of market

Four men have been booked into West End sheriff's substation jail at Ontario and charged with robbery after CHP officers pursued them to Monte Vista Avenue, north of Philadelphia Street, and arrested them.

Bail has been set at $10,000 each for John Pierre Limong, 23, and Victor Ayala Gomez, 34, both of Ontario; Gilbert Herrera Delgado, 36, of Chino; and Gilbert Martinez Jimenez, 41, of Alhambra.

At about 1:35 a.m. Saturday, two men entered the Circle K Market at 5093 Mission Blvd., Ontario, while their companions remained in a car parked at the corner of Fremont and Mission streets.

The quartet were arrested without incident.

Hahn claims youths get soft treatment

Everybody seems to be too soft on juvenile offenders, Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn contends.

He says only 86 of the 15,865 juveniles who were arrested either for breaking into a home or burglary last year were turned over to the California Youth Authority.

One third were released by the sheriff or police departments. Nearly another third were placed on informal probation.

Of the remaining 6,659 cases that went to court, judges dismissed 1,642 cases, sent another 2,640 home on probation, placed 559 in special homes, sent 439 to county camps and 86 to CYA.

Hahn said this was an "appallingly soft treatment" especially in view of the increasing crime rate.

The Board of Supervisors voted to send Hahn's statistics to Presiding Judge Richard Gadbois of the Juvenile Court, with a request for a "get tough" stand. Copies were sent to Dist. Atty. John K. Van de Kamp and acting Chief Probation Officer Clarence E. Cabell.

Chaffey College might add two more board members

A San Bernardino County school committee has ruled that Chaffey College District voters can decide on June 8 if the college's board will expand from five to seven members.

The County Committee on School District Organization approved the election after holding a public hearing on the college board room this week.

Last month a citizens' committee which advises the board had requested that the board be enlarged by two members to better represent the area in Corona and Norco which joined the college district in May. Voters in the areas chose to join Chaffey rather than Riverside City College District.

The citizens' committee also recommend that the new members to be added to the board represent the newly annexed areas.

If the election is successful, Chaffey College board of trustees will appoint the first two members to fill the positions. Both appointed board members would then face election in March 1977.

369 women seek entry to Air Force Academy

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — The Air Force Academy said Saturday that 369 women have applied to join the first coeducational academy class next fall.

President Ford signed legislation on Oct. 7 that opened all U.S. service academies to women. An academy spokesman said 3,635 women have asked for information about being admitted.

Santa, wife will visit Walnut park

Santa Claus and his wife will visit with children at Suzanne Park in Walnut Monday from 6 to 8 p.m.

They will be guests of the Walnut Valley Recreation Department.

Candy canes will be distributed.

State fund proposed for malpractice suits

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Creation of a state fund to help pay medical malpractice lawsuit claims was proposed Saturday to nine legislators investigating the malpractice insurance crisis.

"This is no longer a doctor's problem, no longer a doctor-lawyer problem. It's a social problem," said Dr. Robert LeSage, president of the harbor area delegation of the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

Dr. Dan Lang, representing the Concerned Physicians for Malpractice Reform, said a state fund could help avert threatened slowdowns and walkouts by doctors protesting rising costs of malpractice insurance.

Such a fund could be based on revenues from taxes on health care, hospital care or health insurance polices, he said.

Dr. Lang said patients as well as doctors would have to take a part in payment of the insurance premiums. He said insurance rates were going up Jan. 1 because malpractice claims exceeded the amount of the premiums.

The fund would be used to pay the portion of malpractice claims not covered by the doctors' 1975 insurance premium rates. At the current premium level, he said physicians would be covered for claims up to $50,000 and anything above that would be covered by the fund.

Dr. Joseph Boyle, speaker of the House of Delegates of the California Medical Association, told the legislators he favored such a fund, but said his group is still working on its official proposal for malpractice reform.

Dr. Boyle said such a fund would increase public awareness of the size of settlements.

The hearing was called by Democratic Assemblyman Vincent Thomas of San Pedro at the state office building.

Pomona motel fire victim identified

The man who died Thursday night after being burned in bed at a Pomona motel has been identified as John J. Lacore, 60.

The man's identity had been withheld by authorities pending notification of next-of-kin.

Police said Saturday, however, that the man apparently had no relatives living in the local area and they had been unable to determine where the man is from.

He had been living at the Dunes Motel, 1274 W. Second St., Pomona, where the fire took place apparently the result of smoking in bed.

Police said the man had been a former guest of the Pomona Health Spa, but that officials of the spa had no information about the whereabouts of relatives.

Fire officials said Saturday they are continuing the investigation of the circumstances of another fire Thursday night that claimed the life of Jan Frances Hoehn, 26, of 1325 Caswell Ave, Pomona.

She died in her car when the car and garage of her home burned. Firemen have yet been unable to determine what caused the fire.

Annual party set Monday

The party will begin at 2:15 p.m. and continue through 3:30 p.m. for youths of fourth grade age or younger.

The party will include entertainment and a visit to Santa Claus. There is no admission charge.

Break in water main floods theater celler

A broken water main flooded the basement electrical vault of the Fox Theater in Pomona early Saturday morning, but caused no major damage to the structure.

Fire officials said they were summoned to the theater at about 12:45 a.m. Saturday and firemen spent the next five hours pumping eight feet of water out of the vault area—which houses electrical transformers.

Edison Co. workmen had to be summoned to shut off all power to the theater.

The incident is not expected to delay the scheduled re-opening of the theater on Dec. 25, but a charity program for children Saturday had to be canceled.

Freedom Train due Monday...

Dec. 27 — The Gospel Melodies, Ye Olde Funk Shoppe, Braille Institute Exhibition Square Dancers, San Dimas Recreation Department's Shooting Stars, International Childrens Choir of Long Beach, Ballet Folklorico de San Bernardino, Stars of Tomorrow and Barnes' magic show.

Dec. 28 — Freedom Singers, Los Angeles Mariachis, Gray Line Band, New Orleans Jazz Society and country and western singer Frank Wade.

Dec. 29 — Southern California Highland Dancing Association, United Senior Citizens Service Club Singers, the Starlight Kitchen Band and the Baldwin Park Recreation Department variety show.

Dec. 30 — Cor-Vic Hollywood Entertainers, Southern California Highland Dancing Association, the Overtones and Pomona Valley Sweet Adelines.

Freedom Train visitors may also browse among the concession stands operating on the grounds.

A limited number of booths have been approved by the Freedom Train Committee to operate within the Freedom Train pavilion area.

Profits from these will be used to support local Bicentennial activities.

Gerry Nelson, proprietor of the Old Schoolhouse Coin Shop in Claremont, has been designated as the official sales representative of the Pomona Bicentennial Committee.

Nelson will sell fund-raising items for the Pomona Bicentennial Committee and also will offer a selection of historical coins and stamps, Bicentennial memorabilia and exclusive cut-coin jewelry.

The Pomona Bicentennial Committee also will sponsor the operation of a taco booth by Mexico Lindo restaurant, an ice cream booth by Betsy Ross Ice Cream, and a hamburger stand by Frank Curtis Concessions.

The La Verne Bicentennial Committee will sponsor an exhibit centering on a replica of the Liberty Bell, one of two such bells in California. The other is in Bakersfield.

Visitors to the train will be offered an opportunity to purchase commemorative first-day envelopes ready to receive a special Freedom Train cancellation from a U.S. Postal Service unit at the site.

As the committee's representative, Nelson also will offer for sale a number of Pomona Centennial commemorative items, including silver medallions, pens, wooden money sets, calendars and historical maps.

Local booths will be allowed to operate at the fair site outside the Freedom Train's pavilion area but only under the sponsorship of one of the participating Bicentennial groups.

In conjunction with the Freedom Train visit, a field service unit of the Disabled American Veterans will be on hand to provide services and information to veterans and their families.

Tickets will be on sale at the fairgrounds and at participating Von's stores. The Pomona ticket office telephone numbers are 629-0700 and 629-0344.

The train's visit in Pomona will be under the auspices of the cities of Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Claremont, San Dimas, La Verne, Upland, Walnut and Chino.

Chino council names planning commissioner

Betty Cavanagh, chairman of the Chino Parks Commission, has been named to fill a vacant seat on the city's Planning Commission.

Mrs. Cavanaghxwas chosen this week by the City Council to replace Nancy Carpenter, who resigned in August after serving nine years on the commission. Mrs. Carpenter's unexpired term runs until 1978.

Mrs. Cavanagh has served on the Parks Commission since its inception in 1972, and also was a member of the Recreation Commission for two years.

A Chino resident since 1970, she is a secretary in the nursing department at Casa Colina Hospital in Pomona.

She was honored by the California Department of Parks and Recreation which presented her with a layman's award in 1974. She currently is working toward a degree in business administration at Cal Poly.

Mrs. Cavanagh resides at 4853 Constitution St., Chino, with her husband Ronald, and two children, Cathleen, 10 and Charles, 8.

In other action following an executive session, the council named Annette Cutliff to fill Mrs. Cavanagh's seat on the Parks Commission. Also, Phyllis Sullivan, Louie Guevara and Peter Watson were reappointed to that commission; and Dr. Bruce Lensch was reappointed to the County-City Civic Center Authority.

"even if the defendant is screaming and yelling while you're doing it. You have to do what's in the client's best interest ... We had a good defense."

The issue was not raised, however. U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti ruled Miss Moore competent and accepted her plea.

Conti and U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride stuck closely to the letter of the law in the Moore and Fromme cases, ordering psychiatric examinations before deciding the defendants' competency.

"Very seldom is anyone declared incompetent to stand trial," says Dr. Bernard Diamond, of the University of California School of Criminology. "...The law's criteria are very rigid. You can be very disturbed, very ill mentally and still be able to stand trial."

There are only two standards for competence to stand trial: That the defendant be able to understand the charges against him and that he be able to cooperate with counsel.

"It's a very low standard,"concedes Asst. U.S. Atty. Lawrence Callahan, a member of the Moore prosecution team. "You have to be pretty far gone not to be able to do that."

But Callahan added, "You just have to watch Sara Moore or Lynette Fromme to see that they understand what's going on."

U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes, the target of Miss Fromme's apple attack, concedes that one must be nearly "a babbling idiot" not to be declared competent to stand trial under present law. And that Miss Fromme is not, he said.

"She understood exactly what was going on," Keyes said. "We were initially concerned about it, but quite frankly, I was impressed.

"She seemed for her background able to comprehend a great deal. She used the language well. She has a very narrow field of interests, but she is able to express herself well."

Diamond, who has testified in numerous criminal cases, says the "babbling idiot" criterion is not as unfair as it may sound.

'If a person is found unfit to stand trial," he notes, "he can be committed to an institution for the criminally insane without having been found guilty of anything."

He cited the 1940s case of poet Ezra Pound, who was accused of treason for making pro-Fascist broadcasts during World War II. "He really was quite paranoid and mentally disturbed," said Diamond, "but he refused to plead insanity."

Found unfit to stand trial, Pound was kept in a mental hospital for 12 years until the charges were dropped. Now, Diamond said, the law limits the amount of time that a defendant can be hospitalized before trial.

Misses Fromme and Moore stand guilty without any psychiatric qualifications, and it is considered unlikely that either will receive much psychiatric treatment while in jail.

"There really is no satisfactory solution to the dilemma of how you assure a fair deal to a person who is mentally ill and also assure him a fair trial," Diamond said. "Both are constitutitonal rights. But it's possible that the two rights may be contradictory."

Blood donor days planned by centers

The Pomona Blood Donor Center and the Satellite Center at Pomona Valley Community Hospital are scheduling special donor days to help meet the critical need for blood during the holiday season.

According to Mrs. Joan Hamming, blood donor consultant, the shortage last year in Los Angeles and Orange counties was so severe that blood was limited to emergency cases.

In an attempt to prevent a similar problem this year, the Pomona Red Cross Blood Donor Center, 420 N. Reservoir St., will be open today from noon to 4:30 p.m. The center will also be in operation on Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and on Dec. 31 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The PVCH Satellite Center will be open Dec. 28 from 12:30 to 5 p.m.

Appointments are requested and may be made by calling the Red Cross at 629-7455 or the hospital at 623-8715, ext. 1059.

More like car wash than pool

WHITTIER (AP) — Mr. And Mrs. Frank Fabian own a swimming pool, only they say it seems more like a car wash.

For the second time since the Fabians have owned an apartment house here a car crashed through a concrete block and wood fence and landed in the building's swimming pool.

"I think we're running a car wash," said Mrs. Fabian after the mishap Thursday. "I hope this is the last."

New service in Pomona?

Cole-Schaefer may lose its franchise

Cole-Schaefer Ambulance will apparently relinquish its exclusive franchise for ambulance and paramedic services in Pomona after failing to participate in competitive bidding to keep the contract.

Pomona City Council Monday night will be informed that only one firm, Community Ambulance Service, submitted a bid for the franchise. The deadline for submission of bids was Friday.

Officials at Cole-Schaefer were not immediately available for comment on why the firm chose not to participate in the bidding. Cole-Schaefer has operated in Pomona for many years, after Schaefer Ambulance Service purchased Cole Ambulance Service in the late 1960s. Prior to that, Cole's had operated locally since the 1950s.

Community Ambulance Service already provides ambulance service in La Verne and Azusa. Its bid calls for a $40 fee per response, $2 additional per mile, $7 per 15 minutes waiting time, and $5 each for oxygen and night calls from 5 p.m. to 6 a.m.

According to the company's president, Ronald J. Fleig, most calls would be answered with paramedic units in Pomona and the company would set up two Pomona headquarters, one in the southern part of the city and the other in the northern section.

City Administrator Jerrold Gonce will recommend that the bid of Community Ambulance Service Inc. be approved by the City Council.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting include council approval of a small annexation at 219 E. Foothill Blvd. The site is occupied by the Esperanza Convalescent Hospital. The annexation was necessitated when the owners of the hospital sought sewer and water services from the city.

The council will also receive a report and recommendation from the city's Vehicle Parking District board concerning a small, undeveloped parking lot on private property at the northwest corner of Mission Boulevard and Main Street.

The parking lot is currently in violation of city zoning requirements.

Famous journalist subject of book

By MARY BROWN

If Heywood Broun wasn't "the most famous and controversial journalist of his time," he certainly ranked high on that list. And his life style would have received similarly high marks for being 'interesting,' 'unusual,' even 'bizarre'.

One gets the impression that Broun did not don untarnished armor and climb atop a huge white steed to do battle with the forces of evil and injustice. Rather, he appears to have wandered aimlessly, perhaps tripping on on one of society's potholes and being hurled, gracelessly, into a moat teaming with social inequities.

Having landed so ignominiously, Heywood may well have decided that digging his way out was too painfully physical, and remaining inert would lead to terminal bedsores (a chronic hypochondriac was our Mr. Broun). Obviously, his only recourse was to emit some rather barbed slings and arrows by way of his widely read newspaper column.

Nor did Broun allow facts to dictate the tenor of his literary output. He wrote more than one scathing article which was not as thoroughly researched as may have been the case had accuracy been his most important product.

Broun was influenced quite a bit by his first wife, Ruth Hale. She was an ardent feminist, determined to retain her own name, friends, and career, at a time when such independence was a most uncommon occurrence.

It seems that Hale selected the causes, sharpened Broun's typewriter to a rapier edge, and turned him loose to do battle on the establishment. She was the dwarf monkey riding on the elephant's head and telling him which foot to raise.

Hale and Broun had, inevitably, a stormy relationship at times. Ruth Hale had to feel her own talents were blocked by Broun's more abundant prowess, and she eventually initiated divorce proceedings in an attempt to establish herself as an individual instead of the anonymous half of a team. Broun did recognize Hale's asset, particularly the impetus she provided. He once remarked (a bit wistfully, perhaps) that if it hadn't been for Ruth Hale he would have remained a third-rate sports writer, content with his daily several pints of beer.

Author Richard O'Connor paints a vivid portrait of Heywood Broun, giving some real insights into the coloumnist's emotions, reasoning process, and fears. There are some hilarious parts dealing with repartee among the members of the famous Algonquin Round Table. And there are some thought-provoking, disturbing parts as Broun's struggles to save Sacco and Vanzetti and, later, to organize a newspaper guild are recounted.

All in all, a worthwhile account of the life of a most interesting person.

The earliest record of a man giving up smoking was in 1679, when Johan Kastu, sheriff of Turku, Finland, wrote his diary, "I quit smoking tobacco." He died one month later.

Feelings examined in therapy

By LORI ESROCK

GOING SANE: An Introduction to Feeling Therapy, by Joseph Hart, Richard Corrire and Jerry Binder.

This book introduces "feeling" therapy. The authors have conceived the "feeling" therapy from a conglomerate of hypotheses from people of various backgrounds and schools of thought.

A "how to" rather than a "how come" book, it presents an overview of the techniques, theory and structure used in "feeling" therapy. It is meant to stimulate awareness of the feelings we all have, yet rarely show or recognize. According to the authors, most people learn to cover up or ignore their feelings by the time they are 10 or 12 years old.

Awareness then is the first step towards becoming a sane individual. In therapy the next step is to transform disordered and incomplete feelings into meaningful and complete feelings. Accounts of actual therapy sessions give the reader insight into how the therapy works and what methods are employed by the therapists to break down and do away with defenses which block most feelings. As the defenses and barriers are broken through, persons are able to fully understand and express their feelings.

The book is worthwhile for those who have, from time to time, disordered thoughts and have difficulty expressing themselves. As an introductory step to the whole process of feeling therapy, the book can help the reader become more aware of intense feelings and work towards ways if expressing those feelings.

Dr. Hart states, ". . . therapy is not an activity to be done and gotten over; . . . it is a lifetime activity. Since therapy is taking care of oneself, it makes no sense that a human being would ever want to stop taking care of himself."

Tenacious ruling class

Bourbons keep returning

By SAMUEL BELLMAN

THE SPANISH BOURBONS: The history of a tenacious dynasty. By John D. Bergamini. Putnam. $12.95.

Looking at the historical sweep of the Spanish Bourbon line, Bergamini, a New York historian, is impressed with the fact that the dynasty has staged more than its share of comebacks.

Felipe V, the founder, in 1700 "was twice driven from his capital by his Hapsburg rival and survived bouts of madness as well." Carlos III, regarded by Bergamini as the "best of them all" (he ruled in the later 18th century, and despite his grinding ordinariness promoted a number of remarkable social reforms), "went from sulk and repression to popularity and enlightenment." Fernando VII, endured "imprisonment by Napoleon" and "two moments of inspired liberalism by his own subjects." The dethroned Isabel II ("the scandalous queen," 1833-68), "enjoyed a triumphal return after the monarchy had been restored in the person of her son, Alfonso XII." Alfonso XIII, the last of the line to occupy the throne, was also deposed, but "lived to see his enemies annihilated"; his descendants (son, grandson, great-grandson) were still making a stir in 1974.

This fascinating, closely-packed book of 404 pages (notes, bibliography, and index take up another 38 pages) makes interesting and very informative reading, both for the specialist and for the general reader. If Bergamini had only included a genealogical chart with dates, one would be able to say that he did a fair measure of justice to the spotted subject of his exhaustive research.

Bergamini opens his book effectively with a prologue covering pre-Bourbon Spain: the Iberians, Romans, Carthaginians, Visigoths, Moors, and Christian re-conquerors of Spain who contended against the Moorish occupation throughout the Middle Ages. He provides a useful geographical background, differentiating the dominance of Castile (the land of anti-Moorish castles or strongholds) in northern, central, and southern Spain, from the kingdom of Aragon in the east (an amalgam of three sub-kingdoms, Ara''gon, Catalonia, and Valencia).

And, in the following sections, he describes the long dreary succession of Hapsburg-rivalling Bourbons, mediocre, regressive, feckless people unfit to rule (with occasional exceptions) and symbolic of the long slow painful decay of western civilization.

But we are not allowed to forget the staying quality of these trivial fourth-raters. "Originally French but so determinedly Spanish," they "always came back." (Bergamini discusses the non-Spanish lines of Bourbons in the course of his chronicle; "the senior line of French Bourbons," for example, have not ruled in Spain after 1848, but there are still royal pretenders.)

The Hapsburg predecessors of the Bourbons, Carlos I (the grandson of Ferdinand and Isabella, he took over in 1517) and Felipe II (who ascended the throne in 1556) prefigured the melancholy, corruption and decadence that were to characterize Spain in the modern age.

But perhaps it is not the welter of Bourbon names and family relationships that one will take with him or her from a reading of this very fine book; rather, it may be the historical vignettes or briefly summed up careers: The apthetic Felipe V, "the Melancholy King" (1700-1746) . . . the preposterous "Royal Cuckold" Carlos IV (1788-1808), whose queen Maria Luisa took as her favorite (in every sense of the word) a guardsman sixteen years younger than herself . . . Isabel II, "the Scandadalous Queen" (1883-1868). Of the latter, Bergamini remarks: "Force a hot-blooded, hedonistic young woman to marry an effeminate, fussy young man, and it usually means domestic trouble. For the Bourbons it meant dynastic tragedy. For Spain it meant revolution. For Europe it meant wars." And, leaving us with the view that the Bourbons are well-nigh irremovable, Bergamini seems resigned and almost a little amused at the knowledge that history can play such tricks on so many people for such a long time.

Pomona revitalizara el proceso de desarrollo

Despues muchos meses de estudio, el Municipio de Pomona dio los primeros pasos el lunes por la noche para revitalizar el proceso de desarrollo de la ciudad.

Por 4 votos contra 1, el Municipio adopto la proposicion de concejar Sr. Charles Bader, creando un Comite de Desarrollo Urbano para analizar los proyectos que se propongan a tal proposito.

El Comite de Desarrollo estaria integrado por concejales, miembros de la actual Comision de Desarrollo y empleados idoneos del municipio, y actuaria principalmente como instrumento para acelerar el estudio de los proyectos de desarrollo que sean presentados.

En el pasado, dijo el Sr. Bader, el Municipio, la Comision y los empleados municipales, mas los delegados de los grupos interesados, como la Camara de Comercio y el Distrito Central de Negocios, ponian sus reparos independientemente, forzando a los proyectistas a modificar sus planes repetidamente al compas de las objeciones.

La concepcion del Sr. Bader del Comite es que sus miembros serian los responsables para resumir todas las dudas y objeciones del Municipio, de la Comision y de las otras partes interesadas lo mas pronto posible, permitiendo a los proyectistas cambiar sus planes de acuerdo a las demandas un minimo de veces y viabilizar lo mas rapidamente posible su aprobacion.

La votacion para dar a la proposicion del Sr. Bader un periodo de seis meses de prueba fue una sorpresa, teniendo en cuenta que se habia discutido hace mas de un mes y recibido entonces friamente.

Con su accion del lunes, el Municipio manifesto su deseo de renovar los miembros de la Comision de Desarrollo de la ciudad, quienes han criticado la demora del Concejo en actual para examinar cuidadosamente y acelerar el proceso de desarrollo.

Durante la discusion, los senores concejales repetidamente manifestaron la necesidad de contratar un profesional experimentado en urbanizacion para planear el proceso de desarrollo y atraer posibles constructores a la ciudad.

El Sr. Gonce dijo que el espera una lista de posibles candidatos para el trabajo que pudiera estar listo para ser considerada por el Concejo para mediados de enero.

Por otro acuerdo, el Concejo aprobo la solicitud del Departamento de Policia para mantener la fuerza especial contra robos, la cual requerira una contribucion extra de $21,000 este ano para cubrir el costo de operacion del helicoptero no incluido en la donacion estatal. Lt. Vern of Weigand analizo la operacion del cuerpo especial con el Concejo.

El concejal Sr. Benjamin Ochoa hizo notar que los robos durante 1975 habian aumentado solamente 8 comparado con el aumento del 16 en 1974.

Conferencias de religion

Las conferencias estan planeadas para personas de todas las creecias. Durante sus presentaciones el Sr. Càbrera incluira oraciones para liberarse del miedo, de los malos habitos, de la adiccion a drogas y de las enfermedades fisicas y mentales.

El ha ejercido su minsiterio durante los pasados 17 anos en la Argentina, Paraguay, Mejico, Costa Rica, Puerto Rico, Islas de Caribe y en los Estados Unidos.

El estudio para el ministerio en Buenos Aires y en este pais, en el Seminario Teologico Holmes y en Emmanuel College.

El Centro de Servicios Vecinales South Hills ha sido notificado por las autoridades del Condado de Los Angles que sus fondos para 1976 por concepto de Concentrated Employmente y Training Act (CETA Title I) seran reducidos en un 60 por ciento.

El Centro South Hills encontro trabajo para mas de 300 desempleados en el area de Pomona en los 10 ultimos meses.

Ken Stewart, director de South Hills, informo que el Condado no ha dado ninguna razon para la reduccion de fondos, y declaro que "agencias extranas al area han sido contratadas para servir Pomona por el Condado, a pesar de que hay agencias locales capaces de hacerlo."

Los servicios gratis de la clinica de salud fisica continuaran prestandose todos los lunes a las 7:30 p.m., asi como los servicios clinicos dentales todos los martes a las 7 p.m.

Tren de la Liberacion

El toque final en preparacion para la llegada del Tren de la Liberacion Americana a Pomona fue dado por los Alcaides y Concejales de las nueve ciudades del Valle en los terrenos de la Feria del Condado de Los Angeles.

Con la banda de la Escuela Superior Pomona tocando "America la Bella" los Alcaldes pusieron punto final con unos mandarriazos en una serie de alcayatas doradas para completar el ramal ferroviario temporal en que el Tren de la Libertad se estacionara en los terrenos de la feria.

El tres y su exhibicion estara abierto para el publico desde el martes a las 8 de la manana. Estara abierto todos los dias con excepcion del de Navidad desde las 8 de la manana hasta las 10 de la noche. La vispera de Navidad se cerrara a las 6 de la tarde.

Los adultos pagaran $2 y $1 los ninos de 3 a 12 y los ancianos. Las entradas se pondran a la venta en el edificio de la administracion de la Feria, cuyos telefonos son: (714) 629-0700 y 629-0344.

Are TV medical programs helpful?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you're the type who needs a regular dose of medical drama, the pharmacy that fills the prescription best is television. There's "General Hospital" and "The Doctors" during the day and "Marcus Welby," "Doctors Hospital," "Medical Center," "Emergency" and "Medical Story" at night.

But where do you turn if you're in need of medical fact, not fiction?

Your doctor? Sure — but while you are waiting for an appointment, take another look at the local television listings.

More and more TV stations around the country are putting on medical programs featuring real physicians discussing basic health care, often in response to questions phoned in by viewers.

There seems to be no limit to the subjects most of them are willing to tackle: drugs, diets, heart attacks, gout, alcoholism, hypnosis, the common cold, child abuse, male menopause — you name it.

"Many people are reluctant to visit their physicians until they have to go," explains an official at the San Diego County Medical Association. "They are more prone to sit in front of the television set and pick up some medical information."

"Call the Doctor" on WCPO-TV in Cincinnati, "The Medicine Men" on KOMO-TV in Seattle, "Your Doctor Answers" on KFMB-TV in San Diego and "Doctors on Call" on WLWC-TV in Columbus all use variations of the question-and-answer format, with the questions coming from listeners or audience.

At KNBC-TV in Los Angeles and KIRO-TV in Seattle, doctors appear regularly on the nightly news programs to comment on medical matters and give health tips. And on "Good Morning America," ABC's morning news-entertainment show, Dr. Vivian Tenney answers questions mailed in by viewers.

A documentary approach is taken by "Medix," a five-year-old program produced by KNXT-TV in Los Angeles under the auspices of the Los Angeles County Medical Association. Winner of two local Emmy awards, the program is now syndicated to other stations.

Perhaps the most medical-minded station in the country is WCVB-TV in Boston, which utilizes not one but all of these formats under the direction of its medical editor, Dr. Timothy Johnson. He says: "We're a substitute for the family doctor of 40 years ago, when people had someone to counsel and guide them. Today they don't; they're making a lot of tough decisions on their own."

Johnson hosts a Thursday night medical program entitled "House Call," in which he and a guest physician spend 30 minutes discussing the topic of the week and taking phone calls from viewers. It is scheduled to be seen in other cities soon via syndication.

Johnson also does a weekly 10-15 minute segment for the six-station New England Network's "Good Morning" show (produced at WCVB), appears twice a week on WCVB's evening news to report and comment on medical news, and produces hour-long medical specials.

Johnson and others involved in these types of programs say they exist because the American public is ravenous for reliable health care information. The need is further evidenced by the growing number of newspaper columns on medicine and medical programs on radio.

"There is a real problem in getting health care information," says Johnson, who also acts as director of lay health information at Harvard Medical School. For a variety of reasons, he says, many people no longer have relationships with a family physician or can't get him to answer all their questions.

Dr. Albert Thielen, who hosts a medical show on Cincinnati's WCPO-TV, believes television is a particularly good medium for dispensing health care information. He said:

"It's excellent because we can bring examples of what is used in the hospital — all the paraphernalia — to the studio and have a doctor or nurse or technician explain what is going on, so that when the patient goes to the hospital and winds up, say, in intensive care, they've seen what it's like. They know what the machines look like and what they do."

"It is a good medium," Johnson agrees. But he adds: "Whether that translates into health education, which I define as a change of behavior, is hard to say. It may be going in one ear and out the other. We have a lot of anecdotal evidence (that it's working), but no hard, cold, scientific data."

His scientific skepticism isn't generally shared, though. Producers and other physicians say they've gotten enough letters and phone calls to convince them that tens of thousands of persons are watching and at least some are benefiting.

Young shepherd kills brother

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Police arrested a 16-year-old shepherd at nearby Caserta today and charged him with murdering his younger brother, who refused to lend him $6.

Police gave this account: Renato Mauriello, 14, refused to give the $6 to his brother, Vittorio, because that was all he had managed to save during many months of looking after a few sheep.

Games and gift machines for adults plentiful

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Among choice gifts for the home are inexpensive adult games that can add a decorative touch, and the new little appliances that let you do your own healthful thing in the kitchen.

Cubes, octagons, geodesic-type shapes in games are among those that offer a kind of table top sculpture as well as providing at-hand relaxation and intrigue. Some games are just fashionably executed versions of old-time favorites. In any event, manufacturers can hardly keep up with the demand, says Brooklyn-born Bob Reiss, 45, who began concentrating on games about eight years ago. A graduate of Harvard Business School, he has been in business since 1959.

"I am constantly amazed that amateurs can come up with so many new game concepts. Some are wild, although some are ancient games that everybody is making," he explained. "Closet inventors have come into the open. Time was when everybody seemed to be writing novels. Now they are making games in their attics."

In addition to the large assortment of the big selling under-$3 mind-benders, there are games such as tri-tac-toe, a three-level plastic version of the old favorite tic-tac-toe which is found in many game lines. With its colorful plastic balls it has been an intriguing addition to table tops for a number of years. Cobweb, a geodesic-type shape in which a plastic orb is encased, is another attractive game. Solution is achieved through a maze of dowels and cords that encase the ball. There are multiplicity games of molded plastic — some are star-shape — that can be taken apart and put together and that make attractive bits of chunky material.

Backgammon, which "has now caught on in middle America," has become fashionable, available in colorful corduroys and look-like-leather materials in stripes, all designed with home fashion in mind.

Some simple-looking games can be decorative and provide the most intrigue. For example, a whole new series of challenges are those that have contoured wood pieces within plastic cubes. Reiss illustrated one of the 10, by trying to manipulate three steel balls into holes in the wood piece. Two might go in easily, but in trying to get the third one in the others might be jostled out.

"Games might fulfill needs that aren't fulfilled in everyday life," Reiss theorizes in trying to account for the big popularity of such games in recent years. "People are often afraid of their other environment. If you don't get a promotion, you might lose face in your job, but a game is a challenge that one can accept. You don't lose face, especially if you are playing solo. Then, too, once you learn how to play, there is the satisfaction of seeing if someone else can do it.

Other popular gifts for the home include those with a "look, no additives" angle. You make everything from scratch. There are machines that will grind up wheat, seeds and coffee beans, and machines that make yogurt — pour boiled milk with yogurt starter into the five containers, set timer dial, plug in, put in refrigerator.

There are hand model pasta makers and an electric one that kneads and flattens the dough before turning out thin or thick noodles. And there is an automatic crepe maker that will turn out a crepe every 15 seconds and an electric cheese grater. For bread makers there are electric dough makers that help shorten the job.

A food processor will chop, puree, shred and grind and one super one that is touted as doing everying from kneading bread dough to freezing ice cream, can also cook. It is not inexpensive.

One of the newest machines will make peanut butter. Put in a half pound of peanuts, turn the dial and out comes your chunky or smooth nut butter.

Canadian geese stir up Chino residents again

The National Audubon Society will be making a count of the Canadian geese still in the Los Serranos area this weekend on the request of a number of Chino residents concerned about the survival of the large migrating birds.

"The last few weekends its been a holocaust — a fiasco. The birds were falling out of the sky in people's front yards dead or wounded by hunters shotgun pellets," said Dr. Alice DeGroot, Chino veterinarian.

Dr. DeGroot, who was instrumental in calling the public's attention to the alleged mistreatment of horses on the Rex Ellsworth Ranch earlier this year, is one of dozens of Chino ranchers and homeowners concerned about hunter abuses wrought on the Canadian birds during the past few weeks.

Other residents and ranchers have been registering numerous complaints with the West End Sheriff's Department about hunters trespassing on their land and frightening their horses and other livestock.

"One of the ranchers," said Dr. DeGroot, "told me that a hunter shot his two pet geese on the ground in his yard and then climbed over the fence to retrieve them."

Apparently, the action of California Institution for Men dairy employes in "hazing" the birds out of grain fields by the use of blank shotgun shells or "cracker shells" has made a small open hunting area west of Central Avenue and south of Merrill Avenue, a Mecca for hundreds of goose hunters, according to the citizens group and sheriff's deputies.

"The birds are confused and don't know what to do. They fly around in circles until they exhaust themselves and fall from the sky," said Dr. DeGroot.

Capt. Thomas Harrison of the California State Department of Fish and Game said that the flocks of geese resting and feeding in the Los Serranos area during the past few years has increased considerably.

With the increase has come more and more complaints from farmers that the geese are destroying more crops, from residents that the hunters attracted to the area by the flocks are shooting too close to their homes and trespassing on their lands and from protectionist groups who believe the geese may be starving

Harrison said, "I have sympathy for each of the groups. The hunter has a right to hunt. The birds have a right to survive. And the landowner has a right to protect his crops."

He said in CIM's case, its crop losses in the last few years to the wayfaring geese has been great enough to justify "hazing" them off its lands, and officials there have been given permission to do so.

He indicated the only way the problem that exists with the geese in the Los Serranos-Prado Basin area can only be resolved by Sacramento through public pressure. He suggested that all the concerned parties in the area meet to determine a course of action.

Included in such a meeting might be representatives of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the State Fish and Game Department, CIM officials, local protectionist groups, farmers, ranchers and hunters.

Dr. DeGroot said steps in this direction have already been taken with the arrival of Larry Oglesby, president of the west San Bernardino County Chapter of the National Aububon Society who Friday contacted state officials about the problem. Dr. DeGroot said until Friday little action had been taken by several state legislators and fish and game officials who had been notified.

PALMER CANYON RESIDENTS PREPARE FOR POSSIBLE FLOODS

PB photos by Bob Swetnam

Harry Hoffman, left, and Bruce Benjamin clear brush from the Palmer Canyon creek bed Saturday as work crews of local residents prepare for the potential flood of rain water due to recent brush fires.

Mark Mielke, 12, picks up litter from the creek bed. The two-day effort was planned after flood control district engineers briefed canyon residents about the possible flood dangers. Work continues today.

Howard Thompson cuts a small tree from the hillside just above the canyon creek bed. Residents hope the clearing of the creek will allow water to flow through the canyon unimpeded and on into a flood control channel.

Mt. Baldy fire: it was a total effort

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

The hundreds of firefighters with equipment and engines in readiness lining the main street of Mt. Baldy Village during the November fires will long linger in the memory of local mountain residents.

It is a major disaster or catastrophe that always brings out the best in people, who otherwise go about their daily business with little regard to minor emergencies.

The Village fire that ravaged nearly 20,000 acres of valuable watershed above the valley and threatened the homes of hundreds of residents indeed stirred many persons and groups to perform unselfish acts and sacrifices.

Perhaps the best in man was witnessed on the afternoon of Nov. 23 when Jim Brown, a Mt. Baldy volunteer fireman, received a call to return to his home that had just been reduced to ashes in a fire.

When Brown arrived in the Village he was met by the fearful sight of an entire mountainside in flames. Brown, instead of grieving over his loss, immediately joined the other men on the fire lines concerned only with preventing the spread of the fire to other homes in the Village.

Brown, after being on the fire lines for hours, returned to the Village and there told newsmen he would manage to rebuild his home, even without the aid of insurance, but with sadness wondered how he could ever replace the personal belongings of a friend who had been staying with him in his cabin.

Brown said little about the fact that he had once before lost his cabin and his personal belongings in the fire and floods of 1969-70, and about the thousands of dollars spent on rebuilding it.

Meanwhile, as dozens of experienced Mt. Baldy volunteer firemen joined U.S. Forestry Service fire crews on the line, the volunteers' wives electing not to evacuate the Village requested by sheriff's deputies, manned the fire station, answering telephone calls, dispatching fire vehicles, and preparing food not only for their husbands and sons on the lines, but for those forced to leave their cabins laying in the path of the flames.

No one who needed help was turned away by the women.

As the fire pushed over the mountain and flared like an angry volcano above Claremont on Nov. 24, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mielke, owners of the "Souper" Restaurant in Upland were busy in their kitchens preparing gallons of soup and coffee, and baking loaves of bread that would find its way to the hungry and exhausted firefighters resting at the Padua Hills Fire Station.

About the same time, Eric Chiasson, owner of the Mt. Baldy Snack Bar and Frank Bower of the Ice House Lodge, struck by the ever growing army of firemen and equipment arriving in the Village, teamed up and began preparing hundreds of hamburgers, hot dogs and cold sandwiches for distribution to the firefighters free.

Chiasson, it was later learned, expended over $1,000 of his own money to purchase and prepare the food. Chiasson since has been dubbed an honorary "chief" chef of the Mt. Baldy Fire Station and presented a fireman's hat by the grateful volunteers.

While certain individuals were untiringly doing what they could for each other in the emergency nearly 2,000 tired, sweaty firemen, under the direction of the U.S. Forestry Service steadily scraped out fire breaks, cut trees, set backfires and hauled hoses to the front of fire spreading down San Dimas Canyon to the south and north towards Coldwater Canyon.

The U.S. Forest Service estimates that at the peak of the Village fire the 2,000 men committed to the line had 114 engines, seven helicopters, six fixed wing aircraft, and thousands of tools at their disposal.

The American Red Cross and its local volunteers, meantime had set up an evacuation center at the San Dimas Community Center to assist and provide shelter for evacuees from Palmer and San Dimas canyons. Amazingly enough, the volunteers reported that not one family, of the nearly 100 evacuated, sought shelter at the center, as most had been provided homes and food by numerous valley residents. The Red Cross volunteers, even with no evacuees to tend to remained at their station answering questions and providing information to worried valleyites.

In the Village, nearly every motel operator offered rooms to weary firefighters and facilities for emergency communications.

Working together for the remainder of the emergency were 20 independent city and county fire agencies some including; Chino, Ontario, Montclair, Pomona, Claremont, Azusa, Los Angeles, Glendale, Upland, and the Foothill Fire District communities; along with 85 U.S. Forestry Service crews, some from as far away as Stanislaus National Forest; The Office of Emergency Services; crews from the California Division of Forestry; and the Los Angeles, Riverside, and San Bernardino County Fire Departments.

Volunteer agencies providing emergency services during the fires in part included: the Salvation Army post from Ontario; the Mt. San Antonio College Volunteers; the West End Search and Rescue Team; the California Air National Guard at Ontario International Airport; Camp Prado Forest Camp in Chino; the Los Angeles County Health Services; the Los Angeles and San Bernardino County Sheriff's deputies; the California Highway Patrol officers; and a number of citizens band radio groups.

YMCA offers fun clubs for youths

Two holiday fun clubs for youths 6 to 12 will be offered during Christmas vacation by the Pomona Valley YMCA.

The first three-day session will run from Monday thru Wednesday, with the second session operating from Monday, Dec. 29, to Wednesday, Dec. 31.

Activities will include arts and crafts, field trips, gymnastics, swimming and many other activities.

Cost is $7.50 per session for YMCA members and $10.50 for non-members, or $13.50 for members for both sessions and $18 for non-members for both sessions.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

County aids in Chino road job

The San Bernardino County Board of supervisors recently approved an agreement with the City of Chino for the improvement of Benson Avenue between the Pomona Freeway and Philadelphia Street.

City recreation facilities open

A variety of recreational activities will be offered during the Christmas holiday season by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department at schools and parks throughout the city.

Community centers at Palomares, Washington, Westmont and Kennedy Parks will be open Mondays through Fridays, generally from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Gymnasiums at Palomares, Emerson, Fremont, Simon, Marshall and Lorbeer junior high schools will also be on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. In addition, school yards at Kellogg, Kingsley and Hamilton Elementary Schools will be open the same days from 12 to 4 p.m.

Special activities include a snow trip on Tuesday from Westmont Park, for which persons may call Tom James at 620-2307 for information; and a two-night campout from Washington Park leaving Jan. 2, with information available from Jeff Hawley at 620-2305.

L.V. Mayor Morales will seek re-election

Mike M. Morales is running for re-election next March 2 as mayor of La Verne because "there is a lot more to be done."

The mayor singled out the development of Foothill Boulevard and La Verne Heights as priority projects that "need the attention of a mayor who is not only dedicated to the community but knowledgeable about its problems."

Morales is completing his fourth year as mayor — two as an appointee of the City Council and the other two elected by the voters. He also is completing his 20th year in an official capacity: six years as a planning commissioner, and 14 years on the council.

He feels he has had a strong hand in bringing the Bonita School District as well as the La Verne Chamber of Commerce closer to the city.

"I've tried to do a good job," he says. "I think I've succeeded."

Morales was born 51 years ago in Jerome, Ariz., but lived in La Verne most of his life. He and his wife, Alice, have five children. He is employed by the Honeywell Corp.

Snow trip slated

The trip will be to Big Bear. The $3 cost will cover transportation, supervision and insurance.

The bus for the trip will leave Westmont Park at 7:30 a.m. and will arrive back in Pomona at approximately 5:30 p.m.

Court to start half hour early

All four divisions of the Pomona Municipal Court now are beginning sessions at 8:30 a.m. instead of the traditional 9 o'clock, Presiding Judge Robert C. Gustaveson announced.

The decision to begin a half an hour earlier is a local one and was made by the three judges, Gustaveson, James H. Piatt and Thomas Nuss, and Municipal Court Commissioner Thomas A. Peterson.

In announcing the new starting time, Gustaveson warned persons having business before going to the court to be in the courtroom and ready to go at 8:30. The earlier start is an effort to cope with the increasing number of cases being filed in the Pomona court, he said.

Recycling history

The old American motto of "waste not, want not" may only lately have been reborn in the nation's environmental consciousness, but recycling has been an important element in America's economic life since its founding.

Two signers of the Declaration of Independence were among the nation's early metal recyclers. Paul Revere was a noted silversmith and coppersmith who, like every metalworker of his day, made extensive use of scrap materials.

Another little-known fact of recycling history deals with the fate of a lead statue of George III which once graced New York City's Bowling Green Park. In 1776 it was toppled by patriots, hacked into pieces and shipped off to Litchfield, Conn., where it was melted down and cast into 42,088 bullets for the guns of American revolutionaries.

These and other historical tidbits are contained in a booklet, "The Recycler in America," just issued by the National Association of Recycling Industries, which itself is nearly 63 years old.

The booklet traces the emergence of America's scrap dealers and peddlers and their impact on the economy, as colonial frugality gradually gave way to exploitation of the country's natural resources and "limitless" raw materials and the advent of the throwaway philosophy which is still predominant.

But recycling is coming back into style, and on a more modern note, the Aluminum Association reports that one out of every four all-aluminum cans was recycled in the first nine months of 1975.

This was a total of 2.8 billion cans recovered during the first three quarters of this year, compared with 2.3 billion cans collected during all of 1974.

Recyclers have received more than $18 million so far this year for 124 million pounds of aluminum brought back to some 1,300 recycling centers. Much of this money was paid to private individuals and to organizations like schools.

More than $45 million has been paid to such groups and individuals since 1970, says the association.

These 124 million pounds of aluminum recycled back into cans and other products represent not only a substantial saving in material resources but also in energy. Recycling an aluminum can requires only five per cent of the energy it took to make it in the first place.

More on marijuana

If marijuana were legalized, the Surgeon General might have another problem on his desk. He might have to require that it carry an even stronger health warning than is presently printed on each package of tobacco cigarettes.

According to a report made at the First Chemical Congress of the North American Continent held in Mexico City recently, smoke from marijuana cigarettes has been found to contain higher concentrations of several known cancer-causing agents (carcinogens) than tobacco smoke.

Not only that, but the more potent the pot, the larger the amounts of potential carcinogens, said Indiana University chemistry professor Milos Novotny.

In other words, the higher you fly, psychedelically, the harder you may fall, medically.

The marijuana-tobacco comparison was made using smoking machines and then weighing the trapped smoke condensates.

The fact that the "recommended" method of smoking marijuana (so we are told) is to take a deep drag and hold it as long as possible in the lungs would seem to suggest that, for humans, marijuana may be even more hazardous to the health than the Indiana University study indicates.

Thoughts

Jesus said to them, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's." And they were amazed at him. — Mark 12:17.

"Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and unto God the things which are God's. One would like to add: Give unto man the things which are man's; give man his freedom and personality, his rights and religion." — Pope Pius XII.

"And whether the land is rich or poor and whether there is wood in it or not, be of good courage and bring some of the fruit of the land." Now the time was the season of the first ripe grapes. — Numbers 13:20.

"No man is worth his salt who is not ready at times to risk his body, to risk his well-being, to risk his life, in a great cause." — Theodore Roosevelt, 26th U.S. President.

The most valuable gift

Dear Editor:

I am not what most people would consider a highly religious person. But I feel I must defend an idea that seems to be going out of style.

Christmas is supposed to be the celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ, but I have found that most people today would rather associate it with Santa Claus.

I have nothing against Mr. Claus, but unfortunately most people are missing the whole point of the holiday. Those people who don't believe in God shouldn't be buying gifts and trees or anything associated with Christmas, simply because they don't have any reason to celebrate.

The myth of Santa can only be appreciated when we can acknowledge the ideas given to us by a man 2,000 years ago. Christmas should be a time when people can forgive each other and be forgiven.

Christmas is giving thanks for the important things in our lives such as families, friends and the food on our tables. Most important is realizing that loving and being loved is the most valuable gift of all.

Christmas should give us the feeling of hope and a reminder that there is light in a dark, troubled world. Instead, we've turned Christmas into a buying spree with Santa Claus as the focal point.

We push and shove to buy each other gifts that are meaningless and forgotten by the next Christmas season. We're a society which has put the love of money ahead of everything else.

We have made the dollar our god and the department store our place of worship. We've been conditioned to believe that we can buy anything if we have enough money. There is only darkness in such a philosophy.

I can only say once again, Christmas is Jesus Christ's birthday and I hope people will remember that. — Tim Procherena, Pomona

Plant thievery

Dear Editor:

Last week someone stole my huge, beautiful hanging fern from my front porch.

Hoping that a prankster had dumped it nearby and that it might be returned, I reported the theft to police.

I was surprised to learn from the officer who took my report that plant theft has become a very frequent occurrence in Pomona. Plants are prized at swap meets.

I see many lovely plants hanging from porches as I drive through the city. I would like to warn plant lovers that along with everything else they must now lock their plants up too. — Vivien St. Amant, Pomona

Challenges critics

Dear Editor:

This letter is directed to the few who contend that firemen and policement sit on their duffs and are not entitled to a living salary.

For starters, send one or more to us and we will give them a brush hook and a shovel, then put them on a 24 hour shift at Mt. Baldy or Big Tujunga. Then let us see if they are still of the same opinion. — Russ Gallentine, Retired battalion chief, Pomona

A simple remedy

The agony of Angola

WASHINGTON — Behind the agony of Angola, which is turning tragically into a no-man's-land, is a greater struggle for the soul of Africa itself.

Secret intelligence reports reveal how the great powers have been maneuvering behind the scenes in Africa, how the Soviets have been using Cuba to train black guerrillas to fight on the African continent and how the United States and Communist China have established a belated, uneasy alliance to counter Soviet influence in Africa.

Now the big powers are focusing on sub-equatorial Angola, a Garden of Eden rich in minerals, oil and coffee. The conflict in Angola is no mere civil war. It is becoming an international exercise, like the Spanish civil war of 40 years ago, to test weapons, tactics and policies.

Behind the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola are the Soviets. They are pouring deadly new Kalashkinov rifles, heat-seeking missiles and light armored equipment into the port of Luanda.

The Soviets have managed, nevertheless, to keep a low profile. As their shock troops, they use blacks from Cuba who have been preparing for more than a decade for action in Africa. The Cuban expeditionary force is estimated at 6,000 and still counting.

Behind the National Front for the Liberation of Angola are the Chinese and Americans who have joined somewhat uncomfortably in common cause. American arms and a polyglot of white mercenaries, including Americans who didn't get enough of war in Vietnam, are beginning to filter into Angola from neighboring, pro-Western Zaire.

Behind the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola are the South Africans who are marching into Angola from the south under the pretense of guarding civil installations.

The Popular Movement, with their Soviet arms and Cuban troops, were ready for action when the Portuguese abandoned Angola. The pro-Soviet guerrillas took over the main centers, therefore, from the withdrawing Portuguese troops.

This has united the National Front and the National Union in a strange, motley alliance of black guerrillas, American mercenaries, South African troops and Red Chinese advisors.

The stakes are high. Not only is Angola one of the richest countries in Africa, but the outcome could affect the ideological tilt of many neighboring African nations. Zambia also ships its precious copper by rail through Angola.

But the cost is also high. The brutal conflict not only is devastating Angola but is undermining the Soviet-American detente and endangering the Cuban-American diplomatic thaw.

The Soviet-Cuban operations in Africa, according to intelligence reports, go back more than a decade. The late legendary Cuban guerrilla hero, "Che" Guevara, actually fought in the Congo for a time. He and Fidel Castro's brother, Raul, helped to plan Cuba's African strategy.

Intelligence reports in our possession show the first major penetration was made in 1963 when the Cuban transport ship Aracelio Iglesias unloaded 400 to 450 combat-ready Cubans at Oran, Algeria.

Ostensibly, the force was supposed to assist Algeria during a confrontation with neighboring Morocco. But the actual destination was the Congo (Brazzaville), where the Cubans set up a secret training camp to indoctrinate young guerrillas from all over Africa.

The Cuban troops were landed in Algeria, states an intelligence report, "in great secrecy," although "the French Navy in the harbor became suspicious and was observed taking moving pictures of the operation."

On the trip over, the document adds, "a Spaniard who had fought in Algeria, possibly after training in the Soviet Union, lectured the troops." A second intelligence report identifies the Cuban commander as "Jorge Serguera Rivera, better known as El Carnicero (the butcher)."

Through the Congo beachhead, Cuban military advisers began to fan throughout Africa. Before they were drawn into the Angolan conflict, there were an estimated 250 Cubans in Somalia, 150 in Mozambique and another 300 to 400 scattered among Cameroon, Eritrea, Gabon, Guinea, Malawi and Mali.

Most are black native Cubans, who have encountered some problems with African tribal customs but generally have hit it off well with the Africans. They have trained thousands in Africa and have recruited thousands more to come to Cuba for training.

"The Cuban government has undertaken a vast program of training cadres . . ." explains an intelligence document. "The actual exchange program (is) oriented mainly in preparing cadres for subversion in Central Africa."

Another document, based on an interview with a defector from the Cuban diplomatic service, alleges that Fidel Castro has squandered a fortune on "diplomatic" missions in Africa.

"The operational funds for these missions are almost certainly supplied by the Soviet Union," the diplomat reported. The Cuban effort in Africa is directed by Armando Estrado Fernandez, who goes by the code name "Ulysses." He heads the African section of the Directorate General of Intelligence (DGI) and works closely with the Soviet KGB.

When the rival Angolan factions began maneuvering to take over the country, Cubans immediately began trickling into Luanda from other African countries. Transports also brought over a Cuban expeditionary force from Havana.

Some of the arrivals, who were spotted, tried to pass off their Spanish as Portuguese. They claimed they had come from Portugal's Cape Verde islands. But intelligence sources pointed out: "Nobody can hide a Cuban Spanish accent. They couldn't even pass for Spaniards."

The Central Intelligence Agency, meanwhile, has become so mired down in its past transgressions that it dare not play an active role in Angola. Even the inventive Henry Kissinger has come up with no plans to keep the strategic land out of Soviet hands, short of turning it into another Spain or Vietnam.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

It's going to seem a bit awkward when we finally change over to the metric system. Imagine how silly it will sound when we go to a liquor store to get a quart or a pint of booze, to hear ourselves saying:

"I want a liter of Vodka," or "Give me a half liter of Scotch."

But thank goodness I'm a beer drinker myself, so I should suffer no metric system calculation worries. I'll still be able to just ask for a 6-pack.

Paul Harvey

The wife also runs

You have heard Ronald Reagan's daughter, Maureen, say that she resents her father's public career. She admits to selfishness; she says that she wants to be somebody — instead of just "somebody's daughter."

She says she's had eight years of having to telephone for an appointment to speak to her own father. And, she says, her parents deserve some privacy now. Not now.

Through several administrations you and I have watched many marriages disrupted, some destroyed, by the jealous mistress, politics: San Francisco's Mayor Alioto and wife Angelina, Adlai Stevenson and wife Ellen, Nelson Rockefeller and his first wife, Maryland's Gov. and Mrs. Mandel, Sen. and Mrs. John Tunney, Oklahoma's Gov. Boren and his wife. And Martha Mitchell.

A Washington Post reporter, Myra MacPherson, has written a book called "The Power Lovers." An intimate look at politicians and their marriages.

She cites the distasteful spectacle of Mrs. Wilbur Mills seated ringside in a B-girl hangout while her husband ogled a striptease dancer as an ultimate example of the disgraceful and degrading role of a Washington wife trying to maintain a facade of domestic harmony while her husband's attentions are "away from home."

The author describes politicians as "obsessed with their careers, crippled by insecurity, starved for attention." She believes these warped men exploit their wives. She quotes Lady Bird Johnson saying, "A politician ought to be born a foundling and remain a bachelor."

And it works both ways. When the wife is the politician, a Martin Abzug is going to be neglected. The author of "The Power Lovers" allows her personal bitterness to show through. That is unfortunate. She sneers at women like Nancy Reagan and Joan Mondale who cheerfully put their husband's careers first.

She calls Betty Ford the most refreshing woman in the White House since Eleanor Roosevelt. But her bias notwithstanding, reporter MacPherson does document some horror stories of neglect and preoccupation affecting the private lives of public servants and the exploitation, submersion of personality and loneliness suffered by their wives and children.

Sharon Percy Rockefeller tells of her three-year-old son furiously pounding the television set with his fist, angry that he saw more of his dad on the screen than at home.

The irony, to this observer, is that politicians are what they are because of an immense ego with an insatiable hunger to be loved.

To these wishful thinkers each election victory represents an outpouring of love. And for this impersonal intercourse with the multitude some sacrifice the only real love they may ever know.

Joyce Hifler

Think on these things

If you ever feel there is something you want to do that is right, then don't take no for a final answer, don't be disappointed and don't quit before you reach your goal. Anything worth having is worth working for and worth starting all over again if you fall down the first time.

The time to hang on all the more and build one's faith is at the first sign of discouragement. When we let fear of failure sink too deeply, we have to work all the harder to dredge it out. No one ever told us life would be easy, but they did say it would be a lot harder if we quit when we should be accelerating.

Make your wax for dance floor

Have you made your plans for New Year's Eve? A party at home, including dancing on a well-waxed floor, would be an inexpensive and delightful way to welcome in the New Year. The needs are simple: friends, music and a good dance floor.

If you have a smooth-surfaced floor in your recreation room, basement or on your patio, it is not necessary to spend a month's entertainment money to dance at a club or a hotel. Here's the formula to help you prepare your floor.

The ingredients required are one cup of stearic acid, which may be purchased from a candle supply or hobby shop, and one-half pound of talc, available from a ceramic supply house or drug store. Dry mix the two thoroughly and sprinkle the mixture on the floor. Store in closed container of plastic, glass or metal.

The cost of making your own dance floor wax is approximately six cents per counce. To determine your savings, divide the cost of your store-bought brand by the number of ounces it contains. Then compare the per ounce cost — you'll be surprised at how much you can save for so little effort. Happy New Year!

Note: Material costs are based on the prices at retail outlets of national drug, grocery and hardware chains. These costs will vary, depending on the geographic area. If you wish to make up a larger quantity — and save even more — buy your materials at a chemical supply company. (see the Yellow Pages.)

Like any product you make at home, you should store this one safely; label it — listing ingredients and noting any cautions — and keep it out of the reach of children.

This formula will appear in a future edition of THE FORMULA BOOK.

There has never been a how-to book so practical and helpful as THE FORMULA BOOK. Hundreds of easy recipes put savings and fun into the making of your own personal and home care items. Over 200 pages of recipes, diagrams and instructions on ingredients and equipment, in a large paperback format, for only $5.95. Send to THE FORMULA BOOK, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 2218, Shawnee Mission, Kansas 66201.

Pets tempted by Yule trees

Christmas trees are tempting . . . to many pets, and for various reasons. Free-flying avians such as parakeets would naturally be attracted to such a delightful perching place and probably fascinated (if not frightened) by its glitter. Birds can become entangled in the ornamentation or try to dine on it. The results in either case can be disastrous.

Pussycats would be likewise lured by things shiny, attracted to movement of ornaments, and would frequently be tempted to leap into and-or climb up the tree.

Dogs, too, would be attracted. Their reaction to the tree would be some degree be determined by their mood, age, and sex — the reaction of adult male dogs to trees is one well-known example.

The problem here is that Christmas trees and Christmas (or longer-term) pets simply don't safely mix. Pet or tree or both can lose out when they do.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Tiny is half Great Dane and half something else that isn't very small. He's only four months old and pony-sized already, almost. This is just a note to let you know we're feeding him mostly leftover table scraps and he's doing just fine, thank you. If we had to feed him that high-priced dog food, we couldn't afford to keep him. Certainly our kids are doing fine on human food and obviously so is Tiny. I'll be interested to see if you publish this letter even though it doesn't agree with your theories. — T.M.

DEAR T.M.: Strictly leftover table scraps wouldn't provide adequate nutrition for youngsters of either the human or canine species. Even the full meals (for humans, that is) are frequently nutritional nightmares. Deficiencies vary from major components, or amino acids to mineral deficiencies such as zinc which were once considered rare. Leftover rations would be even more likely to be deficient. The fact that Tiny's survived a couple of months on such rations doesn't mean they're valid, nor necessarily that he's not headed for trouble in the near future. Consider, too, he's developing at a rate several times that of the human child, so any deficiencies become critical in a remarkably short time. Whether a balanced ration for Tiny is home grown (with help from a genuine nutritional expert) or commercial dog food is used makes little difference. Don't wait for Tiny to show obvious signs of malnutrition. By then, damage could be permanent. He needs help now.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Simon, my best male swordtail, choked and died when he was trying to swallow a worm that was too big for him. How come this happened? I always thought fish wouldn't try to swallow food that they couldn't. Was Simon dumb, or just unlucky? — M.O.

DEAR M.O.: Unquestionably unlucky. Whether Simon was simple or smart most of the time is apparently irrelevant. The point here is, fish frequently try to swallow food offerings which simply won't go down. Most of the time the oversized morsel is spit out and no harm is done. When it can't be, a fatal choking episode is the result. Size your food according to the fish being fed. If it's always of a swallowable size, such choking can't occur.

Ann Landers

Desperate writer needs help

Dear Ann: I am writing in panic and desperation. If I wait till I "cool off" I'll never mail this letter.

We have two teenage daughters (16 and 18) and a son 20. The girls are a handful and the boy acts like a 10-year-old. My parents live two blocks away. They have always spoiled our children rotten — insisted it was their privilege.

When the kids were small they ran away to grandma's after every scolding or spanking. She would bring them home and take their side against us. I know it should have been stopped then, but I didn't want any family arguments.

Now when we try to discipline our children they tell us, "Grandma and Grandpa say you should stay out of our lives." The boy is a hopeless case. When we suggest he move out and get a place of his own he says, "I can't afford it."

Today I blew my top and told my mother everything that has been on my mind for the 20 years. She was taken to the hospital a few hours ago with a "possible heart attack." I know I'll be blamed.

My children hate me and my husband is mad at me.

How do I clean up this mess? Is it too late? — Beside Myself

Dear Friend: You need more help than I can give you. I suggest a therapist if you can afford it. If not, call the county or state association for mental health. Someone will tell you what facilities are available.

It may not be too late to salvage your children if you get some counseling on how to deal with them and can summon the strength to do it.

As for your mother, if she did have a heart attack, you didn't cause it. But you do need professional help to rid yourself of the guilt. Get going.

Dear Ann Landers. I loved the letter in your column about the youngster who told a nosy woman he wore an eyepatch because he was a pirate.

I can sympathize with the child because I have a blemish on my face and people often ask me about it. "What's the matter with your lip?" someone invariably says on being introduced.

My technique is a long, quiet look. The clod usually begins to squirm. If not, I ask, "Why do you want to know?" Embarrased silence follows. It works every time, even with children! More power to your typewriter! — K.M. Of Philadelphia

Dear K.M.: Beautiful. Your technique is very much like my standard chopper: "Why in the world would you ask a question like THAT?"

Responding to a nunofyerbiznize-type question WITH a question is a super ploy.

Dear Ann Landers: What Should a motorist (or a pedestrian) do when he comes upon a dog or cat, or squirrel or possum who has been hit by a car and is in terrible pain?

My father says it's an act of mercy to club the animal to death. Right or wrong? — Eau Claire, Wis.

Dear E.C.: WRONG. Call the Humane Society and ask them to come and get the animal.

Kids grow up too fast

My mother is funny about Christmas.

She gets annoyed when she has to buy gifts that (a) she can't spell; (b) she doesn't have the foggiest notion what they're used for; (c) leak grease.

"Because he's 20 years old."

"It's no fun doing your Christmas shopping in an auto supply store. Tell me again what I bought him last year."

"A mag wheel."

"And the year before that?"

"An RF-60 FM stereo wireless radio chamber."

"I'll bet it's never been hemmed."

"They were headphones, mother."

"If you ask me, kids grow up too fast. I liked it better when we could buy them toys and games. Remember that game where you sunk each other's battleships? I hate to brag but I downed 11 destroyers and six cruisers before they even got the hang of it."

"I remember."

"And the popcorn machine. I loved the popcorn machine. That little thing made a pretty good batch of caramel corn."

"I remember."

"But the electric hockey was my favorite. I tried to tell 'em, it's coordination. Skunked every one of them. And Monopoly. I had 'em so they couldn't land anywhere on that board unless they printed their own money. So, what does he want this year?"

"Take your pick. He's into photography. You want to get him the 273 auto. thyristor bounce flash 9-90 with head tilt?"

"No."

"How about a little stocking stuffer like a couple rolls of EX 135-30 Ektachrome ASA 64-19?"

"Write it down," she said tiredly.

As I watched her go off with a note in her hand, I couldn't help but reflect sadly that somewhere in our quest to reach down to children and their quest to reach up to maturity, we pass one another in the night.

Dr. Lamb

Insulin inhibitor information

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you name the medicine you have mentioned which will block the pepsin-producing nerve to the stomach and backhandedly decrease insulin production. I'm afraid my doctor will plead ignorance if I go to see him empty handed.

DEAR READER — I'm glad to hear your doctor is a skeptic. He should be, in view of all the misinformation available to the public these days from innumerable, unqualified sources. You can take him my column if you wish.

There are two independent bits of information that justify using these medicines in some patients. When too much insulin is released through any mechanism it will stimulate the production of acid digestive juice and increase the contractions of the stomach. This is well known and if he wants a reference he can read the details in Best and Taylor's eighth edition of "The Physiological Basis of Medical Practice" (page 1255 and 1357).

This effect of increased amount of insulin that produces low blood glucose (sugar) can lead to hunger pains and acid indigestion. It can be abolished by cutting the vagus nerve that stimulates this action of the stomach. It can also be abolished by giving a drug that blocks the action of the vagus nerve. Your doctor is familiar with these medicines. They belong to the atropine group and include Probanthine, commonly used in treating ulcer patients.

Your doctor might have to search to find out that stimulation of the vagus nerve can also cause an increased production of insulin from the pancreas. The main regulator of insulin release is the level of the blood glucose. As the blood glucose rises more insulin is released to lower it back to normal levels. However, in the eleventh edition of Samson Wright's "Applied Physiology," published by the Oxford University Press, he will find reference to the point that stimulation of the vagus nerve can lead to release of increased amounts of insulin, lowering the blood glucose (page 442).

These interesting observations show that the vagus nerve, hunger contractions, release of acid-digestive juice that affects the stomach and produces ulcer-like symptoms, and low blood glucose are all intertwined and affect each other. Patients with hypoglycemia reactions accompanied with an acid stomach are often helped a great deal with the atropine-like medicines.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I found out the way to quit smoking. I fell in love and kept away from coffee, soda pop, Kool-aid, and I drank plenty of water.

DEAR READER — Good for you. I'm all for any sensible way that isn't harmful and helps people quit smoking. Perhaps you should start a Hug-Don't-Puff Club. I guess your message is don't huff and puff, just love, love, love.

Astrographs

For Monday, Dec. 22, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your energies today are likely to be directed toward things of a fun social nature.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a good day for you to try to finalize a situation where something of material value is owed to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be timid about pushing your plans, if you feel they're better than those of your associates. Chances are you're right.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This could be a profitable day if you are enterprising and resourceful. Give business matters top priority.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) Being around active people will afford you the greatest pleasure today. Avoid stick-in-the-muds or dull groups.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept.22) The results you're hoping for today can be attained, if you do what is necessary without calling to much attention to yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You have a way of expressing your ideas today that captures the imagination of others, especially if you're talking about a new interest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) Once you set your mind on a goal today you'll not easily be deterred. Just be sure you aim for something worthwhile.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.21) Someone important to your present needs can be swayed to your way of thinking if you present your case with verve and logic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Most of your efforts today are likely to go toward helping others sort out their problems. However, I don't think you'll mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb.19) Conditions should be very harmonious for you today. Even if little disturbances do pop up you'll take them in stride.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try to spend some time today on your pet hobby, or putter around with something else you enjoy doing. You'll find it very relaxing.

Your Birthday, Dec. 22, 1975

You will make some very constructive changes this coming year that will benefit you materially. However, you must be prepared to work diligently in order to bring them about.

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

South's four-spade contract was doubtful indeed, but South gave the cards a chance and they responded nicely.

The defense started with two rounds of hearts. South was in with the king and promptly played his ace of spades and dummy's eight. When the queen dropped, South was in business. Not the very best sort of business, but not one in bankruptcy.

He played ace and another diamond. West was in and led a club. South carefully discarded a diamond from dummy. East was in with the ace and the third and last trick.

East led a third heart. South ruffed with the king and led his seven of spades. West ducked, but South who had carefully played dummy's eight of spades earlier was able to play the six and leave his own hand on lead. The five of spades was overtaken by dummy's six spot. Dummy's jack of trumps pulled West's last tooth while allowing South to chuck his high diamond and dummy was good.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader asks what the best response to a two-spade opening is when you play the Herbert convention.

The Herbert convention provides that when you respond to a forcing two bid you bid the next suit (not two notrump as the negative response). Thus, the negative response to two spades becomes three clubs. This is rather unsatisfactory and is one of the weaknesses of the Herbert convention.

Twelve nations border Russia

Years ago a certain thief in New York City always checked the society columns before going out on his night's work. On the several occasions when police picked him up, they found one sort of mask or another in his pockets. But he told them each time his exact destination, a public masquerade party. Since then, it has been against the law there for three or more persons in masks to congregate in public. Or for that matter, to congregate in private, either, without police permission.

THAT WORKING MAN most apt to take an unscheduled day off the job is the farmer. Or so claim the government researchers. Interesting. But surely they don't refer to dairy farmers. That string of fresh cows permits no days away.

LONGEVITY

Q. "In how many countries do men aged 65 enjoy a longer life expectancy than those in the United States?"

A. Seven. Norway, Israel, The Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland, Canada and Denmark.

WEATHER REPORT: . . . Figure hail storms do just about four times as much damage as tornados . . . ALL HURRICANES start out as cyclones, but not all cylones turn into hurricanes . . . DID I TELL YOU an inch of rainfall means 113 tons of water to the acre?

AT THE AGE OF 69, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was a dying man, everybody knew that. So he built himself a $30 million house with an oxygen tent in every room. A full time physician was among the 350 people hired to keep the place going. That house had 10 elevators. What a fantastic waste of money, observers thought. Mr. Rockefeller did not agree. Therein, he lived to be 98.

CAT GUT

That violin strings originally were made of sheep gut, not cat gut, is common knowledge. But not so well known is why said violin strings came to be labeled cat gut. That got started in Italy about A.D. 130. Fellow named Erasmo invented the sheep gut string. But inasmuch as he didn't want everybody else making sheep gut strings to compete with him, he chose to call them cat gut, because at the time there to kill a cat was considered bad luck, very bad luck.

AM ASKED how many Irishmen fought with our Continental Army during the Revolutionary War. About 4,000. That whole army never numbered more than about 25,000 at one time. You can see the Irish were pretty well represented.

Here's one way a scientific detective determines how long a human body has been dead in a homicide case. He takes the temperature of the corpse. He subtracts that from 98.6. He multiplies the result by 1.5. That figure represents an hour and half, which is how long it takes after death for the temperature to drop one degree.

Q. "MY UNCLE claims he spent more on his new car than Queen Isabella spent to outfit those three ships for Christopher Columbus. Is that possible?"

A. If he went for an exceedingly luxurious model, it is. She put about $14,000 into that first discovery trip of Columbus.

CAR COST

If you plan to keep your new car for 10 years, you can figure it will cost you four times the original investment.

THAT NATION which has used the same national flag the longest is said to be Denmark. King Valdemar the Victorious supposedly saw a white cross in the red sky just before he won a fight. Denmark adopted that white cross on red in 1219.

LOVE AND WAR

Researchers checked out 500 divorcing couples. They learned that 71 per cent did not seek matrimonial counsel before they filed their legal actions. They saw 40 per cent of the couples who sought counsel were reconciled. And they aver indignantly that a sizable number of those who didn't ask for such help might have saved their marriages if they had done so. Our Love and War man thinks they err. He says the couples who went to counselors most probably wanted to save their marriages, and the couples who didn't go most probably didn't want to. That made the difference.

DOES THE TEENAGER around you spend approximately three hours a week on the telephone? That's a national average, according to a research institute. Said teenager also spends about six hours a week in active sports such as baseball, basketball and swimming. And around 15 hours 30 minutes a week listening to radio music and records.

STILL LEGIBLE — Glyphs of an ancient semitic language, carefully copied and annotated, are still legible on a charred scrap of paper salvaged from a nearly fatal fire. The fire occurred last October in Father Albert Jamme's office at Catholic University.

Years of work lost

He's not giving up

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Somewhere in the hot sandy wastes of Yemen this Christmas, a Roman Catholic priest will celebrate mass alone. Dinner will be something cold from a can. Last time it was tuna fish.

And when his celebration is over, he will go back to work, ferreting out inscriptions of a language and people long dead, of a largely unknown civilization that flourished 15 centuries before Christ was born.

And perhaps he will ponder the will of God, and the sadness of all lost things.

Only a few weeks ago — before this, his seventh trip to the southern Arabian peninsula — Father Albert Jamme sat in a borrowed Catholic University office, his voice rising and falling in frustration, his torn T-shirt smudged with char, his fingers gray with ash, the air still tainted with smoke.

Around him was all that remained of 35 years of work, a lifetime of seven-day weeks, charred and in disarray.

Fire struck his small, cluttered office on Oct. 26, and this 59-year-old servant of God wonders why, in the manner of Job. He said in his French-Belgian accent:

"I know there is a great lesson in this. But I don't know what it is. What He wanted me to learn, I do not know. For many years I work all day long here, every day. That He had a good reason, there is no doubt. It is not even up to me to ask why."

Pere Jamme, as they call him on campus, is a balding, excitable man. He speaks with his hands and many clicks of his tongue when words fail.

He is one of only four scholars in the world who have reached back centuries before Christ to recover semitic languages and history, collected from desert ruins, of an ancient people who preceded the Phoenecians, Greeks, Romans, Hebrews and Arabs with a civilization of their own. His library, stored in his office, was to yield a still unwritten dictionary of those languages.

Father Jamme won't give up...

Until after World War II, little was known of these people and the four languages they fashioned. But for the efforts of a few like Pere Jamme, they would still be unknown.

Since to this day there are no courses taught about them, even by Pere Jamme, these collected researches of his were, until the fire, one of the few reservoirs of their history.

Which is why he is even more haunted by the fire, and why he returns now, his life's work in shambles, to try to replace what went up in smoke.

Oct. 26 was a chilly Sunday in Washington, and as was his habit every day, he said mass at the home he shares with other Catholic brothers and was in his office by 7:15 a.m.

It was a simple office, some of the shelves made from old doors, scavenged from around campus, loaded with boxes of index cards, the key to his dictionary. There were larger boxes, too, containing latex impressions of stone inscriptions, albums of photographs of inscriptions, and piles of squeezes of inscriptions.

The latter were made by pounding soaked blotting paper into the words cut in stone to mold the letter forms.

Pere Jamme makes no salary. His only money comes from birthday, Christmas and Easter gifts, and that goes into his work, save for a few self-indulgences like cigarettes and coffee.

He brings the dinner leftovers from his church-supported house, and usually eats them cold at lunchtime. But this pales, and this chill fall day he heated up some stew, then cleaned off the hot plate.

(The fire department later said the hot plate caused the fire. Pere Jamme insists it was unplugged and cold, else how could he have cleaned it.) His task this day was to bind the notes of his last trip to Yemen in 1973-74 in hopes a grant would come through allowing him to make another trip this year.

Alone in the building, the elevators not running and other offices locked up, he left briefly to borrow the use of a machine to punch holes in the thick wad of notes.

When he walked back up to his office, he found the fourth floor full of smoke. He opened his office door and saw flames three feet high. The fluorescent ceiling lights lay twisted on the floor.

"I had exactly the same shock as during the war when I was arrested by the Germans and I was looking into the barrel of a revolver pointed at my head," he recalled. "I froze."

Forgetting two fire extinguishers in his panic, he tried carrying water from the women's restroom. He did turn in a fire alarm and the firemen were there in 15 minutes. It took an hour to put out the blaze, and then they began throwing his smoldering papers out the window.

Pere Jamme was on the lawn below watching his life's work flutter to the ground like thousands of stricken sparrows, catching and shredding in the branches of a tree outside his window.

Students and faculty flocked to the rescue, picking up the scattered index cards, the blotting paper squeezes like so much wet and rumpled laundry. They were packed in boxes and spread on the library basement floors to dry.

The volunteer crew worked until four in the morning, picking up anything with writing on it.

The next day he returned to find the entire semitic language department, students, faculty and friends hard at work salvaging what they could, drying papers with towels, carefully soaking the picture albums that had fused into bricks and then excising the individual photographs with scalpels. For 10 days they set aside classes and their own work to work for Pere Jamme.

He marveled at their kindness, these many people, most of whom he didn't even know.

When his real consciousness returned, so did his resolve. Pere Jamme was born in southern Belgium where the Walloon farmers are known for stubbornness. The totem of his hometown was the wild boar, and the farmers used to say the only way to stop a wild boar was to kill it. "And so," he says, "since I was not killed . . .

"Besides, I have no right from a Christian point of view to give up anyhow."

So many questions lingered.

Why hadn't he microfilmed his index cards of which some 60,000 remain? "If I did, how would I use them? How would I pay? Oh yes, I know, a large corporation could do it. Psh. But I am not a large corporation."

How would he replace records from places as far away as Istanbul, Bombay, London, East Germany, Saudi Arabia? He guesses it might cost up to $40,000 and eight to nine years of work just to reorganize what is left and replace some of it. Much is irreplaceable.

Can someone help him? How can anyone help? he asks, showing the glyphs carefully inscribed on his index cards. "No, I must do it myself." He holds his charred notebooks in his hand and says, "Oh my babies."

He ponders what the Lord wants him to do, and faces it with faith:

"When I was ordained," he says, "He gave me the most beautiful grace of the priesthood. And therefore I am his servant, and the servant is not above the master. And the Master ends up on a cross. What do you expect me to do? End up in a limousine?"

What will his work mean? He doesn't know. No one studies it. No one teaches it. But he won't have it stored away in some basement room, unavailable to anyone.

"It has been my philosophy that the Good Lord doesn't ask me for success. He only asks me to work. Work he is going to get. The rest is His business."

Four weeks after the fire, the Ford Foundation grant came through for the trip to Yemen. He was high-spirited again. He chuckled, the old Walloon farmer, certain of his place, his special place.

Someone will find him a simple room in Yemen because he will not spend money on hotels. That way he will be able to stay longer. Where will he be on Christmas?

"I'll be roving around — all the countryside, you know," he chuckles. "Climbing mountains, going where nobody wants to go — except a crazy old man looking for inscriptions."

Hospital guarantee might lower hospital costs

Some might not get well, but the 40,000 patients treated annually at the hospital are guaranteed good food, satisfactory nursing care, and a variety of other hospital amenities. If a patient goes for a blood test and "gets stuck with a square needle," as a hospital official puts it, he gets his money back.

A spokesman for the American Hospital Association, which has nearly 7,000 members, or 85 per cent of all the hospitals in the United States, says that as far as the AHA knows, Blanchard Valley is the only hospital in the nation guaranteeing its services.

Now beginning its second year, the program has been praised by hospital staff and patients alike. And hospitals elsewhere in the country have requested information about the program.

During the first 12 months, only 14 patients complained and only eight asked for refunds, according to William E. Ruse, Blanchard Valley's 40-year-old, pipe-smoking administrator. The others just wanted to call something to the attention of the hospital so it would be corrected.

Ruse instituted the guaranteed services on Nov. 1, 1974, because he was concerned, he said, about the high cost of health care. He convinced the hospital board to give him $12,000 a year for refunds.

The biggest first-year refund went to a patient who complained that a nurse did not respond quickly enough to a call and that as a result, the patient fell out of bed. The patient got back half the daily room cost (it ranges from $56 to $63 in the 230-bed hospital) and free treatment in the emergency room, services that amounted to $66.

Other complaints included delays in admission, poor food, and faulty TV sets. And then there was the 67-year-old woman admitted somehow to the pediatrics ward.

Two patients were unhappy with their doctors, but the hospital's guarantee services agreement says: "Because of the nature of human illness, we cannot guarantee the results of your medical care nor can we guarantee the services provided by your physician or dentist."

Another paragraph adds the caveat: "Crediting a patient's account under the guaranteed services program is not an admission of liability, either expressed or implied . . ."

Ruse, who convinced the 18-man board of trustees approve the service guarantee to patients, says he got the idea while driving to a meeting.

"I just happened to think of it," he says. "It didn't come from any particular set of circumstances."

The proposal first was studied by two board committees, then went to the full board which voted approval by a three to one margin.

"The concern was not so much with the $12,000 a year as with the potential liability, which was unknown," Ruse said. "We were putting the entire budget of the hospital on the line.

"The initial reaction was one of acceptance, but not unanimously. There were some who said laughingly, 'Call in the men in white uniforms.'

"But I sold it through logical reasoning," explained Ruse, who has been hospital administrator for 11 years. "I explained that the hospital had a track record of few complaints. We have had a patient relations director for seven years and an Aspirin Line for complaints five years. We knew the types and numbers of complaints were very small; I didn't feel we were taking a risk of that magnitude."

Ruse says Blanchard Valley's costs are 20 per cent below the average in northwestern Ohio and the service guarantee program should help to hold down costs because it fosters patient confidence. "Hopefully they will get well faster and shorten their length of stay — which will help hold down the cost," Ruse said.

He added: "In adopting this kind of program, you have to have a lot of faith in what you're doing. If the phone is ringing and too many patients are unhappy, you could go bankrupt. But this is the day and age of having to address yourself to the consumer. What can we do to meet that challenge? Part of the idea is to meet patients' expectations ...

"We haven't had anybody take advantage of the program. I wish the patients would take more advantage of it and we would get more complaints. We don't think 14 complaints represent the total amount of dissatisfaction with the services.

"We surveyed it, and 18 per cent didn't even know the program exists, although we place the guarantee in each room and tell the patient about it."

As to whether the program has shortened the length of patients' stays, Ruse said this would be a "very subjective judgment." He said the average stay has decreased by onetenth of a day, to 6.8 days from 6.9, but there is no firm documentation to link the drop with the warranty on services.

In a survey made by the hospital last August, in which 71 patients responded to questionnaires, 60.6 per cent rated the care as excellent, 33.8 per cent rated it good, and 5.6 per cent called it average. No patient rated the care poor.

Ruse said that initially some people looked on the program as "just trying to check on employes all the time. But being against this program now is like being against God, mother and apple pie."

Esther Thompson, a cook in the hospital's kitchen for 10 years, says the guaranteed service stimulates employes to better work.

"It gives the patients a chance to air their views if they are not satisfied with us," she said. "It gives the employes more incentive to do better. They are going to take more pride in their work."

The kitchen is meticulously clean and organized. On one day in December the dinner menu included three entrees — roast pork, lasagna and roast turkey.

Mrs. Gerald Essinger, whose mother has been in the hospital six or seven times in the past two years, recalls "one little problem. A nurse's aide got a wee bit upset with my mother because she needed a bedpan so often. I got hold of the patient relations director and it was remedied right away. She was spoken to and the patient relations director came to me several times after to be sure everything was right. We didn't want a refund as long as it was taken care of."

Ruse said that cost liability incurred in the program is funded from the Blanchard Valley Hospital Association's investment income so that the program's cost is not charged directly to patients.

In its 1974 annual report, Blanchard showed a net income of $118,239. There was nearly $6.5 million in revenues from patient services, and $221,737 from investments, endowments and gifts.

The hospital, opened in 1958, is owned by Hancock County and is leased to a nonprofit association which includes the board of directors that sets policy. Its net earnings have been put back into capital improvements and expansion, including the construction of a medical center. The center has been a major actor in recruiting physicians for Findlay, a town of nearly 40,000.

"SICK STOMACH OK NOW"

Says Mrs. Ruiz, "I had stomach trouble mucho malo. It used to burn like fire and I couldn't eat anything without terrible pain. I was so nervous I could hardly think. Then my brother told me to see Dr. Wing, and after a few weeks I was much better. Soon I was well enough to stop all treatments and it is now 10 years later and my stomach and nerves are fine."

Paper profits. For kids.

Here's a new way for kids to clean up. In more ways than one.

The newspaper game. The object is to collect as much old newspaper as they can from neighbors. No magazines—just newspapers.

In no time they can gather enough bundles to make it worthwhile to sell to us. And earn enough to keep them in pocket money for weeks.

Grownups can play too. In fact, a grownup should drive the papers over to our paper recycling center (a small price for encouraging juvenile industry).

We're open Monday thru Friday, 7:00 AM-5:00 PM. Saturday 7:00 AM-1:00 PM.

Catching 'The Catcher' not an easy task

J.D. Salinger...where are you?

EDITOR'S NOTE — The author, who grew up in South Africa and now is AP correspondent in Jerusalem, has been a fan of J.D. Salinger since boyhood. Visiting America, he traveled to New England to see his reclusive hero, and perhaps interview him. But the journalist's instinct gave way to a desire to join Salinger's neighbors "in protecting the rare and beautiful creature."

By MARCUS ELIASON
Associated Press Writer

CORNISH, N.H. (AP) — Well, Mr. J.D. Salinger, you're a hard man to find. Looking for you has been like hunting a rare creature in a jungle, hindered at every turn by neighbors who didn't want me to find my quarry.

Not that I wasn't forewarned. I knew you had given only one interview in 22 years, that no new photograph of you had been published since 1962. I had heard of the admirer who pounded on your door, pleading for just a handshake, and your grudging reply: "Okay, but I'm not doing it out of friendship."

You probably know that Holden Caulfield, the "Catcher" himself, is as famous abroad as in America.

From information provided by your publishers, I calculate that 10 million copies of the book have been sold, and 250,000 are still bought every year. The scant available biographical material tells us you are 56, born in New York City, educated at a military academy, and you left New York for remote New Harnsphire in 1951, the year "Catcher in the Rye" was published, searching for privacy.

Since then you have published a book of nine short stories, and two other volumes of longer stories — "Franny and Zooey" and "Raise High the Roofbeam, Carpenters."

Since 1966, you have published nothing. To your fans, it is more than just an ordinary silence. You created Caulfield, and never let him grow up, just as you never told us how Franny or Zooey developed.

Whatever became, one wonders, of Holden Caulfield, the 16-year-old high school dropout, raging against "phony society" and searching among children for lost innocence. Almost anyone who read the book at 16 felt he was Holden.

Reclusive as you are, you have many friends among the 10,000 villagers living within a 40-mile radius of you. They have formed a kindly conspiracy of silence to protect your privacy.

They won't talk much about you, let alone give directions to your house. Of course, you're not in the book.

The first day I was in your area — fully prepared to walk up to your door and bang on it — I stepped into the Dartmouth Bookstore in Hanover, N.H., and saw you browsing in the anthropology section.

You had barely changed from your early photographs. Your hair had faded from black to gray, clipped short and functional. In your spectacles, jeans and raincoat you looked like a retired Yankee farmer.

You meandered among the college kids in the store, moving your six foot frame with athletic grace. The store owner, Wilbur Goodhue, begged me not to approach you. "Don't even look suddenly in his direction," he said. "There'll be an unpleasant scene. He's very skittish."

As I pondered the situation, you left. I had all sorts of questions, like what are you writing now? Are your best friends still children, as you once said? Has Holden Caulfield grown up?

I dashed outside the store to see you driving off in a small gray European-made car, the one I'm told you use for occasional trips to New York.

"You were incredibly lucky just to see him," said Goodhue. "He only comes in very occasionally."

I kept getting names of people whom I was told knew you well. They all denied being friends of Jerome David Salinger. "Jerry? Haven't seen him for years," was the usual reply to my queries.

I was told you have become an expert on acupuncture. A doctor here told me you performed the Oriental needle treatment on a family member. One of your three ex-wives? Married daughter? Teenaged son? I know what you would reply: none of your damned business.

It has been reported that you write in a fallout shelter, eating meals left outside the door. Who cooks, now that you are, by all accounts, totally alone?

I know you still write. A neighbor of yours told me you showed up at a recent town council meeting and asked whether, legally speaking, writing could be considered to be conducting a business in your home.

I understand you still show an interest in the sale of your books. Employes at the bookstore in Hanover say you check the shelves and react somewhat peevishly if they are not on display.

In the one interview you have given, by phone to the New York Times to protest a bootleg edition of your works, you insisted you write constantly but do not publish because "publishing is a terrible invasion of my privacy." (your heirs, I'm told, will be able to publish your works after your death, if they wish.)

During my search I met a neighbor who liked the fact that I did not approach you in the bookstore. She gave me directions to your house, making me promise

SCENES OF YESTERYEAR — Three members of the Associated artists present paintings of scenes of the past to Frank Smith, manager of the Department of Motor Vehicles in Upland. The large oils-on-panel will be mounted on the walls of the DMV. The artists are, from left, Gerri Bowman, Anna Ruth Pritchett and Lois Clifford. Mrs. Bowman did the view of Upland's Second Avenue in the 1920s, right. Mrs. Pritchett painted the old science building at Chaffey High School, and Mrs. Clifford did the 1903 Oldsmobile. The 100-member art group meets at the Ontario Public Library on the second Wednesday of each month.

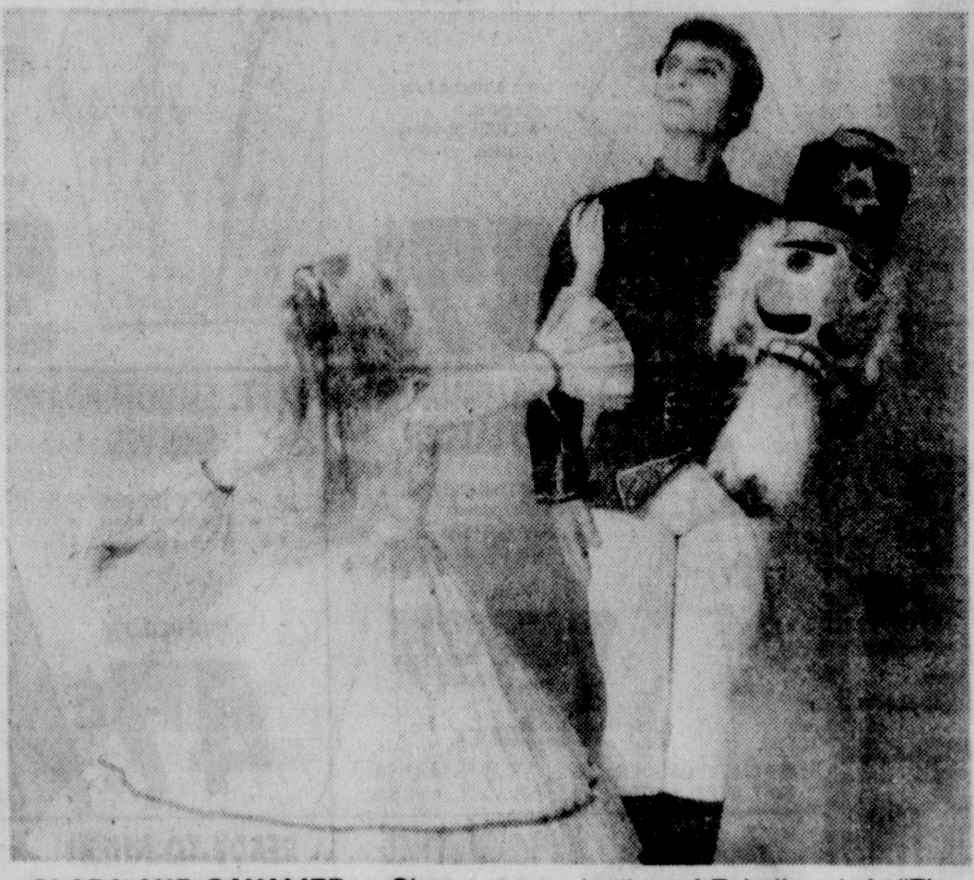
Fierros, a native of Texas, is a printer for the Progress-Bulletin. A self-taught artist, he has been painting for more than 15 years, specializing in miniatures, drawings, oil on canvas and oil on velvet. He has exhibited his work widely throughout Southern California, including the California Museum of Science and Industry in Los Angeles, Palomares Community Building, Pomona Public Library and in banks and credit unions in Pomona.



CLARA AND CAVALIER — Clara (Monica Mudgett) is delighted when the Nutcracker (Thor Sutowski) removes his mask to reveal a handsome prince. The scene is from the San Diego Ballet production of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker," to be presented in Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, in five performances Friday, Saturday and next Sunday.

THROUGH THE SPECTRUM — The first biennial western regional conference of the National Association of Teachers of Singing will be held at USC Dec. 27-30 . . . "The Oriental Rug as a Work of Art" is on view through Feb. 15 at the Bowers Museum in Santa Ana . . . the California Boys Choir will sing Benjamin Britten's "A Ceremony of Carols" at 2:30 this afternoon at the county Natural History Museum, Exposition Park, Los Angeles, admission free .

ARRANGING ART — Pomona artist Ruth Jackson readies her works for an exhibit in the Lobby Gallery of the Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 399 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. The show continues through the month.

S & L showing Jackson works

Oil paintings and collages by Ruth Jackson of Pomona are on exhibit this month in the Lobby Gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 399 N. Garey Ave., Pomona.

Mrs. Jackson, a native of New Mexico, has studied art at Scripps and Mt. San Antonio colleges and at UCLA. She has also studied with George DeBeeson, Robert George, Walter Mix and Richard Wright. She was a founding member of the Pomona Valley Art Association and the first director of its gallery.

Mrs. Jackson has exhibited widely and won numerous prizes in state and national competitions.

Musical

Christmas carols were first sung over 600 years ago in Europe, usually as an accompaniment to miracle plays. According to Hallmark Cards researcher Sally Hopkins, one of the earliest carols still existing is "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," written in England in the 1500's. Most carols, like "Hark The Herald Angels Sing," "Good King Wenceslaus" and "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night," date from the 19th century.

J.D. Salinger...

I was told to look for a tall, modern building behind a thin row of trees, in the middle of a field. I thought I might recognize your car if it was parked outside.

I drove along roads that got steadily narrower and muddier. The occasional resident I passed would have a standard answer to my queries: "He lives somewhere around here, I don't know where exactly, and anyway he won't talk to you."

I ended up lost in the woods of New Hampshire, a snow storm building, and a feeling growing in me that this was pointless. I found I had been dragged helplessly into the conspiracy of silence. The journalist's instinct had given way to a desire to join the others in protecting the rare and beautiful creature.

Hansen and West vows are repeated

The Church of Our Savious in San Gabriel was the setting for the marriage of Miss Nancy Anne West of Claremont and Ronald Lee Hansen of Durant, Iowa.

MRS. RONALD HANSEN

The couple was married by the Rev. Donald Miller in a double-ring afternoon ceremony followed by a reception held at the San Gabriel Country Club.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. West of Claremont. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hansen of Durant, Iowa.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Patrick Hayes of Culver City, Miss Ellen McCarthy of Palm Desert, Mrs. William Scherer of Northridge and Mrs. Greg Thompson of Arcadia.

Ushers were Christie Thoma of Durant, Iowa, Henry Conklin of Mc Farland, Mark Tomlinson of North Hollywood, Chuck West of Claremont, Peter Gutmann of Redondo Beach and Dr. James Boyd of Redondo Beach.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Palm Springs and will be at home in Durant, Iowa.

Wilson-Bradley vows repeated

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wilson have established a home in Montclair, following their marriage at the Chapel of the Bells in Ontario in a ceremony read by the Rev. Lee Kirk.

MRS. CURTIS WILSON

The former Miss Janice Dene Bradley is the daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Bradley of Upland.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jones Wilson of Huntington Beach.

Honor attendant was Teresa Stone of Upland.

Chicken idea

For an easy and economical meal, marinate cut-up broiler fryer in a sauce of 1 cup catsup, ½ cup syrup from canned cling peach halves, ½ cup Italian dressing and dash of Tabasco. Broil chicken slowly basting frequently. Just before serving drizzle peach halves with sauce, sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and broil.

St. Joseph Church setting for wedding

St. Joseph's Church in Pomona was the setting for the marriage of Miss Judy Clinkenbeard of Diamond Bar and James Perkins of Pomona.

The couple was married by the Rev. Joseph Carter in a double-ring ceremony followed by a reception held at the Ebell Club.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Clinkenbeard of Diamond Bar. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Perkins of Idaho.

Ushers were Sam Duran, Terry Richardson and Dennis Clinkenbeard.

MRS. JAMES PERKINS

Gift cards

Card shops nowadays are also Christmas gift centers. Items like jigsaw puzzles, pens and pencils, calendars, playing cards, candles, gift books and children's toys are often displayed beside the Christmas cards. This year, for instance, there are seasonal jigsaw puzzles of "The Night Before Christmas" and the Currier and Ives print "The Road — Winter" and numerous minijigsaws as stocking stuffers. Calendars in 36 varieties, from horses and wild flowers to the nation's Bicentennial, are available from Hallmark.

Consumer Center efforts

Make Americans aware

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The government's Consumer Information Center has stepped up its campaign to make Americans more aware of information that is available to help them fight inflation by saving money and spending more wisely.

The center, which is a part of the General Services Administration, was established in 1970 with a two-pronged mission: encourage government agencies to provide useful information to consumers in booklet form and spread the word to individuals that the information is there.

"We're an in-house lobbying operation with the 'house' being the federal government," said David Peterson, director of the center.

Officials have just concluded a $137,000 public service and advertising campaign to boost business. Another campaign is planned next summer.

Peterson said the center's major effort is an index, published every three months, of publications available from about two dozen federal agencies. The latest index lists some 250 publications, about half of them free of charge.

Almost nine million copies of the index were mailed out in the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1975, more than double the year before. Peterson hopes to distribute 11 million in the current fiscal year.

The index includes pamphlets on autombiles, budgeting techniques, child care, clothing, consumer education, food, nutrition, health, home repairs and building and leisure activities. Some of the publications are available in Spanish and there is a separate index of these documents.

The listing of booklets varies with the season, Peterson explained. The fall and winter index, for example, includes a pamphlet on studded tires; the spring and summer versions don't.

What are Americans most interested in?

Peterson said it's hard to tell. Generally, however, he said "how to" booklets and those directly related to the pocketbook are the most popular.

There are two categories of information that the center "can't give away," Peterson said. The first involves anything that is strictly labelled for safety — "probably because people think it always happens to the other fellow." The second covers small appliances, "probably because they don't cost much," Peterson said.

In the past year, the most popular free publications were: "Food is More than Something to Eat," a nutritional guide which drew 700,000 requests; "Miles per Gallon for 1975 Cars," which drew 500,000 requests; and "Keeping Records," with 125,000 requests.

MRS. R. WILLIAMS

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams have established a home in Ontario following their marriage in the Chapel of the Bells in Ontario.

The former Miss Tammy Hamilton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hamilton of Cucamonga. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Williams of Claremont.

Honor attendant was Charlotte Peek of Ontario.

Best man was Rick Cuda of San Clemente.

Lengthy

Floor-length skirts, in plaids or solids, are adaptable for day or evening wear. For night, add a black velvet vest or jacket for a dressier look. During the day, try a turtleneck or tailored shirt.

Bicentennial caravan scheduled

A caravan sponsored by the Diamond Bar Bicentennial Committee will form at 10 a.m. between Von's Market and Payless on Diamond Bar Boulevard on Friday for a visit to the Freedom Train at the Pomona Fairgrounds. The group will leave the gathering spot at 10:30 a.m.

The Diamond Bar Woman's Club, responsible for posters calling attention to the caravan, will have volunteers from the Diamond Point Elementary School providing the posters. They are Christy Dallison, Karen Leibrick and Jennifer Hunter.

ELODIE BABYAK

Nuptials scheduled in April

Miss Elodie Babyak of Alhambra and Robert L. Silva of Pomona will be married April 3 in St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Pomona.

The future bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Babyak of Inglewood, graduated in 1966 from Hawthorne High School and with honors from UC at Santa Barbara. Miss Babyak is employed by San Marino High School.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Silva Jr. of Pomona, the bridegroom-to-be is a 1960 graduate of Pomona Catholic High School and a 1974 graduate of La Verne College where he received his M.A. degree in 1967. He is employed by the Rowland Heights School District.

Hair care

Keep your hair covered in cold weather. In freezing temperatures hair gets brittle and can split. Nourish it over the winter with moist warmth (keep a humidifier in the house) and with protein conditioning packs. In cold weather it is especially important to avoid too frequent use of curling irons, electric curlers and blow dryers. Let your hair dry naturally whenever possible.

Dry hair as gently and as slowly as possible. Blot it with a terrycloth towel to soak up excess water.

Rogers, Sigler rite read

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rogers have established a home in Alabama following their marriage at the Church of Nazarene in Pomona.

The former Miss Laurel Anne Sigler is the daughter of Mrs. Josephine Sigler of Pomona. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rogers of Pomona.

Best man was Steve Wichman of Pomona.

CYNTHIA KRAMER

Miss Cynthia Kramer and Bruce Miller of Upland are engaged.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mrs. Angie Kramer of Anaheim, was graduated from Magnolia High School in Anaheim and La Verne College. Miss Kramer is employed by the Azusa school district.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Miller of Allendale N.J., was graduated from Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta, Ga. with a B.A. in electrical engineering. Mr. Miller is employed with General Dynamics in Pomona.

A June wedding is planned.

Rocky pets good for gifts

Someone has dreamed up the novel idea of selling rocks as pets. "Yes, pets," says Leslie Wood, consumer information specialist for Johnson Wax. "Unusual rocks (pure breds?) are running several dollars," she said, "but the holidays are approaching and there are probably dozens of 'mongrels' in your back yard waiting to be housetrained and made into imaginative gifts. "They won't fetch the morning paper but they'll hold the door open while you fetch it," she added.

"Find a smooth rock about the weight of a brick," she suggested. "Take the time to locate one with an interesting shape, then clean it and paint it with acrylic paint, letting your imagination determine the design and color. Finish up with a coat of Paste Wax for protection, and you're ready to wrap it."

Overeaters

Overeaters Anonymous has meeting throughout Pomona Valley. The organization is a fellowship of men and women who meet to share their experience, strength and hope with one another in order that they may solve their common problem and help those who still suffer to recover from compulsive overeating.

For more information, contact the O.A. office in Pomona at 622-6430 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Busing: it's integration on wheels

DETROIT (AP) — This schismatic city of increasing blacks and diminishing whites waits apprehensively for the start of school busing next month to integrate the remaining predominantly white schools.

U.S. District Judge Robert DeMascio has ordered school borders changed and the busing of 21,000 black and white students when the second semester begins on Jan. 26.

The order has angered white parents, mostly clustered in the extreme northeast and northwest of the city — and has met with at best apathy from many Detroiters, black or white.

Detroit's 1.5 million people were roughly half black, half white in the 1970 census but an exodus of white families in the past five years has put the black population at well over 50 per cent.

This year black students account for 75 per cent of the city's 247,000 public school students. In 1970, they were 64 per cent; in 1965, 55 per cent.

As white student enrollment declined, more and more schools became either predominantly black pr all black. Judge De Mascio's order is aimed at achieving some balance by increasing to 50 per cent the proportion of blacks in the 83 schools that are still mostly white.

The order leaves 148 of the 308 public schools in Detroit, the nation's fifth-largest school system, with black enrollments of 95 per cent or more. The remaining 77 schools have white enrollments between five and 49 per cent. Most of these 77 and the 83 predominantly white schools are affected by Judge DeMascio's order. It's the first court-ordered integration plan to be carried out in Detroit.

Eighty-nine per cent of white parents surveyed recently by Market Opinion Resarch, a private organization, said they opposed busing, and a third said they would move out to avoid it. Black parents expressed indifference, with half of them opposed to busing, the research firm reported. It conducted the survey for New Detroit, an organization of black and white civic leaders.

"There has been talk of possible violent mobilization by the Ku Klux Klan and the American Nazi Party," says Joe Madison, executive director of the Detroit NAACP. "But Detroit can stop that if it simply comes together."

Madison, whose organization was plaintiff in the Detroit case that led to De Mascio's ruling, says continued white opposition could polarize Detroit along racial lines.

Although "I really don't believe black or white parents are for busing," says interim school superintendent Arthur Jefferson, he believes the city as a whole will accept it fairly well — not ignoring certain elements that will not.

Federal officials are confident that with a black mayor, Coleman Young, and a black-dominated school board, the city will not see top officials encouraging disobedience.

"The attitude of public officials appears very positive," says Rita Scott of the Justice Department's community relations staff.

"The mayor and the police department understand their responsibilities with respect to the health and welfare of the children.

"We also have the cooperation of the school board — and that certainly was not the case in Boston."

The most visible and perhaps best organized is MAD — Mothers Alert Detroit. Its 2,000 parents live mostly on the city's northeast section. MAD leader Carmen Roberts is a regional school board member.

She already has pulled her daughter out of public school, saying the child learned only "a thimblefulful" last year.

MAD plans to help parents shift children to suburban and private schools. Almost inevitably there will be a classroom boycott. There was a one-day protest in October when several thousand northeastern white children stayed home.

"The question of desegregation is just semantics," Mrs. Roberts argues. "We're not really talking about desegregation. We've had black families in our neighborhood all summer. I think the courts and the people who come up with quotas are the real racists."

Mrs. Roberts says busing will mean the death of the city, and will leave only those white families who cannot afford to move away, senior citizens and welfare cases.

Helen Moore, head of Black Parents for Quality Education, agrees. She predicts the city will be all black in a few years and says busing is "a waste — a manipulation of our students for everybody's benefit but their own."

Indeed, white flight was the major reason the NAACP initially sought to have suburban school districts included in a metro school desegregation plan. A district court order that included 83 suburban districts in a busing plan with Detroit was overturned in 1974 in a landmark U.S. Supreme Court decision.

The press and the American Revolution

Congress votes for independence

By DR. FRANCIS G. WALETT
Worcester State College

The day was going to be hot. Thomas Jefferson recorded that the temperature was already 70 degrees at 6 a.m. in Philadelphia. Before long it was over 80 and by afternoon members of the Congress were complaining about the oppressive humidity. To make matters worse, horseflies from a nearby livery stable came in through the open window of the Pennsylvania State House and buzzed around the delgates. But that Tuesday (July 2, 1776) was a day of most important business; the final vote on the resolution for American independence would be taken.

There was no question but that the vote would pass. But would it be unanimous? Each colony had only one vote, and the previous day in committee session South Carolina and Pennsylvania, were opposed to the resolution. The two delegates present from Delaware were divided in their views — Thomas McKean in favor of independence, and George Read stubbornly opposed. Hoping for a unanimous vote, Patriots persuaded South Carolina delegates to change their minds, and two Pennsylvania delegates agreed to absent themselves so that their colony's vote would be affirmative. Now everything depended on whether the third delegate from Delaware would arrive in time to cast his vote.

Caesar Rodney, a self-educated farmer and militia colonel, was looking into a reported Tory uprising in southern Delaware when an express rider sent out by McKean told him that his vote was needed to break the Delaware tie. Rodney immediately set out for Philadelphia.

Riding hard all night through thunderstorms, he wore out several horses. Caesar Rodney did not cut a large figure among the great men of that time, but he was an ardent supporter of independence. Knowing what his vote meant, he galloped as fast as possible to reach Congress in time to put Delaware in the column for independence.

Haggard and splashed with mud from head to toe, Rodney finally reached the State House late that afternoon. Still booted and spurred he dashed into the hall where the drowsy and irritable gentlemen in silk stockings were slapping at horseflies. When Rodney cast his vote for independence, the resolution was passed unanimously by the colonists.

There is no evidence of a noisy demonstration among the tired delegates. But they were relieved to have the debate over independence that had raged so long, finally over. Shortly, the Declaration of Independence itself would be adopted.

Talk of independence had been growing in many places, and after the appearance of Thomas Paine's COMMON SENSE earlier in the year it became much more vigorous. Samuel Adams wrote in April 1776 of the "necessity of proclaiming Independency. The salvation of this country depends upon its being done speedily." Another Massachusetts Patriot, Major Joseph Hawley of Northampton exclaimed, "For God's sake let there be a full revolution, or all has been done in vain. Independence and a well planned continental government will save us."

Nor were New Englanders alone in these feelings. Thomas Jefferson had already said that the colonists had the power "to declare and assert a separation." A writer in Purdie's VIRGINIA GAZETTE deplored the lingering "fondness for Britain," and urged Americans to "CUT THE GORDIAN KNOT"; and "An Independent Whig" in the NEW YORK JOURNAL proposed a toast, "May the INDEPENDENT principles of COMMON SENSE be confirmed throughout the United Colonies."

There were, of course, those like Colonel Landon Carter of Virginia, who called this independence talk "Rascally and nonsensical!" and wrote that Paine's COMMON SENSE was "quite scandalous and disagrees the American cause much." One agrument of the Loyalists in the press was that the colonists could not win their independence. How could the disorganized colonial rabble expect to defeat the disciplined forces of Britain?

Loyalist writers also ridiculed the notion that for-

HORSEPLAY — Members of the Valentina Oumansky Dramatic Dance Ensemble frolic in "With Apologies to Aesop," to be presented in the Montclair High School auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Jan. 8. The performance is one of the Montclair Starlite Series. Admission is free.

Montclair Starlite Series

Dance group will perform

The Valentina Oumansky Dramatic Dance Ensemble will perform in the Montclair High School auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Jan. 8, the third event of the Montclair Starlite Series. Admission is free.

Highlight of the performance will be "Homage to the Southwest Indians," a primitive work choreographed by Miss Oumansky which depicts the beauty and mystery of nature as expressed through the ceremonial and masked dances of the Zuni, Navajo and Apache tribes.

Also on the program is "In the Hills," employing the shuffle and stomp of mountain dances of the North Carolina hills; "Cars," a dramatic etude about cars, drivers and near-collisions; "The Birth of the Birds" from the ballet "Hieronymus," and "With Apologies to Aesop," a suite of dramatic episodes with a moral.

The Oumansky ensemble was recently commended by Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley for bringing concert dance activities to California audiences. The program has been endorsed by the Los Angeles Bicentennial Committee.

Not festive

Christmas Day is never celebrated on Christmas Island in the Indian Ocean because its inhabitants are Buddhists and Mohammedans, says Hallmark Cards researcher Sally Hopkins. Nor are Christmas festivities held in Santa Claus' home town. Myra, Turkey, the birthplace of St. Nicholas, is a Mohammedan community.

Christmas gift for students

As a Christmas present for high school and college students, reserved student tickets at reduced prices are being offered for "The Night of the Iguana" at the Ahmanson Theater of the Los Angeles Music Center. Tickets will be $3 Monday through Jan. 2.

Tennessee Williams' award-winning drama stars Richard Chamberlain, Dorothy McGuire, Raymond Massey and Eleanor Parker. It is directed by Joseph Hardy.

Reserved student tickets for "The Night of the Iguana" can be purchased at the box office in advance of or at the time of the performance. Mail orders will also be accepted at Ahmanson Theater Box Office, 135 N. Grand Ave., Los Angeles 90012. A student I.D. card (or copy) is required, and entitles the student to purchase two tickets.

The attraction plays nightly, except Sundays, at 8:30 p.m., with matinees on Thursdays and Saturdays at 2:30 p.m. There will be no performances on Christmas or New Year's Day. These performances have been moved to the matinee and evening of next Sunday and Jan. 4.

St. Augustine

The first permanent settlement by Europeans in the present United States was St. Augustine, Fla., Sept. 8, 1565.

Carrousel

The first merry-go-round was made in Europe, perhaps in France, during the late 1700s or early 1800s. It was called a Carrousel.

According to historians a Stone Age people whose ancestors built the mysterious Stonehenge monument lived in the British Isles in 1200 B.C.

Prices also go up on existing homes

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

We don't need statistics to tell us that the prices of new houses have increased sharply in the past 20 years. But statistics are necessary to confirm that the prices of existing homes have gone up just as much, since there is a school of thought which maintains that people priced out of the new house market can find what they want in the so-called "used home" field.

A survey by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board showed that in the second quarter of this year, the median sales price of conventionally financed houses in the New York City area was $54,600 for new homes, $52,300 for existing homes. Conventionally financed houses are those with mortgage loans not financed by the Federal Housing Administration or the Veterans Administration. Include all houses in that survey and the median price would be somewhat lower. For instance, the median price of new houses for the entire country up to October was $39,000, contrasted with $13,400 in 1955.

Note that there was only $2,300 difference between the median sales prices of new and existing houses in the New York area. In some other cities — Chicago, Washington, Miami, San Francisco and Houston — the median sales prices of existing homes were actually higher than those of new homes. And in others, such as Atlanta, Los Angeles and Denver, there was very little difference in the prices. And don't imagine that those New York prices were unusually high compared with the other cities. The Atlanta, Washington and San Francisco prices were even higher, the others not too far behind.

Other figures disclosed something about buying habits. During the month of September, 23.9 per cent of existing home sales were between $30,000 and $40,000; 16.8 per cent were between $40,000 and $50,000; and 23.1 per cent were $50,000 and over. Interesting, isn't it, that there were more sales of $50,000 and over than between $40,000 and $50,000 — and almost as many as between $30,000 and $40,000? These statistics were submitted to the Department of Economics and Research by about 140 boards of realtors across the country.

Three-bedroom houses continued to be the biggest sellers, accounting for 56 per cent of the August sales; four-bedroom houses for 26.4 per cent and two-bedroomers or less for 17.6 per cent.

What do all these figures mean? Bob Sheehan, the director of economic research for the National Association of Home Builders, puts it this way: "The most alarming trend to develop in recent years is that the percentage of Americans who can afford to buy a new or used home is less today than 5 or 10 years ago, and the gap between those who can afford a home and those who can't is widening annually."

(Save money by doing your own repairs. Get a copy of Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Skeleton is identified

SAN JOSE (AP) — A skeleton found in a ravine in the Santa Cruz mountains off California Highway 17 south of here has been identified as that of a college student and part-time masseuse who disappeared 14 months ago.

The body was found Tuesday by a Los Gatos man who was collecting bottles and cans along the road. Dr. Chan Lee, a Santa Clara County coroner's examiner, said dental charts showed the skeleton to be that of Paula Bargelt, 19, a West Valley College coed.

He's been Santa for 34 years

COALINGA (AP) — Days before Christmas, Roy Loftis' home literally becomes "Santa's Workshop" as he, his wife and a niece prepare packages of toys, nuts, candy and fruit for needy children in the farming community.

And the man who has played Santa Claus for four generations of children says "Kids today are no different than they were 30 years ago."

Loftis began his career in this small San Joaquin Valley town 34 years ago when a judge asked him to play the jolly role at the age of 14. Since then he has visited hundreds of homes, delivering gifts left outside by the parents of eager children or giving donated presents to less fortunate youngsters.

The best part of the masquerade comes when he can brighten a child's holiday, Loftis says. "You ought to see the look on a child's face when he sees Santa Claus."

Loftis says one of his most memorable visits took place when he was relatively new at the Santa game. He dropped in at a home where a mother, father and two daughters were sitting dejectedly with "absolutely nothing for Christmas."

To compound their misery, both daughters had recently lost their husbands and both had young children.

"They were as poor a family as I'd ever seen," he recalled.

Loftis had to leave without giving them any gifts, but he quickly went down the road to a nearby ranch where he told the story to Dick and Betty Griffen.

The Griffens loaded him up with a turkey, apples, oranges and toys for the kids and he trooped back to brighten a rather dim Christmas for a grateful family.

eign aid would help the Americans in a war for independence. "Cato," writing in the PENNSYLVANIA LEDGER, declared that history showed that foreign allies often became the masters of those they set out to help. And he asked. How would the Americans like to submit to "POPISH PRINCES"?

In England some hoped for reconciliation on the basis of concessions to the colonies, but the government was determined to suppress the rebellion. Even the eloquent William Pitt (by then the Earl of Chatham), appearing in Parliament for the last time, could not sway the ministry. Trembling and sick, Pitt warned the peers of the consequences of British policy: "All attempts to impose servitude on such men, to establish despotism over such a mighty continental nation, must be vain, must be fatal."

With moderate voices on both sides unheeded, the move towards independence went forward relentlessly. April 12, 1776 the North Carolina Convention instructed its delegates to vote for a declaration of independence; Virginia and other colonies soon followed suit. With this authorization, Richard Henry Lee resolved in Continental Congress (June 7, 1776) that the United Colonies "are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States."

After a few days' debate Congress voted to postpone a vote on the resolution until July 1, but it also appointed a committee (Jefferson, Franklin, John Adams, Robert Livingston and Roger Sherman) to draft a declaration of independence. This document, written by Jefferson, was presented to Congress on June 28.

On the day appointed for a vote on Lee's resolution — with Congress sitting as a committee — the motion carried, but South Carolina and Pennsylvania voted in the negative. Also the vote of Delaware was divided.

The next day with Congress in formal session a final vote on the Independence resolution was taken. With the Pennsylvania and South Carolina votes changed, all that remained to make it unanimous was the dramatic appearance of Rodney to bring Delaware into line.

Caesar Rodney, an unsung hero of the American Revolution, did not influence the great debate over independence very much. But the picture of this lanky Delaware farmer, suffering from a malignant growth that was slowly killing him, racing to cast his vote for independence, reveals a good deal about the American spirit at this critical time.

Jaworski, Rams surprise Steelers

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

The crippled Rams wound up regular season play Saturday night with a 10-3 victory over the defending Superbowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

The Western Division Champion Rams (12-2) tied their best record. They go into Saturday's 1 p.m. playoff clash against the St. Louis Cardinals with the momentum of a six-game winning streak.

A 26-yard field goal by Tom Dempsey and a five yard run on a quarterback draw by Ron Jaworski accounted for the Ram points.

Roy Gerela's 20-yard boot in the first quarter gave the Steelers their scoring for the evening.

"It's a hell of a tribute to a great bunch of guys," said Rams coach Chuck Knox. "I'm as proud as I can be of this bunch. They really sucked it up and went out there and played Ram football. It was a hell of a game!"

The Rams used a patchwork offense. They had only three healthy running backs, Rod Phillips, Rob Scribner and Cullen Bryant. Phillips, although twisting an ankle, played the whole game since there was no one to back him up.

Scribner, last of the halfbacks in line of succession when the season began, was the Rams leading rusher for the second week in a row. The former UCLA quarterback carried 19 times for 67 yards.

Phillips, who started out behind Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti, was first moved to tight end when Bob Klein went down. But Cappelletti's illness (mononucleosis) and McCutcheon's muscle pull in practice put the rookie into a starting position Saturday night.

Prior to that, the 6-0, 220-pounder had carried only six times and gained 18 yards all season.

Against the Steelers, he carried 11 times for 50 yards. Bryant added 50 more on 15 carries.

Rookie Dennis Harrah, a 6-5, 257-pound guard was pressed into service as a tight end at times when the play called for two tight ends.

Starting quarterback James Harris and McCutcheon were suited up and on the sidelines but did not play. That gave the Rams 38 players in uniform, 36 of whom were able bodied.

Jaworski drove the Rams 60 yards in 13 plays and made the big ones himself. He passed 14 yards to Ron Jessie, 17 to Willie McGee and 17 to Harold Jackson.

With a third and five at the Steeler five, Jaworski used the quarterback draw that Knox had installed Thursday. He took three steps back, hesitated, then bolted forward slipping by middle linebacker Jack Lambert.

Once in the end zone Jaworski spiked the ball, threw up his arms and then jumped high in the air. It was the third touchdown of his career, all by running.

"Yeah, that was the thrill of my life," he acknowledged. "The adrenelin was really flowing."

Asked about his low completion percentage, Jaworski replied, "If I go 0-for-50 and we win, I'll be happy. A team like Pittsburgh will force you to make mistakes, but I feel it was a tremendous tribute to our defense and the whole team the way we played tonight."

RAMbling — The Rams had only one turnover. It was the eighth time Chuck Knox's crew had held an opponent to 10 points or less this season, the same for the Steelers.

Harris is only the second back to gain 100 yards rushing against the Rams. He became only the second in NFL history (Jim Brown is the other) to gain 4000 yards in his first four years. He set a club record (previously set by John Henry Johnson in 1962) for most yards gained rushing in a season, 1,241.

Only 69,389 of the 91,038 who purchased tickets attended the game. That figures out to 21,649 no shows.

Former Ram, Charger and Oiler coach Sid Gillman was scouting the Rams for the Oakland Raiders. Asked why he walked away from the Houston job after turning the club around last year, Gillman's classic answer was, "I couldn't stand the owner."

Stanford nips Broncos

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

STANFORD — Stanford University needed a last-second tip-in basket by Tim Patterson to nip Cal Poly, 63-61, here Saturday night.

The battling Broncos gave their Pacific-8 Conference opponent a big scare in a contest Stanford followers felt would be a minor tuneup for Monday's game here against Minnesota.

Poly, behind early, 17-8, when it appeared it might be a rout, rallied to take a stunning 42-33 halftime lead.

Stanford came back in the second half to thwart Poly's bid for an amazing upset but the Broncos stayed with the Cardinals until the end.

Stanford's size proved to be the difference. Patterson, Schader, 6-6, and Ed Schweitzer, 6-8½, were just too strong for the outmanned Broncs.

Poly countered with an effective 2-1-2 zone defense to frustrate Stanford plus some tremendous outside shooting from Joe Sills and Jack Gamulin.

The Broncs shot 59.9 per cent in the first half but fell to 28.6 in the second.

"You must give a lot of credit to Cal Poly's coach," said Stanford coach Dick DiBiasco. "He did a super job preparing his team for this game.

"We heard about Poly's four-corner offense and it was effective. Poly did what it had to do to win and managed to control the tempo of the game. That's what makes the college game so great. It was a tough way to lose, but a great way to win."

Poly coach Don Hogan was happy with his team's effort.

"I have no complaints," he said. "Our team played its heart out and it was good enough to win but it still lost. We gave away quite a bit in size and that's what did the damage."

Schader, the former Mt. San Antonio College star, led the Cardinals with 20 points and 11 rebounds while Patterson added 16 points (8 of 11) and seven rebounds.

"I give a lot of credit to Poly," Schader said. "Hogan is a personal friend of mine. I love the college atmosphere here at Stanford. It's a class school."

Sills led the Broncs with 20 points while Gamulin added 18. Reserve center Malcolm Kennedy contributed nine, all in the first half, while Tom Ispas had five assists and Paul Newton grabbed 10 rebounds.

However, Poly regained the lead at 57-55 on a pair of free throws by Ispas and at 59-57 on a basket by Bill Cantwell.

Wolfe Perry tied it again for Stanford at 59-59 with 2:05 left. Schader put the Cards ahead at 61-59 but Sills countered with a two-pointer to make it 61-61 with 1:36 remaining on the clock.

Stanford froze the ball with Poly still in a zone until the five-second point, when Gamulin and Schweitzer got involved in a jump ball call. Stanford controlled the tip and got the winning basket.

Poly, 3-6, will return to action next Saturday night at Biola. Stanford is now 3-2.

Johnson paces UCLA triumph

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marques Johnson scored 23 points Saturday night as fifth-ranked UCLA powered to its 86th straight home court victory, a 106-72 romp over Seattle University.

Seattle had stayed close in the early going, tying the score at 20, but then UCLA took off, pouring in 36 points while Seattle got just 10. The Bruins held a 56-30 lead at halftime.

Richard Washington and Ralph Drollinger added 17 points each for the Bruins, and UCLA grabbed the rebound edge, 64-40.

UCLA is now 5-1 and Seattle 3-4. All Seattle's losses have been non-conference setbacks to Pacific-8 opponents.

Kentucky charges past OSU

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky frittered away a 10-point lead Saturday night, but Mike Phillips led a second-half charge that gave the Wildcats an 82-74 victory over Oregon State and the championship of their own invitational tournament for the 17th time in 23 years.

Phillips, voted the most valuable player in the tournament, finished with 27 points, eight of them coming midway in the second period after Oregon State had cut Kentucky's lead to a single point.

Within four minutes, the Wildcats had moved out to their biggest lead of the game, 73-62, and held off the determined Beavers in the final minutes.

Oregon State's Don Smith and Lonnie Shelton were named to the all tournament team with Phillips.

Others on the team were Rick Taylor of Arizona State and Rick Robey of Kentucky.

The championship game was tied four times and Oregon State had the lead the same number of times until James Lee's layin with 12:02 left in the first half put Kentucky ahead to stay.

ASU's Kush wins award

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Frank Kush, veteran coach of the undefeated, Fiesta Bowl-bound Arizona State team, was named Coach of the Year by the Walter Camp Football Foundation Saturday.

Kush has compiled a 150-39-1 won-lost-tied record in his 18 years as Sun Devils' head coach and led this year's squad to an 11-0 performance.

Penguins blister Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rick Kehoe struck for his ninth and tenth goals of the season and added an assist to lead Pittsburgh to a 5-1 National Hockey League victory over the Los Angeles Kings Saturday night.

The victory enabled the Penguins to move within six points of the second-place Kings in the Norris Division.

After a scoreless opening period, the Penguins blitzed Los Angeles for four goals in the second period to take a commanding lead.

Jean Pronovost beat Rogie Vachon 16 seconds into the second period with his 23rd goal of the season to trigger the lopsided victory.

Kehoe drilled his first goal at 10:34 on a pass from Bob Kelly, and 18 seconds later he set up Pierre LaRouche's 17th goal to give Pittsburgh the 4-0 lead.

Kehoe's second score of the night at 1:54 of the final period stretched the Pittsburgh advantage to 5-0. The Kings got their only score against Penguin goalie Michel Plasse at 5:08 of the period on Don Kozak's rebound off a shot by Bob Berry.

Mounties claim consolation title

By MIKE RAWLINSON
PB Staff Writer

MSAC claimed the consolation prize in the 35th Chaffey College Invitational Basketball Tournament Saturday night, pulling away from Grossmont in the second half for a 58-46 victory.

The win upped MSAC's season record to 8-2 and gave it the impetus it will need for the post Christmas Hancock Holiday Tournament in Santa Maria.

In other final night competition, Golden West walked off with the championship of the tourney, opening up an 18-point lead on L.A. Harbor in the first half and then holding off a late rally to edge the Seahawks 60-58.

Golden West and Harbor dominated the All-tourney team selected by the coaches. GW's Paul Schilleci was named tourney MVP and Linn Wilson was a selection to the all-star squad. Harbor's Charles Evans and Ken Burrell were also named along with Pasadena's Mike Cooper and El Camino's Steve Shaw.

Golden West showed its class early in the tournament and was the pick of most observers to win the event. The Rustlers sport the best record in the 16-team field at 11-2.

MSAC, last year's tourney champion, had its ups and downs in the event. The Mounties dropped their first game to Pasadena by a lop-sided, 85-67 count.

With back-to-back wins over Fullerton and Grossmont, MSAC has beaten two teams it will face twice more when South Coast Conference play begins in January.

The Griffins tied the score several times and took the lead before the Mounties tied it up at 25-25 before the first half buzzer sounded.

Freshman forward Angel Santiago led the second half surge for the Mounties, pumping in 12 of his game-high 21 points with 12 in the last 20 minutes. Santiago also had nine rebounds.

Forward Tom Pokorski and reserve guard Brad Wise each had 10 points for MSAC. Pokorski pulled down 10 rebounds. Center Duaine Harding led both teams with 11 rebounds.

MSAC scored the initial bucket in the second half and then made their move after Chris Kiefer tied the score for Grossmont at 27-27.

At the midway point the Mounties had outscored the Griffins 17-10 and had a 42-36 advantage, which they never relinquished.

MSAC's bench strength in Wise, Dick Rockwood and Kirk Christ was probably the difference in the game. Wise and Rockwood combined for 17 points and Christ grabbed six rebounds. Grossmont's bench added only four points.

May leads Indiana past Tech

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana's Scott May rifled in 27 points Saturday night and the top-ranked Hoosiers, hitting 74 per cent of their shots in the first half, blasted Virginia Tech 101-74 to win the Indiana Classic basketball tournament.

May, a 6-foot-7 All-American forward who totaled 18 points Friday night, equaled that in the first half against the Gobblers. The Hoosiers connected on 15 of their first 18 shots from the field and fired in 23 of 31 in the first period for a torrid 74 per cent clip.

Again, as they did in Friday night's 93-56 first-round romp over Georgia, the Indiana reserves got plenty of playing time as Coach Bobby Knight substitued freely.

Porter stays hot for USC

LOS ANGELES — Ganesha High product Cleve Porter turned in his second straight big game Saturday afternoon as Southern Cal rolled over visiting Colorado 94-72.

Porter scored 17 points against the Buffalos, making his two-day point product 33. The 17 points were a personal best for the USC forward in his Trojan career.

Teammate Bob Throwbridge topped the USC scoring with 19 points. Throwbridge also had 11 rebounds in the one-sided contest.

Porter went to work at the beginning of the second half, scoring seven quick points as the Trojans, leading 42-29 at the intermission, blew the game open.

With Coach Bob Boyd substituting freely, USC opened up 76-49 lead as the Trojans' sixth man, Casey Jones, scored eight unanswered points.

The victory was USC's seventh in eight starts. Larry Vaculik had 18 points for Colorado, now 2-5.

In the early going, after Colorado's Kurt Schoenhoff tied the game at 11-11 with a three-point play, the Trojans opened up a 10-point lead, 23-13, behind the shooting of Marv Safford.

The Buffaloes rallied to within two points, 27-25, with 4:27 to play in the half, but Trowbridge scored seven straight points to lead USC to a 42-29 halftime margin. Porter, a reserve foward, added six points in the Trojan surge.

Vikings win 'Snowball Bowl', 35-13

BUFFALO (AP)—Minnesota battled not only the Buffalo Bills but also snowballs from fans. The snowballs seem to be more bothersome.

The Vikings, who beat the Bills 35-13 in a National Football League game Saturday, thought Chuck Foreman would have scored more than four touchdowns if it weren't for snowballs.

Foreman said his vision was blurred after being hit in the right eye by a snowball during the second half.

Fran Tarkenton, who threw two touchdown passes that gave him an NFL record of 291 career scoring passes, was particularly upset by the snowball throwing fans.

"I was watching fathers make snowballs for their sons to throw," said Tarkenton. He said he was hit several times during the game, and one snowball caused him to throw an incomplete pass.

"I thought I was being struck on the helmet by a defense end's hand," he said. "It was the worst exhibition I've seen in 19 years of football."

Foreman's four touchdowns gave him 22 for the year, tying Gale Sayers record, which became an old record when O.J. Simpson scored both Bills touchdowns to give him 23 for the season.

Simpson set the record on pass from quarterback Gary Marangi in the third period. Marangi said Simpson suggested the play.

"He was telling the coaches he was open on that particular play the whole game," Marangi said. "When I went out there, I looked for it."

Tarkenton's two scoring passes eclipsed John Unitas' record of 290.

Foreman, playing before a nationwide television audience, became the first Viking ever to rush for more than 1,000 yards in a single season.

Foreman carried for two touchdowns, one from four yards out and the other on a one-yard plunge, both in the first half. He caught the TD passes from Tarkenton in the third period, the first on a one-yard play and the other for six yards.

Foreman came close to scoring on another a run in the first quarter but fumbled near the goal line and the ball rolled into the end zone where Jim Lash fell on it for a Viking score.

Simpson bolted 24 yards for Buffalo's first touchdown in the second quarter. Gary Marangi, the Bills' backup quarterback behind Joe Ferguson, connected with Simpson on a 64-yard scoring play in the third period. Simpson, all alone on the left sideline caught the pass on the Minnesota 35, eluded one defender and ran in for the score.

Foreman carried 19 times for a total of 85 yards, giving him 1,070 yards rushing for the season.

Minnesota moved 60 yards in 10 plays for its first score, sending Foreman across the goal line from four yards out.

The Vikings almost lost the ball on their second scoring drive. With the ball on Buffalo's 10, Foreman bulled through the middle of the line, but was hit and fumbled at the three. The ball bounded into the end zone where wide receiver Lash fell on it for the touchdown.

But Foreman got his second touchdown in the second period, plunging across from a yard out and climaxing a 41-yard, 10-play drive.

The Bills couldn't move offensively until late in the second quarter when they struck quickly for a score in only four plays that covered 57 yards.

Ferguson hit tight ends Reuben Gant and Paul Seymour on consecutive pass plays that moved the ball to the Minnesota 24.

On the next play, Simpson broke clear and went in for the touchdown.

After John Leypoldt missed a 42-yard field goal try for Buffalo in the third quarter, the Vikings scored twice more on Tarkenton's passes to Foreman.

The Marangi-to-Simpson scoring pass late in the same period completed the scoring. Simpson carried 12 times for 57 yards and Bills' running back Jim Braxton seven times for 26 yards.

Minnesota ball carrier Brent McClanahan, who entered the game after Ed Marinaro was shaken up, carried 12 times for 47 yards.

Foreman also was Tarkenton's favorite receiver, catching 10 passes for 87 yards. Tarkenton completed 25 of 36 pass attempts for 216 yards. Ferguson connected on only six of his 16 attempts for 51 yards. Marangi hit on 10 of 19 for 161 yards.

Ballard paces Oregon win

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Former Garey High star Greg Ballard sparked Oregon past Georgia 87-74 Saturday night in the consolation finals of the Indiana Classic basketball tournament.

The 6-foot-7 Ballard scored 23 points, 19 of those in the second half. Georgia's Lucius Foster led all scorers with 31 before fouling out late in the contest.

Poly women fall short

The Cal Poly women's basketball team fell just short of the Cal State Long Beach women cagers, 55-53, Saturday night at Cal Poly in the championship finals of the Cal Poly Invitational Basketball Tourney.

CSLB's Kathy Sutton sank the winning basket with less than a minute left in the contest to ice the victory.

'Hens win on road

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Pomona-Pitzer's Sagehens captured the consolation title of the Grand Canyon Invitational Tournament Saturday night by dumping Western Colorado State, 69-59.

The game was tied at 24 before forward Brandon Boyd and guard Steve Pinkston got hot to lead the 'Hens to a 37-27 halftime advantage.

Pinkston scored all eight of his points in the first half and Boyd threw in 17 of his game-high 27 points.

Boyd, a 6-foot-1 junior, also led the 'Hens with nine rebounds as Bob Hoehn came off the bench to grab six caroms and score six points.

Forward Bill Harris and guard Garry Stewart added 10 points apiece for Pomona-Pitzer.

Western Colorado State was led by Scott Smith (14 points and 10 rebounds), Craig Carpenter (14 and eight) and Tim Anderson (13 points).

The losers outrebounded the 'Hens, 35-29, but Pomona-Pitzer won the game with its accuracy, especially from the foul line. The Hens made 21 of 23 free throws (91 per cent) and 24 of 53 field goal attempts (45 per cent), while Western Colorado State made 25 of 68 from the floor (36 per cent) and just nine charity points.

Knights nab N.D. Tourney

Ontario Christian High used a total team effort to capture the Notre Dame Holiday Classic Tournament, beating Yucca Valley 59-48, while La Verne Lutheran copped the consolation crown of the Huntington Valley Tourney with a win over Liberty Christian, 48-43.

The two local entries in the Laguna Beach Tournament didn't do as well as defending CIF 3-A champion Garey lost 79-67 to Canyon High in the third place finals while Walnut dropped the ninth place finals to California 78-69.

Hank Bouwman led the Knights of OCHS shooting 68 per cent from the field good for 25 points. The junior also hauled down 11 rebounds.

The tourney's Most Valuable Player, John VanderSchaaf, scored 20 points. VanderSchaaf finishes the three-game tourney with 65 points.

The Knights improve their record to 6-2, beating Lutheran of Orange (73-34) and Aquinas (52-48) to reach the finals.

OC's next battle will be Tuesday as it hosts Yucaipa in a 6:30 p.m. tip-off.

Gregg Guenther led LV Lutheran to its consolation victory with 18 points followed by teammate Russ Houston who scored 12 markers. Don Liles came off the bench to add nine points.

After trailing 9-7 after the first period, La Verne came back to retake the lead 19-15 at halftime and that was all she wrote. LV never relinquished the lead, finally winning by five.

Lutheran, now 6-2 on the year, will travel to Avalon for a 2 p.m. contest Tuesday.

Tim Shaw went berserk in scoring 45 points (over half of his teams points) in leading Canyon over the troubled Garey Vikings.

Christmas came early for Canyon as the Vikings gave up the ball 25 times.

California used Dan Gifford's 21 points to beat Walnut for ninth place in the LB tourney. Norm Edwards followed Gifford with 15 points.

Alex Solozano, playing in first game this year following a groin injury, came off the bench to score 10 times in the first stanza and finish the evening with 20 tallies. Eric Spindler added 14 points.

The 3-6 Mustangs will have a Christmas vacation to try and straighten things out before they play next weekend in the Nogales Tournament.

Gallon leads Louisville

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Ricky Gallon scored 20 of his career-high 26 points in a one-sided first half, but 10th-ranked Louisville had to hold off rallying Manhattan for a 78-71 college basketball victory Saturday night.

Alabama remains unbeaten

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Unbeaten eighth-ranked Alabama withstood a torrid closing rally Saturday night by Florida State to capture the championship in the Big Sun basketball tournament 76-72 behind Leon Douglas.

The Crimson Tide had rolled up margins of as many as 16 points during the game and led by 14 with seven minutes left. Then Florida State, spurred by Zach Perkins, closed the gap to four with less than two minutes left.

But the Seminoles were not able to keep Alabama from running a stall offense to win its seventh game of the year.

Douglas scored 19 points for Alabama while Rickey Brown had 16 and T.R. Dunn and Reginald King hit for 10 each.

In the consolation game, Eddie Davis hit in 21 points to lead South Florida to victory over the Pitt Panthers.

Whitton named best wrestler

COVINA — Claremont High senior Jeff Whitton was named the outstanding wrestler of the Northview High Tournament as he led the Wolfpack to third place behind Nogales and Los Altos Saturday.

Whitton, the defending San Antonio League heavyweight champion, won his division and teammate Randy Coste captured the 165-pound title. The pair was supported by Claremonters Geoff Doane (third place in the 127-pound division) and Dwayne Dimos (fourth at 165).

Finishing second were Mike Couch (191) of Alta Loma and Randy Roberts (145) of Chino.

Thirds went to Don Markley (heavyweight) and Bobby Reyna (133) of Montclair, Gilbert Almendarez (120) of Chino, Gary Dexter (112) of Garey and Jay Hawker (103) and Randy Folletta (95) of Alta Loma. Carl Brown of Alta Loma finished fourth at 138.

Claremont booters win two in tourney

TORRANCE — Claremont High advanced to the championship quarterfinals of the South Torrance Soccer Tournament Saturday by scoring two wins in the competition.

The Wolfpack downed Beverly Hills 4-0 in a morning contest and came back in the afternoon to edge Edison 1-0.

Damien did not have the same good fortune in the tourney, as the Spartans dropped both their games and were eliminated. Newport Harbor got past the Spartans 1-0 in the tourney opener for both teams, and Damien lost the second game as well, by a 4-2 score to West Torrance.

Leading the way for the Wolfpack in their two wins Saturday was Jim VanZee. VanZee accounted for two goals and an assist in Claremont's easy win over Beverly Hills, and came back to score the lone goal in the victory over Edison.

Also scoring for the 'Pack in the opener were Gregg Kaufman and Bob Scarcia, while Doug Jollymour and Harvey Macauley contributed assists.

Jerry VanZee assisted on brother Jim's score in the Edison contest. Claremont, with the two wins, is now 3-1 on the year.

Coach Otto Rieger's crew will swing back into tourney play Monday morning at 9 a.m. vs. Dos Pueblos. Win or lose that contest, the 'Pack will play again Monday at 2 p.m. against either Santa Barbara or Palos Verdes. The tourney finals are set for Tuesday, all tourney games being played at South Torrance High.

Morrall keeps Dolphins alive

MIAMI (AP) — "I think the last play points out this team's character. We pulled down deep," Earl Morrall said after the Miami Dolphins staged a dramatic comeback in the game's closing minutes to beat Denver 14-13 Saturday and keep their National Football League playoff hopes alive.

Morrall, a 41-year-old veteran quarterback hampered by a bad knee, led the Dolphins 80 yards on a six-minute drive which ended when Norm Bulaich plunged two yards for the winning touchdown with 1:14 remaining. Garo Yepremian kicked the extra point.

Rookie Barry Hill then preserved the victory on the game's last play by blocking a 35-yard field goal attempt by Denver kicker Jim Turner.

"I told Bulaich I wished we hadn't scored...wished we had another 30 seconds for the drive," said Morrall. "I knew the clock was ticking down but I didn't watch it.

"You take seven points when you can get it."

Morrall, who played the whole second half, began by engineering a 76-yard scoring drive early in the third period before leading the Dolphins on the game winning drive.

In the closing minute, Denver quarterback Steve Ramsey almost pulled the game out for the Broncos with a 55-yard drive which ended at Miami's 18-yard line. But Hill rushed in untouched to block Turner's field goal attempt.

"We had to do it," said Hill, who never before blocked a kick in his playing career. "I was thinking block and I anticipated the center snap."

Hill said his wide, outside route to Turner was ignored by Denver's blockers. "The ball hit me in the chest. I didn't miss any of it," he said.

Morrall moved Miami 80 yards in 11 plays on the winning drive, which consumed six minutes. The 41-year-old Morrall, coming off a knee injury which sidelined him three weeks ago, converted four third-down plays to keep the drive alive.

The big play came on a 20-yard pass from Morrall to wide receiver Nat Moore which gave the Dolphins a first down on the Denver 15.

The Dolphins boosted their record to 10-4 to keep alive their chance to win the American Football Conference East Division title if Baltimore, 9-4, loses Sunday to New England. If the Colts win to clinch the division title, Miami could qualify as a wild card entry if the Cincinnati Bengals, 10-3, lose to San Diego.

The Broncos, finishing their season with a 6-8 record, saw a third-period drive fizzle when guard Paul Howard was called for holding on a five-yard run by Fran Lynch who had taken the ball to Miami's nine-yard line for a first down.

The Broncos built a 10-0 halftime lead on a first-quarter Turner field goal of 39 yards and a second-quarter touchdown scored when tight end Riley Odoms recovered a Lynch fumble in the end zone.

With Morrall starting the second half after quarterback Don Strock proved ineffective for the Dolphins, Miami marched to a score on its first possession. Morrall climaxed the drive with a 10-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Howard Twilley.

Denver's only score of the second half was a 39-yard field goal by Turner early in the fourth quarter which widened the Bronco lead to 13-7.

The game was the last for Denver running back Floyd Little, who sat out the second half after gaining 20 yards on eight carries in the first half. Little closed out his 12-year career ranked seventh on the NFL's all-time rushing list with 6,323 yards.

Duran KOs challenger

SAN JUAN (AP) — Roberto Duran, the world lightweight champion from Panama, knocked out Leoncio Oritiz of Mexico in the closing seconds of the 15th round Saturday.

The end came with 21 seconds left in the fight when Duran caught the challenger with a right cross to the chin that sent him sprawling on his back.

Duran commanded the fight, nationally televised in the United States, but Oritz' durablility furnished the champion with a workout.

Duran had the Mexican on the ropes several times, hitting him at will with a two-fisted attack, but Ortiz simply would not go down.

The knockout was the only time that either any of the fighters went to the canvas during the bout at the 12,000 seat Roberto Clemente coliseum before a crowd of about 3,000.

Ramona Jr. High in flag FB finals

AZUSA — Ramona Junior High of Chino advanced to the finals of the Southern California Municipal Athletic Federation flag football playoffs here Saturday by whipping Oxnard 14-12 and Arvin 14-6.

The Ramona team will go after the eighth grade SCMAF title today at 1:30 p.m. vs La Puente. The game will be played at Azusa Memorial Park.

The two wins Saturday for coach Mike Clark's eighth graders pushed the Ramona winning streak to 25 straight over two seasons. The win over Arvin avenged a 35-6 loss to the same school last year.

Sparking Ramona Saturday were Bobby Malins, Evan Mathews and Manuel Villalobos on offense and Willie Hodsack and Scott Tickemyer on defense.

Mexico leads U.S. in Davis Cup action

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Raul Ramirez and Marcelo Lara defeated Erik van Dillen and Dick Stockton in doubles Saturday, giving Mexico a 2-1 lead in the 1976 North American Davis Cup tennis final.

Ramirez, the star of the Mexican team, put on a spectacular display of running and leaping as Mexico beat the Americans 6-4, 8-6, 3-6 and 6-3.

Ramirez beat Brian Gottfried and Jimmy Connors defeated Lara on Friday in the opening singles matches in the best-of-five series. Ramirez plays Connors and Gottfried goes against Lara on Sunday.

Mexico needs to win only one of the two remaining singles matches Sunday to eliminate the United States from the Davis Cup for the second year in a row.

The Mexicans broke van Dillen's serve three times and Stockton's once in the 2½-hour match at the Osuna Stadium clay courts. Stockton appeared to have trouble with his serve, making four doublefaults.

The Americans had a chance to bring the match even 1-1 in the second set when they broke Lara's serve and led three games to one.

But Ramirez and Lara broke van Dillen's service in the ninth game and again in the 13th to come back and win it.

Miami, Ohio wins another

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Tailback Rob Carpenter plunged for two touchdowns Saturday to boost 16th-ranked Miami of Ohio to a 20-7 victory over South Carolina in the Tangerine Bowl football classic.

Carpenter scored on a five-yard run in the first quarter and a one-yard dive in the second period to give methodical Miami, the mid-American conference champion, its third consecutive Tangerine Bowl win.

Miami kicker Fred Johnson added a 47-yard field goal in the third quarter, a Tangerine Bowl record, and a 38-yarder in the fourth period.

McKay will miss Rose Bowl weather

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)— Coach John McKay says he doesn't expect chilly temperatures to affect his Southern California Trojans Monday night when they take on Texas A&M in the Liberty Bowl.

But the overcoated McKay admitted that he brought 68 players anyway.

"Can you imagine that wind whipping around us with only 40 players huddled on the sidelines?" the Trojan mentor asked through a turned up coat collar.

Temperatures hovering just over the freezing mark greeted both the Aggies and the Trojans Friday as they went through light workouts that were marked by dropped passes and fumbled center snaps.

By Saturday morning, however, the sun had warmed the practice field and the National Weather Service was saying McKay and Aggie Coach Emory Bellard could quit worrying about the elements.

An updated forecast indicated that temperatures would be in the lower 40s by kickoff time and no wind is expected. No rain or snow is in the forecast.

With the weather out of mind, all McKay had to worry about was injuries and that potent Aggie defense. Key injuries have been blamed for a four-game losing streak for the once-high-riding Trojans, who bring a 7-4 record to the Liberty Bowl.

Ricky Bell, the Trojans' junior tailback sensation, admitted that the Aggies' record as the nation's top defensive team was worrying him.

"They're the number one defense in the country, they only give up an average of 80 yards a game, while I average 170 yards myself," the nation's leading collegiate rusher said. "You know that's keeping me up at night."

Bell, despite a sprained ankle suffered in practice two weeks ago, is causing A&M some lost sleep, the head Aggie said.

"Someone like Ricky Bell is going to get his yards," Bellard said. "The thing we have to do is keep his gains to a minimum and prevent him from making the big play."

Monday night's Liberty Bowl appearance will be the Trojans' 21st bowl appearance, but their first outside the Rose Bowl. Southern Cal has a 14-6 Rose Bowl record.

McKay will be honored by the Liberty Bowl Committee Monday with an award for distinguished service to collegiate football.

Time stands still for Blue-Gray

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)— To accommodate television, the clock was gerrymandered during the Blue-Gray football game. And along with bitter cold weather, it put a chill on the North's dramatic last-minute comeback victory.

'They have a right to be disappointed," said a Blue-Gray football official on the sidelines Friday night as the South squad cried foul—not against the North but against Mizlou Television Network, Inc.

North quarterback Steve Myer of New Mexico connected with Stanford's Bill Singler for a 51-yard touchdown pass with only 31 seconds remaining to give the Blue's a 14-13 victory.

But as an estimated 10,000 fans braved freezing weather to watch the last-minute dramatics, it was the behind-the scenes plays by the television network which frustrated the South.

At the request of Mizlou, the first quarter was only 12 minutes long instead of the customary 15 minutes. A similar three-minute cut had been planned for the third quarter, but it was abandoned when it appeared the game would end ahead of schedule.

And in the final period, with the South leading 13-7, the Gray players shouted that a "slow clock" was giving the North a comeback chance.

"The TV folks wanted to shorten the game and it was getting over too quick. So they're trying to stretch it out," explained Blue-Gray assistant manager Bill Moseley on the sidelines during the closing period.

Disgusted South players did not hide their feelings, but North and South coaches and Mizlou executives Vic Piano and Claude Piano gave no comment about the curious clock.

'Anita to open Friday

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The $250,000 Santa Anita Handicap will highlight the 77-day thoroughbred meeting that begins at Santa Anita Park Friday.

The value of the March 7 race has more than doubled since it was inaugurated as the nation's first $100,000 event in 1935. The $150,000 winner's share is expected to lure older horses from around the country, a track spokesman said.

Track officials said leading contenders for the Santa Anita Handicap riches are expected to be racing's leading active money-winner, Dahlia; Argentine-bred Dulcia, heroine of the $350,000 National Thoroughbred Championship; Belmont Stakes winner Avatar, and a host of foreign-breds making their American debut.

The Santa Anita program also features five other races worth $100,000 or more, including the Charles H. Strub Stakes.

Forty-nine stakes worth nearly $2.5 million comprise the biggest part of the estimated $9.7 million in total purses to be distributed to horsemen during the 1975-76 meeting.

The Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds, scheduled for Feb. 8, is annually the first $100,000 race on the nation's stakes roster and climaxes the Strub series.

'Cinderella' Colts shoot for playoff spot

By Associated Press

The Baltimore Colts will try to step into the National Football League's glass slipper today and if it doesn't fit, maybe the front four they have labeled the Looney Tunes can squeeze 'em into it.

The pumpkin turned into a carriage for the Colts midway through this Cinderella season, and the transformation can be traced to the development of Baltimore's defensive line— ends Fred Cook and John Dutton and tackles Joe Ehrmann and Mike Barnes.

Together, the quartet has accounted for 47½ of the Colts' 56 quarterback sacks—a defensive performance that is the best in the American Football Conference.

After dropping four of their first five games, the Colts turned the season around with eight consecutive victories. That streak had them tied for first place in the AFC East with perennial champion Miami going into the season's final weekend. If the two teams finish tied, the Colts will be the division champion by virtue of their two victories over the Dolphins.

That means that Baltimore can wrap the whole thing up Sunday against the New England Patriots as the NFL regular season winds up.

In other games today, St. Louis plays at Detroit, Kansas City is at Oakland, Dallas plays the Jets at New York, San Diego plays at Cincinnati, Cleveland visits Houston, Philadelphia is at Washington, Atlanta is at Green Bay, the New York Giants play at San Francisco, and Chicago meets New Orleans.

The weekend got started with three games Saturday—Minnesota at Buffalo, Denver at Miami and Pittsburgh at Los Angeles.

While that Looney Tunes line has sparked Baltimore defensively, the attack has been keyed by Lydell Mitchell, whose 1,095 yards make him the first 1,000-yard man in Colt history. He also is the conference's leading pass receiver with 59 catches.

If Mitchell can maintain his six-catch lead over Cleveland's Reggie Rucker, he will nail down a second straight receiving title, a rather remarkable achievement for a running back. The man throwing the ball his way has been Bert Jones, who has fired 17 touchdown passes and is second only to Terry Bradshaw of Pittsburgh among AFC quarterbacks.

St. Louis has nailed down a second straight NFC East crown, and beating Detroit today would give the Cardinals 11 victories, matching the best marks in club history achieved in 1925 and 1948 when the franchise operated in Chicago.

Terry Metcalf needs 110 yards on total offense to break the record of 2,444 set by Mack Herron last year. His backfield partner, Jim Otis, is the NFC's leading rusher with 1,007 yards.

Oakland seeks to regain the winning touch against undermanned Kansas City. The Raiders had their seven-game winning streak ended by Houston last week but have already clinched the AFC West title and the home field edge for the opening playoff game.

The Chiefs beat Oakland 42-10 in their first meeting but were much healthier then than they are now.

Dallas warms up for its ninth playoff appearance in 10 seasons against the Jets. The Cowboys came back from a 10-0 deficit to wipe out Washington last week and clinch the NFC wild card spot.

The only bright spot in the Jets' dismal season has been the running of John Riggins, who needs 57 yards to become the first 1,000-yard rusher in club history.

Cincinnati can nail down the AFC wild card spot by beating San Diego. The Bengals could also back into that playoff berth if either Baltimore or Miami should lose its final games.

Cleveland has won three of the last four games after dropping the first nine. The Browns will try to continue that reversal against Houston, 9-4. The Oilers go into the final game with their best record since 1967 when they were 9-4-1.

Washington will be out of the playoffs for the first time in the five years Coach George Allen has been running the Redskins. The Skins' problems started this season when they were upset early by Philadelphia and they will try to avenge that loss against the Eagles today.

Improving rookie Steve Bartkowski enjoyed his best game at quarterback for Atlanta last week and he will try to continue the production against Green Bay. The Falcons' Dave Hampton has rushed for 941 yards and he will be shooting for 1,000.

SoCal Open: 'a big show'

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Staff Writer

THEY CAME in all shapes, sizes and ages this week to the Southern California Open at Via Verde which turned out to be a surprisingly good tournament in many respects. It was a fine show.

The longer-haired 18 and 19-year-olds took their places right alongside players in the 50s and 60s. Oldest player may have been veteran pro Mike Austin, "who is somewhere in the 60s," but he belts the ball farther than 90 per cent of the pros. Jerry Barber, who finished in the money, is 59 and will be 60 in April.

Most of the pros are in their late 20s or early 30s. The feeling is that if they haven't made some money by the time they're 35, they're not going to make it. But who knows?

My vote for most personable professional is the friendly Jerry Barber who says hello to everyone and passes the time with spectators, caddies and friends. First question for most fans over 40 at Via Verde is, "Where's J.B.? I'd like to see him play."

The pros come in all speeds too. Some groups are unbelievably slow; many on the first two days took well over six hours to play the 6500-yard course.

I can't explain it, but the foursome of Barber, Bob Lunn, Bob Risch and Alan Tapie dropped at least 2½ holes behind the group in front of them Thursday.

Of course, at that time they were all in the money, and the greens were quick. The pros move well on the fairway, but they often take huge chunks of time to putt.

An exception is the winner, Gary McCord, the 1975 Open champ. McCord is the fastest putter I have ever seen, certainly in professional competition.

On the final nine of the SoCal Open he had several short putts, and some 30 footers. He treated them all alike. He walks up, spreads his feet far apart and hits the ball. I don't think five seconds goes by. And he was putting for $2,400.

McCord finished 59th among all the touring pros last year, and made $43,000. If he gets into the top 20, he will be one of the fan's favorites . . . because he's fast.

* * *

Berkman is already looking forward to next year when he hopes to expand the tournament, doubling the number of entries and perhaps using two golf courses. "This can be a truly great tournament," says Berkman.

* * *

IT SEEMS from here too that Jimmy Powell at Via Verde has a special attraction of his own. As host pro, he attracts many top names to the event; just about every sharp pro in the Southland was there — largely because of Powell.

* * *

The 31-year-old touring pro started his vacation fast with a 67, dipped to a 73 and finished far down the money list with just an average day Friday. For awhile he looked as though he might pocket top prize money, though.

* * *

GOLF FANS in the valley may remember Jim Petralia who came home from the tour to make several hundred dollars at the Open. He taught at Wilson High School before joining the tour.

* * *

THE PRESIDENT'S Cup event played recently by the Western Hills Women's Club was won by Irene MacIntosh. Runnerups were Wilma Kauling, Mickey Shiel and Tillie Bracci. Consolation was won by Skip Stollberg. All prizes were crystal vases.

The member-guest Christmas tournament was won by Lorraine Bayus and Marg Cryan of Hacienda. Second low gross was Bev Dolven and Jane Becker of Candlewood.

First net winners were Marion Dorn and Marg Gorgeonson of Hacienda. Second net was Tillie Bracci and Betty Foley of Hacienda. Happy Varco of La Verne was tournament chairman. Her assistant was Edith Hauler of Anaheim.

FOUR BASEBALL sluggers — Johnny Bench, Reggie Jackson, Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski — will sock golf balls in the $30,000 American Airlines Golf Classic, announced tournament chairman Thomas J. Ross Jr.

The 10th annual Classic, featuring football and baseball stars as partners, will be played Jan. 30-Feb. 1 at the Canyon Hotel Racquet & Golf Club.

First prize in the 54-hole best ball event is $10,000, which the partners split.

Schmidt, Philadelphia Phillies third baseman, led the majors in home runs with 38. He also drove in 95 runs. Jackson, Oakland as outfielder, tied for most homers in the American League with 36 and knocked in 104 runs.

Luzinski, Phillies outfielder, led the majors in runs batted in with 120 and also hit 34 homers.

Besides power, Bench, Jackson and Schmidt also displayed finesse and touch in the last Classic. All three finished in the top six places. Luzinski did not play.

Ticket prices are $3 for adults and $1 for children under 16. Proceeds go to the United Way of The Desert.

HERE'S A Christmas gift that should please golfers almost as much as a birdie.

It's a kit, which includes an illustrated instruction book, three full color super-8 cartridges (one on fundamentals, another on driving and putting and a third on chipping, pitching and iron play) and a super-8 film viewer. You can even have instant replays.

The kit, which is called "Shoot in the 70s, Guaranteed," sells for $29.95, plus $1 handling charges. It can be obtained by writing Shoot in the 70s, 20514 Roca Chica Drive, Malibu, Calif. 90265. The telephone number is (213) 456-8728.

Al Geiberger, winner of two tournaments and sixth leading money winner of 1975 with $150,693, said, "Author Hamer Jamieson's innovative concept about keeping the weight on the right side at the address position could be a very positive action in developing a repeating swing, especially for the higher handicappers and intermediate golfers.

"The Jamieson concept could be the best thing for those golfers since the one putt-green. I was very impressed with the quality of the color film and the simple way to operate the viewer."

Aztecs king of San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — In what is billed as "the unofficial basketball championship of San Diego," veteran San Diego State socked the University of San Diego 78-62 Friday night.

The winners led all the way, paced by three starters in double figures, despite the fast break shooting of USD's Eddie Davis, a little guard who slapped in 24 points.

The three top scorers for the winners were Steve Copp with 16, Ray Leary with 15 and Joe Kramer with 14. San Diego State is now 4-4 and USD 4-2.

A little to cheer about

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest government report on consumer prices this past week produced a little bit of cheer but just as many unpleasant surprises.

For a change, the month of November saw gasoline prices go down 8-10 of a percent. Sugar prices were more than 10 per cent lower and other food products including beef and pork also declined.

But while inflation seemed to cool for the moment in those long-standing trouble spots, it boiled over in the cost of various services. Auto insurance rates rose 8.5 per cent in November. Mortgage rates were up 1.6 per cent.

In all, the Labor Department's consumer price index reported on Friday showed that while the price increase in food had moderated and gas prices were declining, service costs took their biggest jump in more than a year — a surprise to administration economists.

Consumer prices overally were reported up 7-10 of a per cent in November, or 9.6 per cent on an annual asis.

New car prices also were reported up 9-10 of a per cent in November, but signs appeared in Detroit that the spiral might be slowing.

Early in the week, Ford and Chrysler announced plans to raise prices early next month. Ford's increase would average $122 on cars and light trucks, while Chrysler's $25-to-$70 increases are on selected models to cover safety equipment.

But General Motors by week's end made no move to increase its prices, and Ford said it might reconsider the price hike if it hurt sales.

Meanwhile, Chrysler's chairman John J. Riccardo apparently won a war of nerves with the British government over the fate of Chrysler's money losing British subsidiary.

Last Tuesday, Britain's ruling Labor party agreed to rescue Chrysler U.K. at a cost of about $325 million. Without the aid, Riccardo would have carried out a threat issued a month ago to liquidate the British operation, throwing 25,000 Britons out of work. Even with the rescue, 8,000 jobs will be lost.

Harried holiday travelers received some good news the end of last week as a tentative agreement was reached between United Airlines and striking ground employes. The two-week-long walkout had contributed to serious snarling of airport traffic in the holiday crush.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co., with more shareholders than any U.S. corporation, reported a small decline in the quarter ended Nov. 30 in earnings per share — $1.30 compared with $1.32 a year ago.

AT&T chairman John D. DeButts said the "prolongation of the recession's effects on Western Electric," the communication giant's equipment manufacturing arm, was the "most significant" factor holding earnings in check.

MARKET UP — The stock market rose this week with the Dow Jones average closing at 844.38 Friday, up 11.57 from the prior week. The Associated Press average closed at 264.4, an increase over the same period of 3.5

Business Mirror

Bankers burnt by real estate

NEW YORK (AP) — Bankers might understand finance but in the opinion of many they don't know a great deal about real estate. Otherwise, their critics say, they wouldn't be in the mess in which they find themselves.

That mess includes billions of dollars in loans to developers and real estate investment trusts that are not currently paying off, and in repossession of properties they really don't know how to operate.

The problem began when, during the optimism of those prerecession days, they were sold on the idea that real estate offered great possibilities, one of which was the chance to make loans at 4 per cent over prime.

"Today, some banks in major cities have between 20 and 60 per cent of their investment portfolios tied up in real estate," said Benjamin Lambert, president of Eastdil Realty, Inc., which tries to help them out of their predicament.

The loans were easily made. They are not easily collected. "A developer trying to pay back his loan at 16 per cent interest just couldn't stand it," said Lambert, whose company is an affiliate of Blythe Eastman Dillon & Co., the investment banker.

He expects it will take three to five years for many of these banks to resolve their real estate problems and, he believes, some may sustain heavy losses in the process.

Business briefs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — H.J. Heinz Co. says it has been notified that shareholders of the Hubinger Co. have approved a merger agreement whereby Heinz would acquire Hubinger.

A Heinz spokesman said Tuesday that fewer than one per cent of Hubinger shares voted against the merger. Heinz shareholders will vote on the transactions at a special meeting Dec. 16.

If the agreement is approved and all over conditions are met, the spokesman said, Hubinger will become a wholly owned subsidiary of Heinz.

Hubinger, based in Keokuk, Iowa, produces corn syrup and starch, while Pittsburgh based Heinz is a major food producer.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Federal clean air standards could make it practically impossible for industry to expand in areas where it now operates, according to U.S. Steel Chairman Edgar B. Speer.

Speaking recently before the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce, Speer said the Clean Air Act of 1970 contains provisions that would prohibit all new sources of pollution in areas where air standards are not being achieved.

"This creates a situation where it could become practically impossible for industry to expand in any area in which it now operates," Speer said.

The Compleat American Housewife
1776
Being a collection of the most approv'd Receipts of the American Colonies to which is added

THE COMPLEAT AMERICAN HOUSEWIFE 1776

This delightful book was compiled by "a Lady" of the times and extensively illustrated. The volume contains nostalgic recipes, pages of Colonial philosophy and sage sayings by famous people of the day, household hints, a bartender's guide of our founding fathers' day and a look into the diary of a 1776 housewife.

Available at the LaVerne branch only.

Divided wall adds charm

Enhancing an open feeling of shared space while separate living areas is the special charm of a well-designed divider wall in an open-plan house.

And when the divider also serves as a storage wall with display shelves, it's easy to understand why one family is so pleased with the family-living room wing of their high ceiling house.

The entry hallway opens on the family room, sunken one step from the floor level and surrounded by a three-foot-high railing. The bottom half is solid, faced with vertical cedar boards. The top open half of vertical 2x2s spaced a foot apart supports a milled rail.

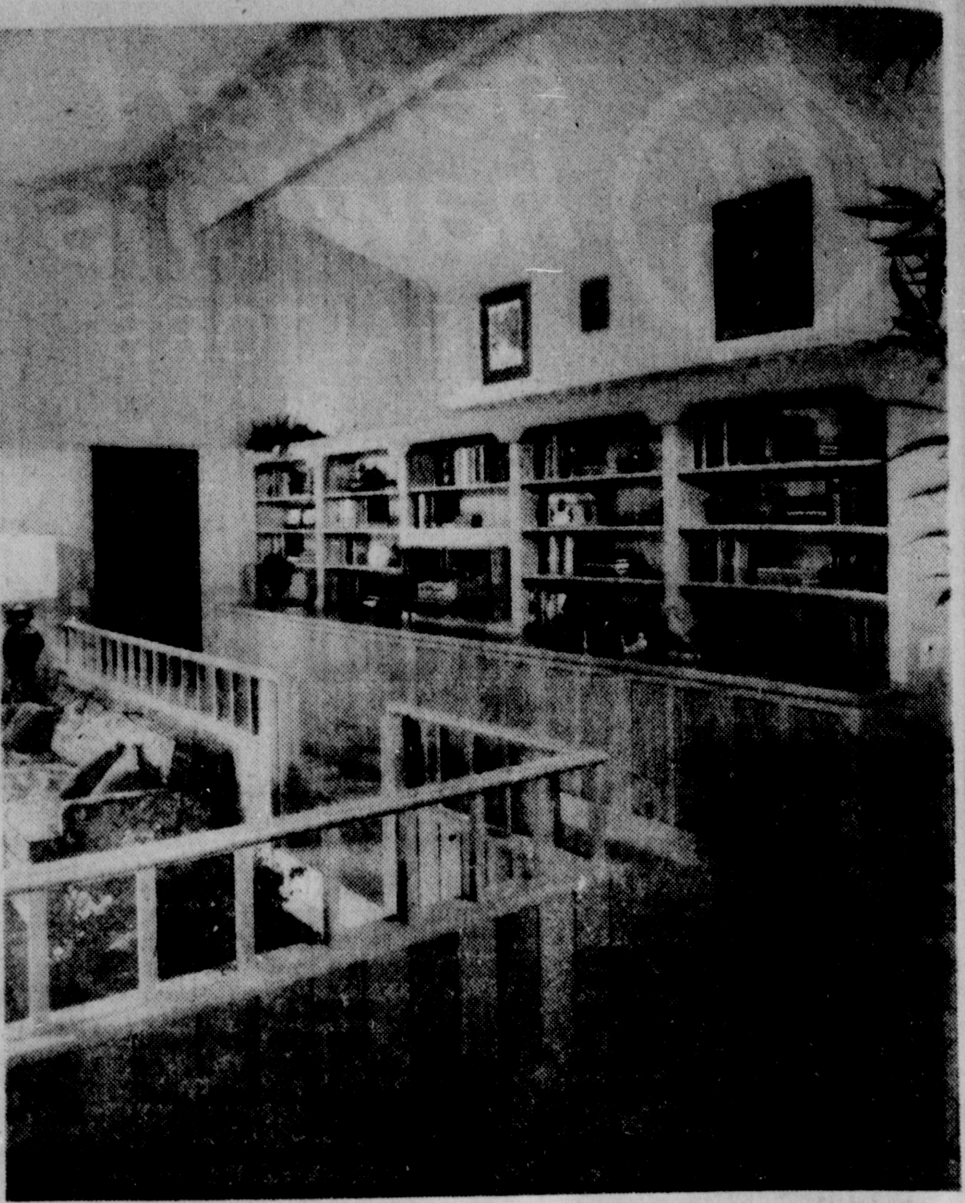
The cabinet top counter is used for display and for serving hors d'oeuvres or a buffet while entertaining informally.

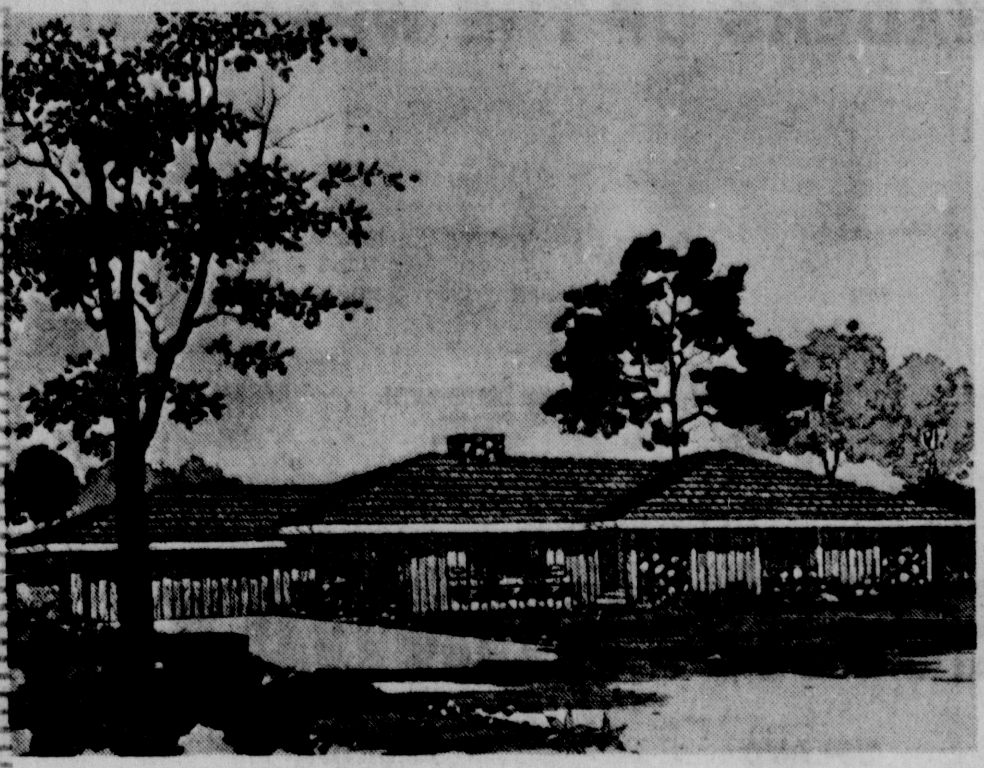
The upper part of the divider wall is divided into five sections, with three shelves of western pine boards in the two sections at the ends. The center section has built-in cabinets for a tape deck and a record changer and two shelves above.

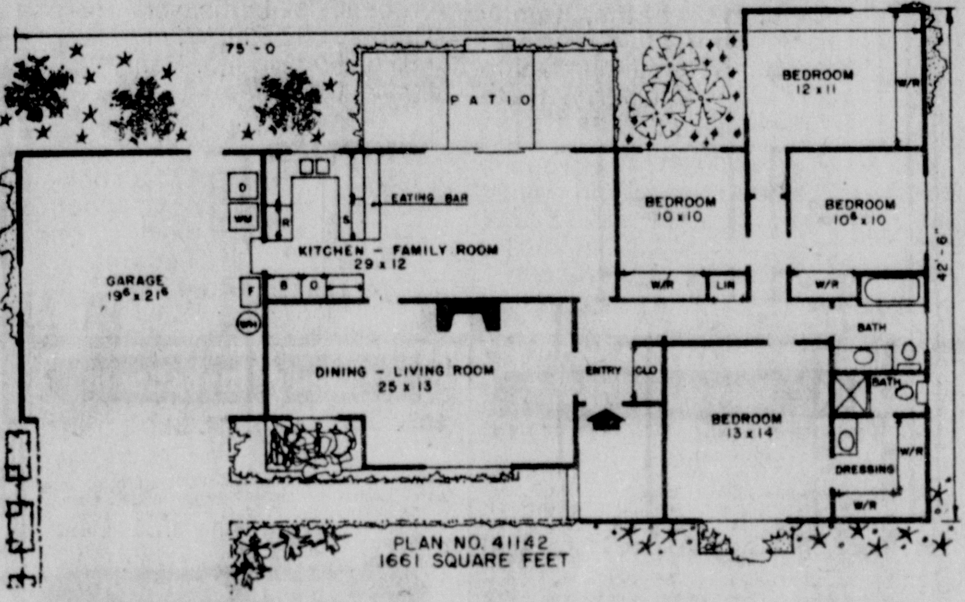
The back of the divider facing the living room is used as a gallery wall. In other homes the shelves could be open to both rooms and the cabinets could have doors on both sides.

The walls of the room are paneled with vertical 1x6 inch V-groove boards, accenting the height of the rooms. Paintings near the top of the living room wall can be enjoyed in the family rooms as well.



ALSO ADDS STORAGE — A handsome divider-storage wall separates living room from sunken family room surrounded by railing wall. Rooms share paintings hung high on walls paneled in western lumber. Shelves of western pine are adjustable; cabinets open on both sides.





Easy accessibility to all rooms featured

By HIAWATHA ESTES

Inside and out, this medium sized design has been planned to provide most of the features Americans want in a home today.

The layout of the rooms has been arranged so that access to all of them is available from the center hall entry. Yet, very little square footage has been used to achieve this advantage.

The dining-living room stretches for 25 feet across the front of the plan. If preferred, the planter in front of the dining, could be eliminated and that area included in the dining.

At the rear of the house is the huge kitchen-family room. Foot traffic is directed from the garage, through the kitchen in such a manner that it will not interfere with the preparation of meals. Only cabinets, including an eating bar, separate the kitchen-family room.

For a family which likes to entertain, a home with two living areas makes a good deal of sense. Youngsters have ample room to entertain in the family room-kitchen, while parents and their friends utilize the living room. In fair weather, even the patio can be made a part of the family room by opening the large sliding glass doors which provide access to this area.

Many interesting design features have been utilized in this appealing exterior. Large vertical wooden members are used on the front of the bedroom wing to outline the master bedroom window and to divide the remaining portion of the wall into sections of stone veneer and vertical siding. A plant shelf and shutters frame the living room window while stone with turned posts form a planting area in front of the dining.

This same exterior plus a rustic exterior are available in a three bedroom plan, at a different price structure, and are illustrated in our book, Prize Homes.

Complete working drawings for plan 41142 can be purchased for $13.73 for the first set and $8.48 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will only be available at these special prices until March 23, 1976. Please allow at least three weeks for delivery. A specification booklet is available for $1.06. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.06.

The following home plan books are also available: Distinctive Home - $1.59; Prize Homes - $1.59; Hallmark Homes - $1.59; Town & Country Homes - $1.59; Homes by Hiawatha - $1.59; Ranch & Modern Homes - $2.39. All six books - a $10.34 value - for only $8.22. Orders for less than three books, please add extra per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P.O. Box 404-PO, Northridge, Ca 91324.

Existing homes still sell well

Sales of existing single-family homes in September continued to be the most active segment of the real estate market, reports the National Association of Realtors Department of Economics and Research.

The seasonally adjusted volume index (1972 — 100) climbed eight points to a record level of 119, surpassing the previous sales high of 112 established in February, 1973.

The advance in sales was broad-based, and the seasonally adjusted volume index achieved new highs in each of the four regions of the nation. But, while gains in existing home sales have been impressive, prospects for continuation of the trend depend heavily on maintaining favorable conditions in the mortgage market, the department reports.

Median sales price of an existing single-family home in September rose to $35,760, 10.2 per cent above the median reported in September, 1974.

The advance reflects a further reduction in the percentage of homes available at less than $30,000, and an increase in the percentage of transactions occurring in the upper price ranges:

Prices class, $19,999 and under, September, 1974, 17.3 per cent, September, 1975, 12.9 per cent; $20,000 to $29,999, 27.1 per cent, 23.3 per cent; $30,000 to $39,999, 22.8 per cent, 23.9 per cent; $40,000 to $49,999, 15.5 per cent, 16.8 per cent; and $50,000 and over, $17.3 per cent, 23.1 per cent.

The price advances were varied by region. In the northeast, the price rise in a year's time was 11.1 per cent to $40,960; western region, 14.3 per cent to $40,860; southern region, 7.8 per cent to $34,470; and north central region, 9.2 per cent to $30,560.

Homes containing four or more bedrooms accounted for 26.4 percent of September existing single family home sales and sold at a median price of $49,000.

Three bedroom homes, which accounted for 56 per cent of September sales, sold at a median price of $34,820. Homes with two bedrooms or less sold at a median price of $27,170 and accounted for 17.6 per cent of September sales.

Award given seller

Patty Underhill, employed by Wheeler Steffen Garrison Realtors and assigned at the Claremont office, has been selected as the firm's "associate of the month" for having the most sales.

This is the second time she earned the award. She has been in real estate for five years. She resides in Claremont with her husband, George, and their three children.

Not as easy as it sounds

HANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Jim Bartlett found out the hard way that Santa's trick of sliding down the chimney isn't as easy as it sounds.

Bartlett, 15, told firemen in this San Joaquin Valley town he decided to slide down the chimney Thursday when he found his grandmother's house locked.

However, he got stuck after wiggling down a few feet and was lodged in the sooty trap for more than an hour before neighbors heard his yells and called the fire department to get him out.

Additive does not prolong life of tree

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — That lovely green Christmas tree, with its odor of pine needles, cannot last forever, despite what is done to it, a plant scientist says.

Dr. George R. Stephens of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station notes that many people buy additives with the mistaken belief they will enhance a tree's absorption of water and prolong its life.

The main discovery of Stephens and colleague John Ahrens was that a cut tree's basic need is water, and if that is cut off for even less than a day, the tree will quickly perish.

Records: 1975 roundup

Copland, Caldwell, Sills made news

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The year 1975, in the world of classical music, was flavored by the Bicentennial and the recession. America's best-known composer, Aaron Copland, was 75 and there were many celebrations in his honor. An American composer won the Pulitzer Prize. Soprano Beverly Sills and conductor Sarah Caldwell made news.

The Grammy Award for the "classical album of the year" was won by "Berlioz's 'Symphonie Fantastique,'" played by the Chicago Symphony, conducted by Sir Georg Solti.

The Bolshoi Opera performed in New York and the Berlin Opera in Washington, a first for both in the United States. The Metropolitan Opera performed in Japan, also a first visit. Scott Joplin's opera, "Treemonisha," was performed by the Houston Grand Opera, 58 years after his death, in Houston and on Broadway, starring soprano Carmen Balthrop, who had just won the Metropolitan Opera Auditions for young singers.

Sarah Caldwell, director of the Opera Company of Boston, was engaged by the Metropolitan Opera, the first woman to conduct at the Met, for 11 performances of "La Traviata" in 1976. The New York Philharmonic also hired her to conduct its pension fund benefit concert and Time magazine put her picture on a cover.

Antonia Brico, 72, also found her baton in demand — for the first time — after the release of a movie made by Judy Collins and Jill Godmilow which documented her struggles as a woman conductor.

Brooklyn-born coloratura VBeverly Sills, much loved in New York as a home grown product and brightest star of the New York City Opera, made her Met debut in the spring in Rossini's "The Siege of Corinth," surrounded by quantities of publicity, and then opened the 1975-76 season in the same opera.

Dominick Argento, 48, native of York, Pa., won the Pulitzer Prize for his song cycle, "From the Diary of Virginia Woolf," which mezzo-soprano Janet Baker sang at its premiere in Minneapolis. Argento, who is best known for his compositions for voice, has been a music professor at the University of Minnesota since 1958.

In other opera news, the Seattle Opera Company presented the four operas of Wagner's "Ring" in German within a week and the next week presented the cycle again, in English, which no other opera company ever has attempted. It was judged a resounding success. The company will do it again in 1976, in a 12-day period.

The Metropolitan Opera fired its general manager, Schuyler Chapin, and put Anthony Bliss in charge as executive director. Bliss said the main reason was to give artistic responsibility for the company to James Levine, 32, who had been promoted from principal conductor to music director a month before. A strike by Met orchestra musicians was averted when they extended their old contract to Dec. 31. The Met shortened its season because of its financial problems, held an auction on a Sunday, which hammered away at the season's record $2.6-million deficit to the tune of $103,000. Sopranos Lucine Amara and Roberta Peters celebrated 25th anniversaries with the company and soprano Dorothy Kirsten clebrated her 30th. Former Met bass-baritone George London, 55, became general director of the Opera Society of Washington.

Abroad, the Paris Opera was enjoying a renaissance under the leadership of Rolf Liebermann. La Scala, most prestigious of all Italy's opera houses, battled a deficit. The Hamburg State Opera, with most of its sets, costumes and workshops destroyed by an $11.2-million warehouse fire in October, went on without missing a performance, with help from other West German and Swiss opera houses. Conductor Herbert von Karajan announced a return to the Vienna State Opera, which he had left in anger in 1964.

In the symphony world, the Cleveland Symphony, Philadelphia Orchestra and New York Philharmonic had successful European tours. William Steinberg, 75, retired as music director of the Pittsburgh Symphony and Andre Previn, 46, principal conductor of the London Symphony, was hired, retaining the London job. Riccardo Muti, 34, of Naples, Italy, was appointed to a newly created position, guest conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra. There were denials that music director Eugene Ormandy, 75, plans to retire.

The National Symphony in Washington chose Russian cellist Mstislav Rostropovich, 48, as conductor after the retirement announcement of Antal Dorati, 69. American James de Preist, 38, principal guest conductor of the National, went to the Quebec Symphony as music director.

Resignations included Frenchman Pierre Boulez from the New York Philharmonic, to head an institute in Paris concerned with avant-garde music; Japanese Seiji Ozawa from the San Francisco Symphony; Italian Aldo Ceccato from the Detroit Symphony, to become music director of the Hamburg Philharmonic, Frenchman Alain Lombard from the Miami Philharmonic and American Henry Lewis from the New Jersey Symphony.
Symphony.

There were strikes by symphonies in Kansas City, Pittsburgh and Newark.

Avery Fisher Hall in Lincoln Center, which has had acoustic troubles since its opening in 1962, announced that it will close for five months in 1976, gut its interior and rebuild, paid for by a gift from Fisher.

Alice Tully Hall in Lincoln Center got a tracker — mechanical action — organ, built in Switzerland, a gift from Miss Tully. The Eastman School of Music named a new student recital hall for composer Howard Hanson. The University of Miami opened Maurice Gusman Concert Hall.

Dana College in Blair, Neb., set up a memorial to the late Met heldentenor Lauritz Melchior. The North Carolina School of the Arts gave its first honorary doctorate to classical guitarist Andres Segovia, 81. Organist Virgil Fox started an organ school in Hammond Castle in Gloucester, Mass. The castle has a drawbridge, central fortified tower and 10,000-pipe organ.

Among the money problems, the 41-year-old St. Paul Opera canceled its 1975 season, hoping to raise money and resume in 1976. Town Hall and the Mannes College of Music, both in New York, teetered on the brink of closing.

The San Francisco Symphony held a money-raising radio marathon in February, during which listeners could request pieces of music on station KKHI by giving a donation. A number of artists donated concerts to help the financially ailing Miami Philharmonic. Nancy Hanks, chairman of the National Council on the Arts, called on state and local governments to create public service jobs in the cultural field.

The deans of the concert pianists, Arthur Rubinstein, Vladimir Horowitz, Rudolf Serkin and Claudio Arrau, gave concerts. Jose Iturbi gave one to celebrate his 80th birthday. Soprano Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, 60, made her "farewell United States appearance."

American cellist Christine Walevska became the first American musician to perform in Cuba since the Fidel Castro regime began 14 years ago. A cello made by Antonius Stradivarius in 1721 was sold at auction in London for $103,500, the highest price ever paid for a cello, buyer not revealed. Nearly every musical organization announced a Bicentennial project.

British rock singer Roger Daltry played Franz Liszt in the movie "Lisztomania." Uruguayan conductor Jose Serebrier accidentally stabbed himself in the hand with his baton during a concert in Mexico City, when he became "overpassionate."

Among those who died in 1975 were Dmitri Shostakovich, 68, one of Russia's most celebrated composers; Milton Cross, 77, who had announced the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts on Saturday afternoons, the very first one in 1931; Metropolitan Opera tenor Richard Tucker, 61, whose funeral was the first ever held for a singer in the Met and in whose memory was held the first mass said for a Jew in St. Patrick's Cathedral; bass Norman Treigle, 47, New York City Opera star, who described himself as "an actor who sings"; Frida Leider, 87, Wagnerian soprano;

Walter Felsenstein, 74, postwar founder and director of the East Berlin Comic Opera and master of thorough rehearsal; British composer Sir Arthur Bliss, 83, since 1953 "master of the Queen's musick"; Vittorio Gui, 90, one of the best-known Italian conductors of this century, whose last concert was in Florence two weeks before his death; Nicola Moscona, 68, Greek bass who had had a Met career of 25 years.

DEAR POLLY — When I can vegetables I grade them according to quality. Those marked "A" are of company dinner quality and for gifts. Those marked on the lid with a "B" are for family use. When dating the cans I also write with a crayon on the two-piece-type lid while the jar is warm from the canning. The crayon glides right on. If the top is reused the marking washes off with hot water very easily. — MRS. S.McC.

DEAR POLLY — A good, substantial stake for a dog can be made by driving a rod or small pipe into the ground with three or four feet left above the ground so no one will stumble over it. Fasten a metal ring to the dog's chain and drop the ring down over the stake — MRS. E.O.P.

DEAR POLLY — When antifreeze is drained from the car pour it on areas where you do not want weeds to grow. — JULIA.

DEAR POLLY — I find a slightly dampened steel wool pad can be used to remove or erase scratches from white or bone patent shoes when there is a tendency to mark the sides as you walk. — DEOLA. (Polly's note — I was told to do this when I bought new white, patent-looking shoes but found that I preferred removing the marks with toothpaste on a slightly dampened paper towel, and then wiping off with one dampened with clear water.)

DEAR POLLY — If you do a lot of basting when sewing, use odd pieces of six-strand embroidery floss for basting thread. Separate each piece so you have six threads and use different colors for different parts of the garment. — EMILY.

DEAR POLLY — Empty margarine containers come in very handy on camping trips. They make great salad or cereal bowls. — JULIA.

●

DEAR POLLY — My Mom ties up a tablespoon of salt in a piece of thin material and rubs this on a pan to keep the food from sticking. — A.B.

●

DEAR POLLY — To make my own book marks I cut pictures from birthday and Christmas cards and on the back of each one write the name of the sender and the date. It is most pleasant to open a book and be reminded of a "friend" holding the place for me. — TRACY.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

BRYON CONERLY OF LEESBURG, FL, ASKS:

"WHEN DID KISSING BEGIN?"

KISSING IS AN ANCIENT FORM OF GREETING. IT HAS LONG BEEN CUSTOMARY IN MANY PARTS OF THE WORLD TO PAY RESPECT TO A RULER OR RELIGIOUS LEADER BY KISSING HIS HAND OR FOOT. THE KISS AS AN EXPRESSION OF AFFECTION PROBABLY STARTED IN FRANCE DURING THE 6th CENTURY. WHEN DANCING BECAME POPULAR, DANCERS WOULD OFTEN END EACH DANCE WITH A KISS. THE CUSTOM QUICKLY BECAME POPULAR AS A PART OF COURTSHIP.

$25-BILLION CHARITY BUSINESS

America's $25-billion-a-year charity industry will be examined in a one-hour NBC News special, "Giving and Getting — The Charity Business," airing Monday at 10PM. Betty Furness, one of the nation's most articulate and effective champions of consumer causes, will be the on-camera reporter. Currently Consumer Affairs Director of NewsCenter 4 on WNBC in New York, she has had the unprecendented experience of serving as the chief consumer advocate for President Johnson, for the State of New York, and for the City of New York.

"We will be looking at charities from the viewpoint of the giver," Furness said. "Where are your charity dollars going? Are they being effectively used to help that charity?"

Eliot Frankel, producer of the program, said: "American generosity is legendary. But are Americans being taken?

"Most charitable organizations are well-intentioned, yet some exist only for the good they can do for those who do the collecting. And collecting can be very lucrative, even for those legitimately involved. Executive directors of charities can make $45,000 in salary plus attractive perquisites."

This multi-billion dollar industry is, in turn, serviced by numerous organizations performing a host of functions. These include: Direct Mailers, International Telephone Sales Promotion Association, and National Society for Fund Raising, among others. Their roles in the charity business, and the tactics they employ, will be examined. The program will also explore the efforts to have Federal legislation enacted to safeguard the money gathered. According to Frankel, most of these efforts are meeting with resistance from some major charities.

Comedian Alan King speaks out as a performer who has lent his name, time and energy to many charitable causes when he appears on the special. Talking with Furness, King says: "There's a story that I tell which is true. A group of ladies call me up on the phone and they spend 15 minutes to tell me I am the most philanthropic, the most charitable man they know in the field of entertainment, and that this organization, through a ballot, by interrogating thousands of its members, there was only one that came out on top—Alan King—and they must give me this award on Saturday night at such and such a hotel. And I look at my books and I say I'm going to be in London on that Saturday night. And they say, 'Can you get us Johnny Carson?' I think that tells it all."

'A DICKENS OF A MOVIE QUIZ'

On Monday, Charles Dickens' perennial classic, "A Christmas Carol," returns to television in musical form when SCROOGE, starring Albert Finney, airs from 8 to 10PM on NBC. "A Christmas Carol" is one of the most-frequently filmed stories of all time, and Dickens' other novels have provided the basis for a number of fine films. Here's a little quiz to test your memory of these ever-popular

1. Prior to SCROOGE, how many versions of "A Christmas Carol" were filmed?
2. What great actor, who plays "Marley's Ghost" in SCROOGE, portrayed "Fagin" in the 1940s film of Dickens' "Oliver Twist?"
3. Who played "Pip" in the great David Lean adaptation of "Great Expectations?"
4. A distinguished British actress who starred in a recent television adaptation of "David Copperfield" also plays the Ghost of Christmas Past in SCROOGE. Who is she?
5. In the classic 1938 version of "A Christmas Carol," Reginald Owens replaced an ailing actor who had played Scrooge annually on radio for some time. Who was he?
6. SCROOGE is the first version of "A Christmas Carol" to be filmed as a musical. Which Dickens novel is currently on the screen in musical form under the title, "Mr. Quilp?"
7. Whose performance as Scrooge in a British version made in the 1950s was criticized as being "too psychological?"
8. What was the name of Ronald Colman's character in Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities?"
9. Here's a toughie: what actor played Scrooge twice on film - once in a silent version made in 1913, and again in an English production from 1935? (If you get this one, you deserve 100% even if you can't answer any of the others.)
10. Who is the first actor to play Scrooge both as an old man and as a young one?

If you got 8-10 right, you're a scholar; 5-7 correct answers are nothing to be ashamed of; below 5 . . . well, maybe you'd better brush up. You might begin by watching SCROOGE Monday night!

ANSWERS:

1. Six
2. Alec Guinness
3. John Mills
4. Dame Edith Evans
5. Lionel Barrymore
6. "The Old Curiosity Shop"
7. Alastair Sim
8. "Sidney Carton"
9. Sir Seymour Hicks (We told you it was tough.)
10. Albert Finney, in SCROOGE

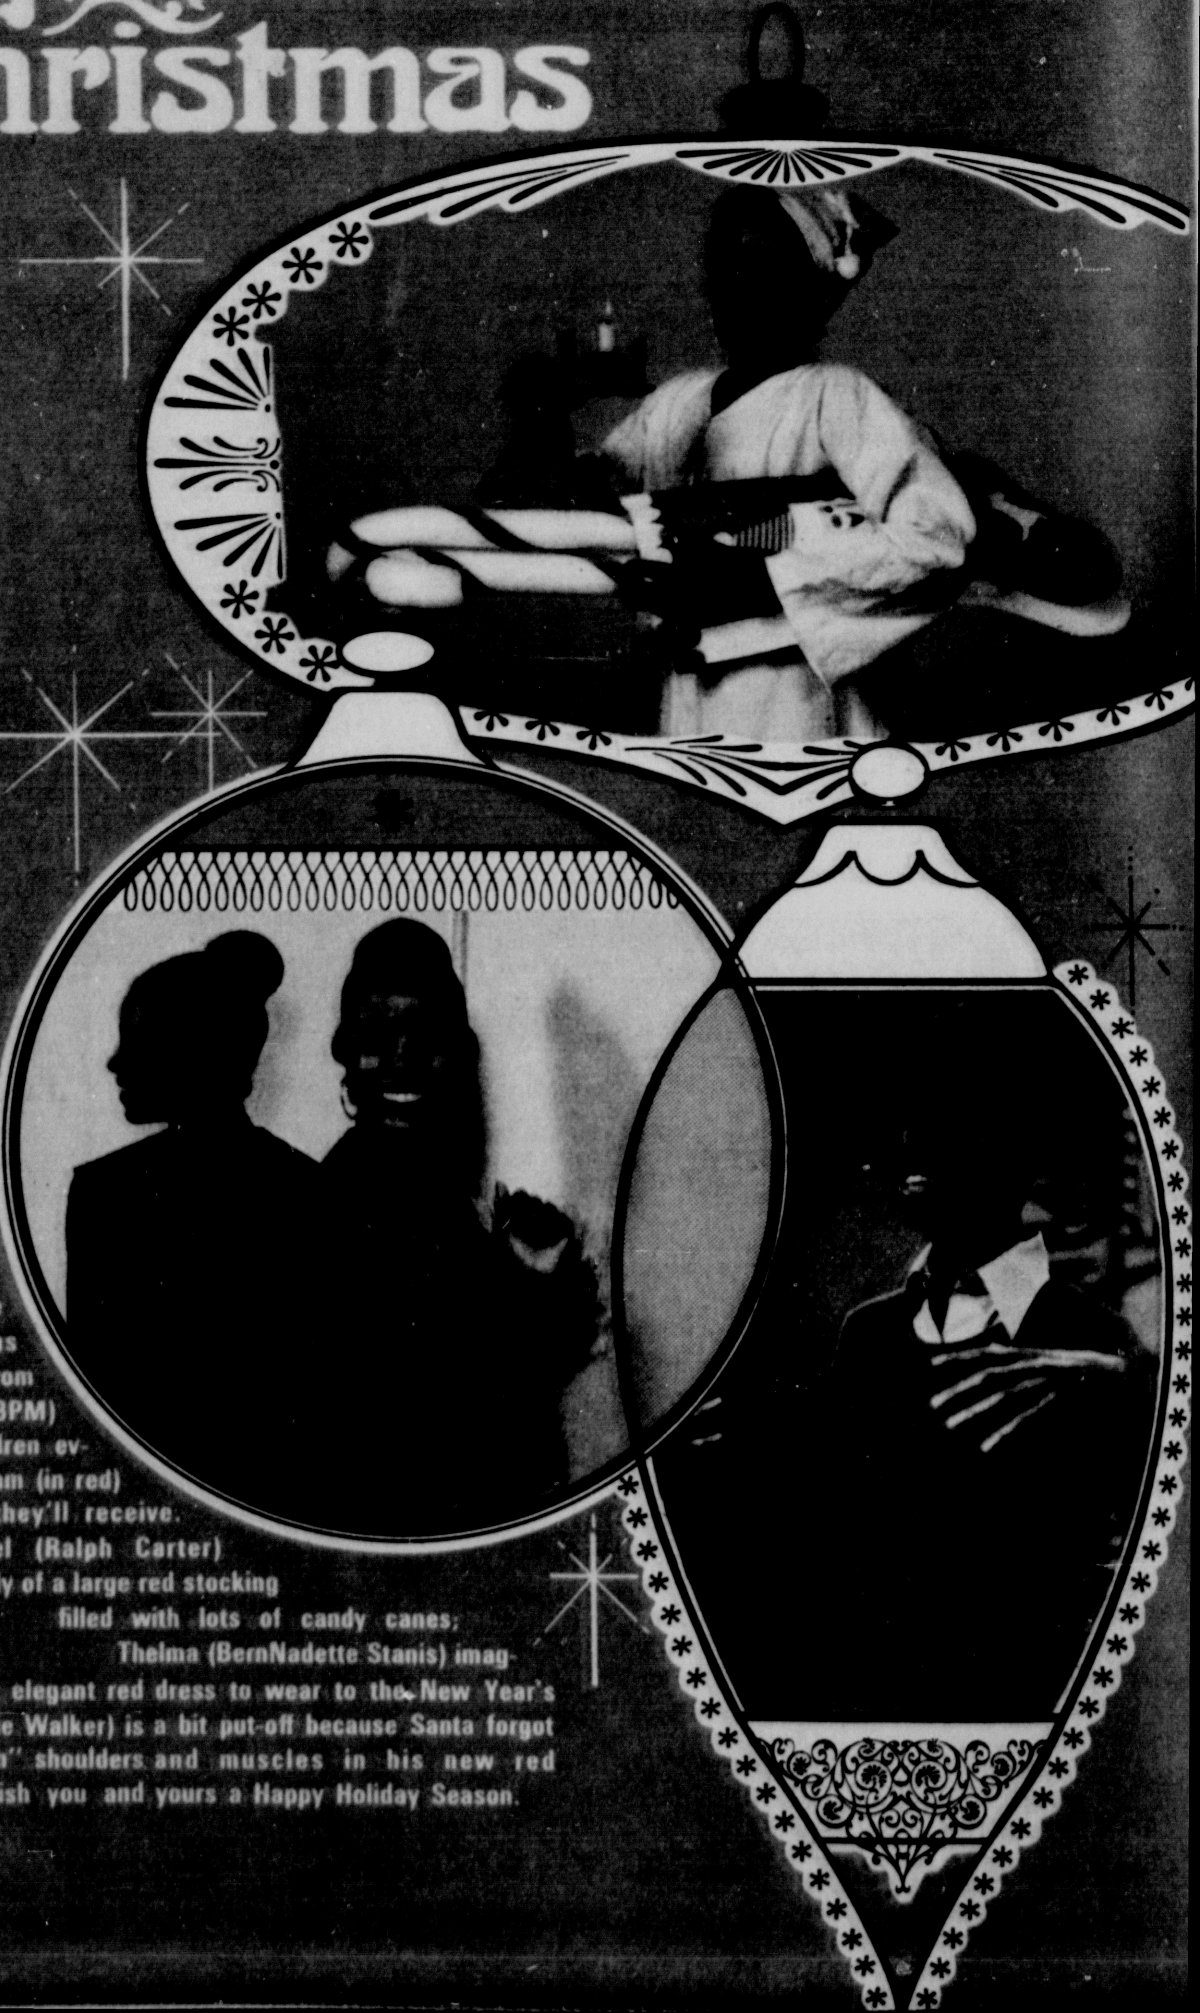
Merry Christmas



Red is synonymous with the Yuletide season and Christmas presents, and the youngsters from Good Times (CBS, Tuesdays, 8PM) are no different than children everywhere . . . They dream (in red) of the presents they'll receive. Young Michael (Ralph Carter) dreams only of a large red stocking filled with lots of candy canes; Thelma (BernNadette Stanis) imagines she received that elegant red dress to wear to the New Year's party, and J.J. (Jimmie Walker) is a bit put-off because Santa forgot to include the "built-in" shoulders and muscles in his new red sweater!! They all wish you and yours a Happy Holiday Season.

'CASEY GETS A SECOND CHANCE'

"We have often heard the legend of Casey at the bat . . . but have you ever heard about what happened after that?" From this opening narration, Walt Disney fashioned a rollicking sequel to the well-known Casey legend, "Casey Bats Again." It's one of three animated stories taken from American folklore which highlight The Wonderful World of Disney's Christmas-week show, "Three Tall Tales," airing Sunday at 7PM on NBC's World of Disney.

Following his bitter disappointment at losing that infamous game, Casey's world brightens when Mrs. Casey whispers that a little Casey is on the way. He has great hopes for a son but disappointment comes again when he learns that the stork has delivered a girl instead. In succession, he becomes the parent of nine daughters and his world crumbles. A stroke of genius hits him when he discovers his daughters have inherited his baseball prowess. Immediately he organizes a girls' ball club, and the Caseyettes fame spreads far and wide.

In the last inning of the female championship game, Casey loses faith in his daughters when the visiting team breaks into the lead. Disguising himself as one of the players, he advances to the plate and is about to repeat his "infamous act" when daughter Patsy slips up behind and strikes a "homer." "The crowd went wild, they cheered and cheered, broad smiles lit up their faces. Although t'was Patsy hit the ball, great Casey ran the bases."

Professor Ludwig Von Drake hosts the hour, which features also the ever-popular legend of Paul Bunyan and tells the saga of Windwagon Smith.

COVER CLOSE-UP

HE STILL LIKES 'THEATRE'

"Some actors on television today are living off their reputations," says outspoken Charles Durning, who stars as a bachelor police officer given custody of a wayward black boy in the new NBC comedy series, The Cop and the Kid, airing Thursdays at 8:30PM.

"Some actors are living off one role," Durning continues, "and some of their performances on TV, for which they are highly paid, are abysmal. I'd be fired if I gave the same caliber of performance on the stage!

"Most actors are not properly trained," Durning contends in explaining their low quality performances. And Durning should know. As a late-in-life actor, he worked his way through a long string of minor roles before skyrocketing to fame in TV's "Queen of the Stardust Ballroom" and movies like "The Sting," "The Front Page" and, more recently, "Dog Day Afternoon" and "The Hindenburg."

It was on the basis of Durning's performances in these outstanding motion picture and television productions that the portly star was signed by Playboy Productions and Paramount Television for The Cop and the Kid, a creation of veteran television producer Jerry Davis, who serves as executive producer for the new series.

In the series, Durning as Officer Frank Murphy has a warmness in his heart for the boy, Lucas, played by Tierre Turner, but nevertheless always anticipates the worst. After all, they met when Officer Murphy caught the boy shoplifting a transistor radio. The boy, while nurturing secret admiration for his new guardian, is inherently suspicious of "the fuzz," so a sort of armed truce exists in the household. Sharon Spelman co-stars as Miss Goodhew, the social worker who "referees" the continuous spats between cop and kid.

According to Durning, maintaining one's integrity is difficult for contemporary actors.

"I've been fortunate to work with some class people," he explains, "Like Robert Wise, Billy Wilder and George Roy Hill. But it's hard for actors today, because for every worthwhile project that is made, there are 99 others of lesser quality."

For his television starring role in "Queen of the Stardust Ballroom," with Maureen Stapleton, Durning received an Emmy nomination. He has also appeared in TV series like All in the Family, and movies-of-the-week like "The Trial of Chaplain Jensen," and "The Switch."

Despite his expanding opportunities in both films and TV, Durning still finds tremendous personal satisfaction working in the theatre, and he has starred on Broadway as recently as 1974. "Nothing can compare to the stage in learning how to delineate a character," he observes. "There is also no better way to learn how to work with good people, and function under duress."

Charles was born in Highland Falls, New York, the son of an Army career man. He enlisted in the Army upon graduation from high school, and after a tour in Korea (during which he was wounded three times and received the Silver Star), he enrolled in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. But although his enthusiasm was high, he was urged by an academy instructor not to pursue an acting career, on the premise that he was overweight and too short. Discouraged by the advice, he dropped out of acting for more than a decade, becoming a jack-of-all-trades. Over the years, he worked as a bouncer, boxer, cabbie, elevator operator, waiter, construction worker, night watchman and iron worker. He even helped paint the Bear Mountain Bridge in upstate New York.

Charles finally returned to performing in 1962, upon the encouragement of his first wife. He auditioned for "The Andersonville Trial," and was hired to join the touring company, which starred Brian Donlevy.

Six months after the tour ended, Durning appeared in "Two By Saroyan," an off-Broadway production.

After producer Joseph Papp say Charles in "Saroyan" he cast him in the New York Shakespeare Festival. Durning appeared in 22 Shakespeare plays in the festival, including "Twelfth Night," "Anthony and Cleopatra" and "The Tempest." He also starred in "That Championship Season," playing the mayor of a small town in the Lackawanna Valley of Pennsylvania.

From there, Charles went on to portray the crooked policeman in Universal's "The Sting," and since then he has become recognized as an established "star" as well as a premiere performer.

'DIANA RIGG VERSUS EMMA PEEL'

As Emma Peel, the sleek, "Junoesque" sleuth-heroine of the tongue-in-cheek British-made adventure series The Avengers, Diana Rigg, in flashing sportscar and mod jumpsuits, quipped and karate-chopped her way through some incredible confrontations. Included were struggles with such enemies of the people as mad Venusians, electrically charged "Sibernauts" and ostensibly mild-mannered English persons who evidenced signs of wishing to destroy civilization in a variety of ways.

Although it was through this role that Miss Rigg became best known to American television audiences, she has also earned a reputation as a serious dramatic and classical actress, which she will demonstrate in James Costigan's version of Rumer Godden's best-selling novel "In This House of Brede," airing as a dramatic GE Theater special Friday at 9PM on CBS.

"One of the reasons for my choosing to do 'Brede' (in which she portrays a sophisticated London businesswoman who becomes a cloistered Benedictine nun) was for diversity," explained the tall auburn-haired British actress while driving toward her London flat from the city's outskirt of Mill Hill.

"I've played the part of a nun before, but a nun of a rather different sort, in 'Abelard and Heloise' (both the London and Broadway productions of the play) and also in a picture called "The Assassination Bureau,' in which I was disguised as a nun briefly. My 'Brede' nun is a very different role—serious and dramatic."

Miss Rigg spoke about her role at some length with Rumer Godden, the book's author, who visited the London set during the December filming, and the actress was pleased with Miss Godden's appraisal of her as giving the role "a cool, emotionless" tone that is necessary until emotions must be unleashed.

When the production moved to Drishane Convent in County Cork, Ireland, the following week, the nuns of that community proved an inspiration to the actress.

"The sisters at Drishane are really marvelous," said Miss Rigg. "One elderly nun advised me to enjoy my part but not to take the role of a nun overly seriously because, after all, a nun is a happy woman fulfilling her vocation in life."

The actress evidenced little of the Emma Peel in her until after filming was completed and she flew to New York to rehearse for a production of Moliere's "The Misanthrope." She accidentally left her handbag in a New York taxi and, before it was out of sight, she had hailed another and was speeding after the first, having directed the second driver to "Follow that cab."

And in true Emma Peel style she accomplished her mission — but without flinging the driver over her shoulder in the process.

'THE LINDBERGH SAGA'

Producer/director Buzz Kulik (right), discusses a scene with Cliff De Young and Sian Barbara Allen, while filming Columbia Pictures three-hour movie, "The Lindbergh Kidnapping Case," for NBC. De Young portrays Charles Lindbergh and Ms. Allen, Anne Morrow Lindbergh.

"The Lindbergh Kidnapping Case," Columbia Pictures three-hour movie for NBC chronicles the tragic kidnap-murder of Charles and Anne Lindbergh's 20-month-old son and the search-capture and trial of accused kidnapper-slayer Bruno Richard Hauptmann. The case was a landmark reporting job for journalists everywhere.

Perhaps the single, most-notorious aspect of the world-famous incident — outside of the crime itself — was the voluminous and often sensational international press coverage it received. The newspaper space given the tragedy, from the kidnapping in 1932 to Bruno Richard Hauptmann's execution for the crime more than four years later, made the Lindbergh case the most widely-reported crime and trial of the 20th Century.

Universally, fourth estate practitioners covering the crime and trial for every kind of newspaper from country weeklies to major metros plied the basic tools of their trade to the limit — namely, those all-important five "w"s — who, what, when, where, why, and even how.

WHO — The "who" was easy for them — Charles (played by Cliff De Young) and Anne Lindbergh (Sian Barbara Allen). WHAT — The Lindberghs were the victims of the kidnap-murder of their young son Charles Jr. Another "who," accused kidnapper Bruno Richard Hauptmann (Anthony Hopkins), was later convicted on circumstantial evidence and never did confess to the crime. WHEN — The kidnapping occurred on March 1, 1932; on April 2, an attempt was made by Lindbergh and a volunteer go-between, Dr. John Condon, to pay the ransom in exchange for the infant; May 12, the baby's body was found; June 10, the Lindbergh's maid, believed by some police investigators to have been an accomplice to the crime, committed suicide; Hauptmann was apprehended on September 16, 1934; January 2, 1935, the kidnapping-murder trial commenced; on February 13, the jury found Hauptmann guilty; Hauptmann was executed on April 3, 1936. WHERE — The two principal locations were the Lindbergh home just outside of Hopewell, New Jersey and the Hunterdon Courthouse in Flemington, not far from Hopewell. WHY — The question that perplexed and still puzzles journalists everywhere is "why?" Since Hauptmann never confessed, the "why" remains a mystery. The most popular consensus of opinion is the obvious—strictly for money. Yet some felt it was more for psychological reasons since Lindbergh was America's favorite son and an international hero for his historic solo flight across the Atlantic Ocean in 1927. And many thought the kidnapper was probably a despondent, insignificant individual.

HOW — The "how" is a matter of record. The kidnapper was believed to have entered the Lindbergh's second story corner bedroom window using a homemade ladder and vanished with the child.

Since a great number of people would come to be involved in the search for the kidnapper, his capture, the trial and its aftermath, the press played very heavily on the "who." In association with Columbia Pictures, David Gerber Productions will dramatize the factual story — for the first time in any medium — of all the people who became a part of "The Lindbergh Kidnapping Case." The film will air early in 1976 and have a cast of 118.

FOR ISAAC HAYES,

Academy-Award winning composer

How do you feel about your reputation as an extremist and a militant?—D.W., Tucson, Ariz.

● Nothing could be further from the truth. I'm a taxpayer, not a radical or a rebel. My involvement in these things amounts to reading the papers and forming opinions—private ones. I loathe violence. When I'm not performing or composing, I'm a law enforcement officer in Memphis, Tenn. I want to set a good example. I'm hopeful that when word gets around that Isaac Hayes is into law, it might make people think twice before they go against it. As far as public discussions of politics are concerned, the only times performers should open their mouths in public are when they're going to say or sing something for which the audience has bought tickets. Performers and politics are like oil and water—they can't mix.

FOR SHIRLEY MACLAINE

● Yes. I jog for two miles or 30 minutes daily. It does wonders for the cardiovascular system! If the weather is bad, I either go to a gym or jog in place at home while watching the evening news. It's important to keep the pace consistent. I also do dynamic tension exercises, which can be done anywhere—in a cab, store or at a desk. They don't require movement, just muscle control and pressure. All these—my jogging, dynamic tension, leg-lifts, stomach contractions and push-ups—take up one hour of my day.

FOR LESLIE UGGAMS

● I've never given it a thought, and I don't know of any singer who does. Voices aren't like hands or feet, and singers don't pamper themselves the way some musicians or dancers do. If we use any kind of caution, it's avoiding people who have colds and trying not to scream. (The only exceptions to that rule: screaming at our own kids or at drivers on the road.)

FOR "JIMMY THE GREEK" SNYDER,

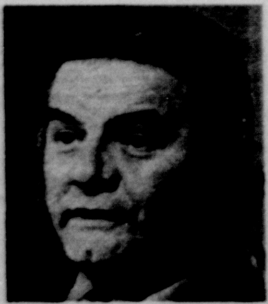
Who is your bet for President in '76?—L.N., Provo, Utah

● At this early stage in the game, I feel that President Ford will run an extremely close race against any of the announced Democratic candidates. Ford against any of the middle-of-the-road Democrats would be a tossup, but the odds right now favor Ford 11 to 10.



FOR ANGIE DICKINSON of "Police Woman"

● No—I consider myself feminine.

FOR JAMES CAAN

What's your ambition?—K.B., Anchorage, Alaska

● I'll give you a hint—it isn't to be a Bicentennial Academy Award winner. It is to come in first in the steer-roping category at the National Rodeo Championship next year.

FOR HILDEGARDE

You claim to be religious. What prayers and devotions do you practice?—Bob Montesi, Danbury, Conn.

● As a devout Catholic, I devote daily prayers to Our Lady of Fatima, Blue Army penance (World Peace), St Anthony, St. Jude, the Little Flower, St. Joseph, the Sacred Heart, my guardian angel and, of course, the daily rosary. It takes less time than seeing a psychiatrist and is infinitely cheaper. And, for me, it's much more rewarding.

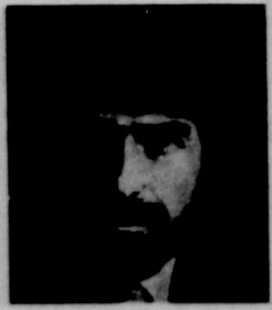
What is all this interest in Dracula about, anyway?—F.N., Pomona, Calif.

● I'm not sure, exactly, but I can say that Dracula is our most fascinating monster. He has become something of a culture hero—an elegant but deadly creature whom we both fear and admire. In an unconscious way we recognize in Dracula a symbol of ourselves. Our concern with youth, fear of death and blatant sexuality and the violent nature of modern man—all come together in Dracula.



FOR KRESKIN

Do you consider yourself a psychic or a mentalist?—R.P., Jackson, Tenn.

● A mentalist. Psychics make claims that imply they possess supernormal, if not supernatural, powers to enable them to control or guide the lives of their subjects. I claim no special psychic powers. Everything I do is accomplished through perfectly natural and scientific means dealing almost totally with the mind, either by guiding, controlling or perceiving the thoughts of my subjects.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Are there any stars who don't mold their children to follow in their footsteps?—J.R., Lima, Ohio

● Barbara Bain and Martin Landau (stars of the new series "Space: 1999") told Family Weekly why they've kept their daughters (Susie, 15, and Julie, 10) remote from show business: "It's O.K. for kids to take part in school plays, but that's all. We'd never let them perform professionally as children because the atmosphere in a movie studio or TV set is unreal. Children must grow up in the real world. If they act, their lives as children end. Something happens to a kid when she or he sits in a chair and gets fussed over with make-up and clothes. They're like gods on the set and expect to be bowed down to at home. We didn't want little gods for kids, because not only would their lives be ruined, but ours would be too."

Out of the last 6 years of smoking, I've only enjoyed the last 5 months.

I started to pay attention to all the fuss about smoking about 6 years ago. That's when the uproar about 'tar' and nicotine started to get in the way of my pleasure. For me, it made the real difference between just liking smoking and really enjoying it.

I thought of quitting, but I really didn't want to. So I decided to switch to a low 'tar' and nicotine cigarette.

Easier said than done. You practically had to drag on the ones I smoked until the insides of your cheeks touched.

Then 5 months ago, I was over at my sister-in-law's house. We were both smoking low 'tar' and nicotine brands. But I was the only one complaining about the flavor. So she offered me one of hers. I told her, "No thanks, one's as tasteless as another." She said, "This is different."

And it was. It was a Vantage.

Now I've smoked more than a few low 'tar' and nicotine brands over the last 6 years. But Vantage is the only one I've found that succeeds in cutting down 'tar' and nicotine. Without destroying the flavor. And it has an easy draw, too.

So for the last 5 months, I've really enjoyed smoking Vantage.

And when I sometimes wish I'd found them sooner, I tell myself I should be glad I found them at all.

Dale Evans Talks About Her Life of Tragedy and Faith—And Her Own Lessons of the Holy Land

"The day after I left Lod Airport, a group of pilgrims from Puerto Rico were massacred there. When I heard about it, I wanted to fall on my knees to thank God I'd been spared."

From Los Angeles I drove across the Mojave Desert and through the piles of bare boulders that separate Victorville from Apple Valley. The Roy Rogers Museum is there, on the side of the highway, and I was grateful that Mrs. Roy Rogers—Dale Evans—had invited me for an early morning meeting. The dry air was cool, and I was sure no tourists would be around to interrupt us.

I was wrong. At nine sharp, when the doors of the museum opened, two campers full of people arrived from out of nowhere, paid their entrance fees and disappeared under a sign that read "This is our life—Roy and Dale." Beyond lay the Rogers memorabilia: costumes from early films, some of Roy's old boots (one pair bronzed), magnificent saddles and bridles, family portraits and pictures galore, a shrine in memory of the three children they lost, trophies, a row of colored posters from Israel and—last but not least—the newest addition, a window dedicated to Judaism and Dale's never-to-be-forgotten trip to the Holy Land. I asked her why she had decided to visit the Holy Land.

DALE: It's something I've always wanted to do, ever since I gave my life to Christ.

FAMILY WEEKLY: When was that?

DALE: I made my commitment in the spring of 1948, after Roy and I were married. It was truly a remarkable spiritual experience.

FW: Was this a sudden decision?

DALE: No, not really. I'd been brought up with a strong Christian background, and I was influenced by it, even though I was working in show business. And my son—by my first marriage—is a very strong Christian who greatly influenced me. Also, I decided that a marriage couldn't be a success if both husband and wife were in show business. I realized we needed a faith and a goal beyond ourselves. By having this, we could serve each other better. So, I started studying the Bible in earnest, especially the Old Testament. I believe the Bible is a complete revelation of God, of His laws and principles. The more I read, the more amazed I was at the similarity between the government set down in the Bible and our own government. I began to feel we were strongly connected, and as a Christian, I felt a part of Biblical history. That gave me a strong desire to go to the Holy Land. Of course, there is a difference between Christians and Jews over belief in a Messiah, but both believe God is the source of our being and that God leads us. I wanted to see the beginnings of our mutual faith. And I wanted to see Israel as it is today.

FW: Did Roy go with you?

DALE: No. He travels so much that it's no treat for him. If he takes off hunting and fishing, he's happy. He's not a real tourist. I love to travel, and for years Roy had been trying to get me to take the trip to Israel. But I always kept saying, "when the children get older."

FW: How many children are in your family?

DALE: There were nine. We lost three. . . . Little Robin, the only child Roy and I had, was born Mongoloid, and Debbie, our adopted Korean daughter, was killed when she was thrown through the windshield in a bus accident. And Sandy, a lovely boy we adopted from a welfare home in Kentucky, choked to death during a "chugalug" bet the day he became a private. Others had made a game out of who could drink the most, nonstop. That was in 1965.

FW: What impressed you most about Israel?

DALE: The people. They believe God led them back to Israel, and they have had the courage to follow Him—many through dire tribulations to get there.

FW: Was there any fighting while you were there?

DALE: No, but the day after I left Lod Airport, a group of pilgrims from Puerto Rico were massacred there. When I heard about it, I wanted to fall on my knees to thank God I'd been spared. But I was sick to death, too. How could such a thing happen? Gunmen just opened up at close range and blew those people to bits.

FW: Did anything else impress you about the country?

DALE: I was most impressed by the cleanliness, the orderliness and the restoration of its natural beauty. They believe in God's promise in Isaiah 35:1: "The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them; and the desert shall rejoice, and blossom as the rose" Each family is responsible for planting a little tree in the limestone hills and caring for it.

Dale and Roy Rogers surrounded by children and grandchildren at a Christmas reunion.

FW: How did you keep a record of all you saw and did?

DALE: I used to be a secretary, so I'm good at shorthand, and I filled many notebooks. There was one story I enjoyed writing down—something I was frankly relieved to hear. In I Corinthians, Paul tells the women to keep silent in the churches. That had always bothered me because I've gone all over the world, speaking in churches and, when asked, witnessing for Christ. Max, my guide, who studied three years for the job, explained that in Capernaum, the men sat on the main floor of the synagogue. But the women had to sit in the balcony. Whenever the rabbi lowered his voice, the menfolk could hear but the women couldn't. They'd lean over and cry out, "What did he say? What did he say?" Those interruptions had caused Paul's reprimand. I was so relieved by that explanation!

FW: Did anyone recognize you over there?

DALE: No one knew who I was until something happened at the Garden Tomb just beyond Jerusalem's walls. John Vander Hoeven, an evangelist from Holland, invited me and our group to attend a service in the garden on Sunday. Our group leader asked if I could sing at the service. Vander Hoeven said, "But I don't know her . . ." So Larry White asked, "Have you heard of Roy Rogers?" He shook his head. I could see Larry trying to think of some way to tell him who I was. At last he asked, "Have you read 'Angel Unaware'?" —my story about our little Mongoloid daughter. His face lit up and he exclaimed, "Oh! That's who she is!" It turned out that his brother was Mongoloid.

FW: What did you feel you learned from your visit to the Holy Land?

DALE: Many things, naturally. I had my eyes opened about Women's Liberation. For instance, I was told Arab women have no rights at all. No freedoms. In Israel women must be free since they do everything the men do. At one time, I would have been a rousing fighter for Women's Liberation because my first marriage broke my heart. But through Jesus Christ, I became liberated in spirit. So I believe in "Lib"—if we get the values straight. I've been called a chauvinist, and maybe I am. I think God had a good plan when he made woman second. Woman should not defeat man—she should complete him! But they are the same in God's sight. Still, each has his place: man is man, woman is woman. People are not happy when they try to reverse roles completely. Throughout history, each has had a job, and woman was never the aggressor. I see red when I hear women put down because they are "only wife and mother." As mothers, we can train our children in the way they should go and give the father his rightful place in the home. And we can teach the love of God. I haven't heard of a more worthwhile and vitally important job than that! ■

Because I have taken the mystery out of Transcendental Meditation...

In Your Own Home!

Why Pay Hundreds Of Dollars To Be Given A Gift THAT ALREADY EXISTS, NATURALLY, RIGHT NOW, INSIDE YOUR VERY BODY!

Let me make this point perfectly clear: There is nothing really new about Transcendental Meditation, and the amazing physical effects that it brings!

Transcendental Meditation actually goes back several thousand years, to the Ancient Seers of Tibet, China and India, who actually demonstrated that they could control their body so completely utilizing it, that they could perform seemingly "impossible" feats when they let it protect them — such as literally walking over hot coals without being burned, or being buried alive for hours, and even days, without the slightest harm!

These great mystics believed that the awesome power of Transcendental Meditation was buried deep in their body — and in the body of every living human being — awaiting only the proper "Key" to unleash it!

I, myself, first made contact with them over 35 years ago, on my trips to India and the Orient. After witnessing their incredible feats, I decided, then and there, to bring these simple techniques back to the American people, who needed them more and more desperately every day, to combat the physical and emotional pollution that was threatening to overwhelm them!

I sincerely believe that I was the first to introduce Transcendental Meditation to an American audience, in my Carnegie Hall lectures close to 35 years ago. Even then, I taught the basic technique — the psychological and physiological side of Transcendental Meditation — in just a few minutes, to hundreds of people at one time!

But I also believed (and still do) that these basic psychological and physiological benefits — vital as they undoubtedly are — are only the first beginning of what Transcendental Meditation can REALLY accomplish for you! And that you should, and must, go beyond them as soon as you have brought your body and your emotions under secure control!

IN JUST FIVE MINUTES LEARNING TIME, YOU GET EVERY ONE OF THESE AMAZING HEALTH BENEFITS, JUST AS A START —

After just five short minutes, in your own home, simply by learning my new De-Mystified Transcendental Meditation, you will find what prominent scientists all over the United States have already discovered — that you can lower your blood pressure at will. And sometimes lower that blood pressure sharply after only a few minutes of such Meditation.

Meditation may also be used to slow down or increase the rhythm of your heart, and control your pulse rate significantly. This is especially important if you have heart or circulation problems. In fact, after only a few Meditation sessions, heart beat may actually normalize itself

In such Meditation, your metabolism may also become normalized. This, in turn, not only helps ease the processes of digestion, but gives you more nutrition from your intake of food, and at exactly the same time, controls the appetite and keeps the body from putting on excess weight!

Or, if you are now "hopelessly overweight," Meditation may, at the same time, help you bring that weight back down, by not only controlling your appetite, but by removing the psychological stresses that cause you to over-eat in the first place, or eat the wrong foods!

And This Is Just The Beginning! Because Scientists Have Now Proven That . . .

Cigarette smoking, alcoholism and even drug addiction, have, in case after case, been cured within two weeks to one month without the aid of medication!

It was found that persons engaged in meditation could lower the oxygen consumption of the body in just a few minutes, sometimes as much as 20%. This is especially important if you now suffer from constant fatigue, "run out of gas" every afternoon, can hardly move in the evening!

Men and women who suffer from deep melancholia, depression, anxiety and worry have repeatedly used Meditation to overcome these moods, and find peace and happiness!

Meditation is also being used, right now, by doctors in mental hospitals, to help patients who had previously been considered so incurable that they had to be kept under heavy sedation even to control them!

And even more important, with Transcendental Meditation scientists have apparently slowed down the aging processes of the body cells . . . and have even ventured the possibility that such effects may enable you to live as much as 150 to 200 healthy years!

Meanwhile, However, I Have Seen People Waste Hundreds Of Dollars Of Their Money, And Months Of Their Time, TO GAIN WHAT I COULD GIVE THEM IN LESS THAN FIVE MINUTES!

So I have now decided to take Relaxation-Meditation . . . Health-Meditation . . . Tension-and-Stress-Removing Meditation — in fact, all the benefits these men and women could get in any course they could purchase, for any amount of money — and "boil it down" into a brief Confidential Report so simple, so clear, and so immediately and apparently effective that they could master it, COMPLETELY, in just 5 life-transforming minutes!

This simple at-home technique completely does away with any belief you may have — or others have tried to give you — that there is any mystery whatsoever in utilizing the full power of Transcendental Meditation!

It proves to you immediately that, this way, you need neither "Guru" nor "Master"! That there is no need for you to leave your own home to learn to use it to full efficiency! That there are no long, involved courses to master! No high-paid instructors to dominate or humiliate you! No $125, or more, paid before you receive the first lesson alone; and no further cash outlays for "follow-up lessons," or "periodic check-ups"!

And as for your private Mantra, once you send me your name, I will send you — FREE — a private Mantra for yourself alone, that will belong to no one else in all the world. Once you have this Free Private Mantra, then the ability to gain this deep relaxation, peace and overwhelming release from hypertension is yours already! Yours as your natural human heritage! What I have done for you is simply given you what I believe to be the shortest and most effective — and scientifically proven — way (a "Key," if you wish to call it so) to tap that natural gift!

So this is NOT an "esoteric," "mystic," or "magic" specialized technique, available only to the wealthy few! It is, instead, a "universal path" that is accessible at once to all, no matter what their age or financial position, or psychological state today!

You Will Realize, Right From The Start, That You Are Doing The Right Things, BECAUSE YOU WILL SEE THE IMMEDIATE RESULTS!

These will be so dramatically evident that you will instantly know you are on the right track! You will actually learn how to use Transcendental Meditation in only five minutes! And you will find out, in that short time alone, that there is absolutely no harmful effect . . . nor will you be startled by any strange symptoms from using this proven form of Meditation!

In fact, you will be overjoyed to find it so utlimately simple, and with such immediate benefits that last forever in your life!

And One Last Pledge, That NO Other Form Of Transcendental Meditation — Can Make To You:

And that is this: That you may then go beyond the mere physiological and psychological benefits of this De-Mystified Transcendental Meditation . . . and actually release the higher creative powers of your spirit and mind! For example:

1) You will be shown how to achieve permanent peace of mind, tranquility and inner joy, with the resulting "invulnerability" to outside stresses and strains!

2) You will be shown how to rid yourself at last of bad habits, such as smoking, alcoholism, gambling, drug addiction, or lesser habits such as laziness, procrastination and all the other "failure syndromes" that might be holding you back in life!

3) You will learn to use Transcendental Meditation to overcome personality defects such as an inferiority complex, self-consciousness and fear of inadequacy; and build instead a strong, self-reliant, magnetic personality!

4) Such personal magnetism, and improved powers of mind, may then be programmed to focus your higher mind centers on poise, confidence and success! This, in turn, could easily lead you to become wealthy through your career or business, and thus build ever-increasing financial security for yourself and your family!

5) And, as an extra benefit of such heightened personal magnetism, a simple shift in the focus of your daily Meditations can give you great new sexual and romantic powers, new joys in love, and perhaps the true "soul mate" you have yearned for for years!

6) Then, if you so choose, you may even wish to ascend to the highest plane of Transcendental Meditation . . . develop the psychic powers that are latent within your superconscious mind . . . and, as I have, prove to yourself that ESP, pre-cognition and all the rest are as much actual facts, as magnetism or electricity!

And All This, IN ADDITION To The Primary Health Benefits You Start Getting In The First Five Minutes! AND ALL FULLY GUARANTEED . . . LIKE THIS:

I have so much confidence in the mind and body healing benefits of my De-Mystified Transcendental Meditation that I'm willing to make you this air-tight money-back guarantee: If, after 30 days, you are not entirely convinced of the full power of this De-Mystified Transcendental Meditation, just return this report to me for every cent of your money back! Could anything be fairer?

What Science Says About The "Art" of Mind Reading

True or False? It's easier for a woman to read a man's mind than another woman's. (See number 5.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. It's the rare person who can actually read another person's mind.

2. The ability to empathize can't be taught or acquired with practice.

3. People who are good at reading minds tend to have specific personality characteristics in common.

4. It's easier to connect up with another person's thoughts if you don't look him directly in the eye because this may result in a guarded attitude and make it more difficult to penetrate his mental defenses.

5. It's easier for a woman to read a man's mind than another woman's.

6. Most people are intrigued by the idea of reading other people's minds, but they don't like it when someone reads theirs.

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies show that a great many people can read other people's minds, and have the ability to correctly judge their thoughts, feelings, moods and inclinations. Psychologists call this empathy, which is the ability to understand another person's state of mind. Tests show that people possess this in varying degrees, ranging from a limited capacity to the ability to tune in on a person's innermost thoughts almost at will.

2. False. The keen insight and acute perceptiveness required for empathizing—knowing another person's thoughts and feelings—can be developed. In fact, one leading university has organized a course with videotaped weekly exercises focusing on the use of empathy as an observation tool. And a team of Johns Hopkins University investigators points out that acute sensitivity to what goes on in other people's minds can be a tremendous social asset. It makes it possible to avoid many misunderstandings, enables one to anticipate the feelings and expectations of others and to truly understand and appreciate the other's point of view. It's also noted that this faculty provides the best insurance against being taken in by con artists or glib-talking salesmen.

3. True. At the University of Wisconsin, a team of investigators gave hundreds of students empathy tests designed to assess the ability to perceive another's thoughts. Each subject was then given a personality test. Those who averaged the best empathy scores were described as "people who are sociable, who like parties, have many friends and need people around to talk to. They crave excitement, take chances, act on the spur of the moment and are generally impulsive. They are carefree, easygoing, optimistic." A further finding: Highly empathic individuals were found to be the best adjusted and the least likely to have neurotic tendencies.

4. False. Psychological studies at the University of California show that some individuals engage in eye contact more readily than others. Students, after being observed, were divided into two groups: the "eye-contact maintainers" and the "eye-contact avoiders." All were then tested on their ability to empathize. Results: The eye-contact maintainers scored appreciably higher on the tests than the eye-contact avoiders.

5. False. Investigators from two leading universities tested men and women on their ability to perceive the thoughts and emotions of an equal number of men and women. Findings: Both men and women were significantly better at reading the thoughts of members of their own sex. And a previous investigation indicates that "men and women understand the personalities of members of their own sex better than they do those of the opposite sex."

6. True. The findings of a study of attitudes, conducted at Memphis State University, showed a marked reluctance on the part of students to having their thoughts known by others. Most did not wish even close acquaintances to be empathic. They didn't want to be too well understood, even by their friends.

Say hello to Max.

The maximum 120mm cigarette.

Great tobaccos. Terrific taste.

A Chat With Hollywood's Leading Make-Up Expert

By Rosalyn Abrevaya
FAMILY WEEKLY Senior Editor

Steve Shapiro/Transworld

Diana Ross illustrates some of Masters's beauty tips for black women. Note the hair shade and the way focus is kept on the eyes.

Ann-Margret happily received a make-up plan from Masters following facial surgery after an onstage accident.

George Masters may well be the highest paid cosmetic artist in the world. He started at age 15 as an apprentice to Elizabeth Arden. By 16, Masters had built up an exclusive clientele of socialites, including the Duchess of Windsor and Mrs. Henry Ford II. Currently in the works: His own half-hour syndicated television show, to be called "The Masters' Touch."

George Masters

FAMILY WEEKLY: Christmas is often such a trying time for women. What do you recommend for holiday make-up?

MASTERS: For parties and special events, I like to see heightened eye make-up. I'm against elaborate hair styles that look like a woman is "trying too hard."

MASTERS: After she applies her make-up, a clever trick is to "set" it by daubing with a slightly moist nonporous cosmetic sponge. Also, prop up a mirror in the kitchen, then touch up your face with loose powder as needed.

FW: What make-up do you recommend for black women?

MASTERS: I find that a tawny or gold eye shadow is the most flattering—not a bright gold, but something with yellow, red or brown tones in it. But women with puffy eyelids should stay away from light shadows entirely. Natural or tinted lip gloss is good, but the focus should be directed up towards the woman's eyes. In many cases, a black woman looks very becoming when she lightens her hair to a softer brown or a reddish tone.

MASTERS: Many women use a cream-base foundation, and they really shouldn't—especially women with enlarged pores and oily skin. Down South, women tend to have enlarged pores due to humidity. They should wear a water-base matte-finish make-up. In making up the eyes, women with blue eyes should try shadows in colors like navy, plum, forest or charcoal green. Those with brown eyes can use any color except brown, especially if there is any sign of dark circles under the eyes.

FW: Can you tell us about some of the famous women you have known as a make-up consultant?

MASTERS: Lynda Bird Johnson was intriguing. I couldn't get over her asking me if she really needed to wear make-up the night she was going to the Academy Awards with George Hamilton. She was planning to wear a gold lamé dress with sable cuffs and collar. Without any make-up, she would have been lost behind that dress. So I actually shaved her eyebrows off and moved them up to make her eyes more prominent. Then I had to shave a bit of her hairline and raise it to match the eyebrows. And all the time I was there with a razor in my hand, I was under the watchful eye of the Secret Service men.

Then, there is a trick the late Marilyn Monroe taught me that I'd like to pass on. Just before leaving the house, stand with your back to a full-length mirror. Glance back quickly and the first thing that strikes your eye, eliminate. By this she meant, if your hair is the first thing you notice, soften the style and tone it down. If your dangle earrings catch your attention first, remove them. The ultimate lesson is that the focus should be on the woman herself—because a woman is more beautiful than any ornamentation a designer can invent.

YOUR EYES CAN HEAL THEMSELVES

once you learn to relax them back towards normal, this eye specialist's ingenious way...

If You Suffer From A Single One Of These Torturous Symptoms Of Weak Eyes—Bad Eyes—Failing Eyes—THEN THESE FACTS BELOW MAY BE THE MOST IMPORTANT YOU HAVE EVER READ IN YOUR LIFE!

Because they reveal, for perhaps the first time in your life, how the muscles surrounding your eyes may have tricked you into the following agonizing symptoms: Near-sightedness . . . Far-sightedness . . . Astigmatism . . . The inability to read without glasses . . . Crossed eyes . . .

Easily fatigued eyes, and the headaches, tension, anxiety, insomnia, and bone-weariness they so often cause . . .

And any other condition of the eye that causes you to be a prisoner of glasses, where you are forced to watch your eyes weaken year after year; and go back to that doctor, year after year, for new glasses that are always thicker and thicker, stronger and stronger, uglier and uglier than the year before!

And Every One Of These Symptoms May Actually Be Controlled . . . And Then Diminished . . . And Then Eliminated—OFTEN BY AS LITTLE AS THIS ONE SIMPLE INSIGHT INTO THEIR HIDDEN CAUSE!

If you suffer from any of the symptoms listed above, then you must understand at once that your eyes are not ill . . . they have not deteriorated . . . they have not lost their true power to see in any way!

What has happened to them instead is simply this:

What has gone wrong with your eyes is not their lenses themselves, but the muscles surrounding them, that focus those eyes by lengthening or flattening them!

If these muscles are used properly, then your eyes are focused correctly, and you see sharply and clearly. But if you mis-use these muscles—if, for example, you clamp them around your eyes too tightly—then you will unconsciously and habitually throw those eyes out of focus, and you will develop one of the agonizing symptoms listed above!

(It's exactly as if you were playing golf or tennis, and you habitually tried to hit the ball too hard. Your muscles tighten to the point of "freezing" . . . you lose your natural coordination . . . every move you make is "blurred" in one way or another . . . and after awhile your entire body aches with fatigue!)

So "Weak" Eyes Are Caused By Tense Muscles! And To Make Those Eyes Strong Again, You Have To Learn How To LOOSEN Those "Rigid" Muscles, AND LET YOUR EYES "FLOW BACK" INTO CORRECT FOCUS AGAIN!

Let us repeat this vital fact: To correct any or all of these symptoms, you do not exercise your eyes! You do not strengthen your eyes! You do not place more strain or pain or burden on those already-overburdened eyes at all!

What you do instead is this:

You simply learn how to RELAX those tightly-clamped muscles, in the ingenious fashion taught to you by this internationally-famous eye-specialist and physician!

In other words, you stop fighting these agonizing symptoms (which only intensifies them in an ever-increasing spiral of poorer and poorer vision), and—instead—give them the soothing treatment that lets them "loosen up" and start healing themselves!

And—once you have coaxed relaxation back into those over-strained eyes, just as the normal eye is always relaxed when it sees without effort—then you can gently and effortlessly RE-TRAIN them to lengthen and shorten the eyeball as they really should!

And then, finally, once your eyes have been trained to stop over-straining . . . to focus normally again, without conscious effort . . . to loosen up enough to automatically shift focus 70 times a second, exactly as the normal tension-free eye does—then those eyes will, from that moment on, give you sharper sight, clearer sight, more perfect sight, every single day that you continue to use them!

HOW DR. WILLIAM M. BATES ARRIVED AT HIS REVOLUTIONARY DISCOVERY...

"Why", asked this renowned eye specialist, several years ago, "If glasses are the correct procedure for sub-normal eyes, must these glasses be strengthened because the eyes under their influence have weakened?"

Anyone who has worn glasses knows this to be the usual case. But, logically, if a medicine is good, the doses should be weakened because the patient has grown stronger!

Therefore, Dr. Bates drew his revolutionary conclusion: That the outer muscles of the eye, and not the lens, when they are mis-used, cause blurred sight! And that we make our own eye troubles, by tightening the wrong group of muscles on the outside of the eye-ball?

All the rest you see on this page follows inevitably from this simple fact! And it has never been refuted, though for purely commercial reasons it is not generally accepted in this country!

Think Of Eyes Growing Sharper And Sharper Each Day, Instead Of Fuzzier And Fuzzier! Think Of Glasses Being Put Away, For Longer And Longer Periods, TILL FINALLY YOUR FRIENDS AND FAMILY GASP IN DELIGHT AS YOU NO LONGER NEED THEM AT ALL!

Again, the key is Scientific Relaxation! Freeing the eye to do again what it once did automatically and unconsciously! Allowing the clear, brilliant sight which still remains within the eye to spring back to life, once the "muscle-chains" that are clamping it down are released!

And the results are often astounding! Let us give you just a few—directly from the pages of this great book:

"Simple as this (relaxation) drill seems, it tricks the sub-normal eye into doing all the natural things that the normal eye does unconsciously . . . As your vision improves daily you will get the effect that all the world has had its face washed.'

"Suddenly the muscles let go, shaping the eyeball normally for a moment or two, so the entire panorama stands out perfectly just as with normal vision. The vision is so vivid and comes so suddenly that it literally takes the breath away, and they gasp or cry out. These flashes are sure proof that the vision is within the eye, as soon as the eye can be relaxed to permit vision to take place. Vision is like a faucet: tension turns it off, relaxation turns it on."

"I once worked with a cataract case, whose vision we had improved with our method to such an extent that I called in a doctor, who worked sympathetically with us, to examine his eyes with a power ophthalmoscope. One eye the doctor found to be entirely cleared of cataract."

In Fact, Case History After Case History Proves That Cure May Be So Dramatically Fast That Even Your Ophthalmologist May Beg You For The Secret!

Once again, it doesn't matter which of the agonizing symptoms listed above you are suffering from right now . . . how "deeply entrenched" they are . . . how long you have been plagued by them . . . how "weak" or "failing" or "out-of-control" your eyes may feel today! Here is specific, step-by-immediate-step advice that will (again to quote directly from the book itself) "be free from pain and discomfort, able to do normal seeing in God's sunlight"!

IMPROVEMENT BOOKS CO., Dept. 11076

If You, Or A Loved One, Suffer From Serious Eye Damage (Such As The Following) READ THESE FACTS AT ONCE:

The most amazing thing about the Bates Method of relaxed vision, described on this page, is the fact that formerly "hopeless" conditions of the eye—such as atrophy, glaucoma, cataract, sympathetic opthalmia and even detachment and hemorrhage—may often be improved by its methods, if there is any vision left at all with which to work!

For example:

Why, with this method, no strain at all is necessary; any strain at all interferes! And therefore you must PLAY at your simple relaxation drills! Do them easily! Don't make work of them—since they are NOT exercises; but looseners!

Why this method is completely harmless, since it is relaxation, and not exercise. And relaxation is never harmful!

Why this method removes both physical and mental strain! And why, as you relax, this proper way, the act of relaxation actually speeds circulation through your eyeball, to carry away impurities and bring fresh stimulation to the retina!

Why this treatment's beautifying effect on the eyes is "miraculous"! Why eyes treated this way have a sparkle and high luster that no beauty drops ever give! Are never watery, gritty, itching or bloodshot! Why they are suddenly turned into wide and "shining-youthful" eyes!

Why "old-age sight"—the inability to read without glasses—can now be forestalled and prevented in all types of eyes!

How both motion pictures and television can now be both effortless and good for the eyes—and actually used as sharp-vision builders for sub-normal eyes!

And—perhaps most startling of all—why even failing memories can often be restored by improving the vision this way!

Smart Cooking
Day Before Payday

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a party dish for pennies a serving. "This Potato 'n' Frank Skillet Pie makes a perfect brunch or supper for holiday parties," says Marilyn. "And it's so economical, even pinched post-Christmas pocketbooks can afford it!"

A Budget Dish Pretty Enough for Guests

MIMOSA COCKTAILS

1 orange, halved
White granulated sugar
1½ cups orange or pineapple juice
1-qt. bottle chilled ginger ale*
6 orange slices

1. Using 6- or 7-oz. wine or champagne glasses, spin the edge of each glass over cut half of orange. Then dip edges of glasses in granulated sugar. Let dry.
2. Fill each glass with equal parts orange juice and ginger ale. Garnish side of glass with orange slice. Makes 6 servings

*Editor's Note: If budget permits, use chilled champagne.

POTATO 'N' FRANK SKILLET PIE

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ lb. frankfurters, sliced
4 cups frozen hash brown potatoes with onions and peppers
⅓ cup chopped celery
6 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 cup (4 ozs.) shredded Monterey Jack, muenster or cheddar cheese

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. In 10-inch skillet, heat butter until melted. Add frankfurters, hash brown mix and celery. Cook, stirring, for 5 minutes.
2. With spoon, spread potato mixture on bottom and up sides of pan to form a pie crust.
3. Beat eggs with salt and pepper; add cheese. Pour into crust. Reduce heat to medium and cook about 5 minutes until eggs are partially set.
4. Place in oven and bake 15 to 17 minutes longer, or until eggs are set. Cut into wedges to serve. Makes 6 servings

CINNAMON-NUT MUFFINS

1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons wheat germ
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup finely chopped walnuts
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
⅓ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 egg, beaten

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Grease 12 muffin cups.
2. In medium bowl, mix together flour, wheat germ, sugars, cinnamon and nutmeg. Set aside 2 tablespoons for topping.
3. Add walnuts, baking powder and salt to remaining flour mixture. Stir to combine.
4. Combine milk, butter and egg; add to flour mixture. Stir with a fork until blended.
5. Spoon batter into prepared muffin cups. Sprinkle with reserved flour mixture.
6. Bake for 18 to 20 minutes. Cool for 5 minutes; then loosen with spatula and remove from pans. Serve warm. Makes 1 dozen muffins

What's Smart: When shopping for frankfurters, look at the label to find out the ingredients. Ingredients in the largest amounts are listed first. The U.S.D.A. requires that frankfurters contain no more than 30 percent fat (the same fat allotment allowed for fresh ground hamburger). This fat content regulation is the same for all frankfurters, whether beef, pork or a combination of both. Most frankfurters on the market today contain 28 percent fat. . . . Protein-wise, 3½ ozs. of frankfurters (about 2) provide 13 grams of protein and 309 calories. A recent innovation in franks today is the all-chicken frankfurter appearing in supermarkets across the country.

What in the World!

EILEEN AND JERRY FORD
"We're a union"

What's the secret of success in the modeling business? "Looking at people is largely wasted energy," said Eileen Ford, who with husband Jerry heads the Ford Modeling Agency. "If I could find just one Lauren Hutton a year, everything would be easy, but that's just not the way it works. There are absolute requirements in this business. Don't let anybody kid you. A model must have narrow ribs, broad shoulders, good legs and wide-set eyes. If she doesn't, she won't photograph well." What part does she feel the Ford Agency has played in the growth of the industry (Ford had billings of $5 million last year)? "Jerry and I made this business. Every improvement in the industry was made by us. I think one reason we're successful is because Jerry and I are a union."

The super-tough childhoods of early America: "In most Puritan colonial families, children . . .were coaxed or bludgeoned into joining society more or less as if they were delinquent or dull-witted adults. A Puritan infant, lying in its cradle shaking a rattle, was enjoying the only unearned and unguilt-ridden recreation of its lifetime. Toddlers were put to work feeding chickens, winding spools and gathering kindling. By the time a child reached the age of seven, he was a veteran worker. When a Puritan child was neither working nor studying, he was apt to be saying his prayers—there were six hours of sermons and psalms on Sunday and a religious lecture on Thursday evenings. Church attendance was mandatory; no excuses were accepted short of serious illness. Boys and girls sat separately and were discouraged from playing or falling asleep by a tithing-man equipped with a stout staff. On Christmas Day, some groups did feast and celebrate, but the Puritans carried on work and business as usual." From "The Little Darlings: A History of Child Rearing in America," by Mary Cable (Scribner's, $8.95).

BOFFERS AT PLAY
No sore losers

Revivals abound from the arts to sports and games. But the modern-day versions are never quite as good as the originals. So it is with "boffers," the three-foot-long foam rubber swords that may replace the rapiers of former times. With chivalry dead and day-to-day problems overruling romance, nobody is interested in risking anything. Who's buying boffers? They seem to be the rage with married couples who argue a lot and are tired of breaking vases and windows. Boffers prove the pen is mightier than the sword.

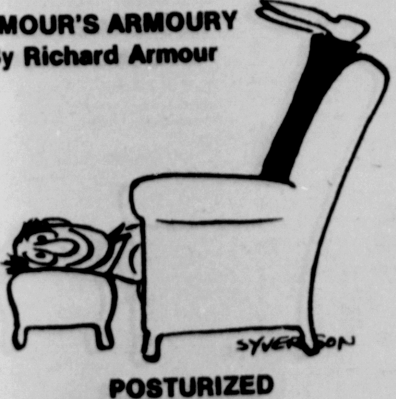
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



POSTURIZED

I love to tilt back in a chair
And put my feet up high—
Up on my desk or anything
That's sturdy and nearby.

No doubt it looks ungainly.
And yet it makes my weary feet
Feel good, and that's why mainly.

But more important, I confess
(A thought that must be heeded),
The blood flows up from feet to brain,

Bill: "Leave me out of it, Betty. You two just go ahead and fight it out between yourselves." —Thomas LaMance

Our eight-year-old daughter sang in a youth choir festival recently. After rehearsal, I asked what the director was like. She said, "He wears glasses and he's losing his hair." I then asked how old she thought he was. After a pause, she replied, "He's in his thirties, but he's still going strong." —Nola Caulkins
